4. Arlen Ness lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to the truth of the allegations in Paragraph 4 of the Complaint and, therefore, denies the same.

5. Arlen Ness admits that Arlen Ness competes with Plaintiffs to sell motorcycle parts to consumers through online stores and that Arlen Ness sells motorcycle parts on Amazon.com. Arlen Ness denies all other allegations in Paragraph 5 of the Complaint.

ICE MILLER LLP

the extent that Exhibit 2 is inconsistent with the California Secretary of State's records, Arlen Ness denies the allegations contained in Paragraph 6 and Exhibit 2.

To the extent that Paragraph 8 of the Complaint sets forth factual allegations, Arlen Ness admits that it is a California corporation with its principal place of business in Dublin, California.

To the extent that Paragraph 9 of the Complaint sets forth factual allegations, Arlen Ness admits that it reported Plaintiffs' infringing activities to Amazon.com in or around January of 2022 stating that Plaintiffs' products infringed on Arlen Ness's trademark rights. Arlen Ness lacks knowledge or information sufficient to for a belief as to whether Plaintiffs responded to inquiries from Amazon.com regarding the subject listings or whether Plaintiffs took any action whatsoever in response other than the filing the above-captioned action. ICE MILLER LLP allegations in Paragraph 11 of the Complaint. Arlen Ness further denies that its claim that it used the DEEP CUT mark as early as August 1, 2008, was false.

For its response to Paragraph 13 of the Complaint, Arlen Ness states that the records of the USPTO speak for themselves; however, to the extent that the allegations in Paragraph 13 are inconsistent with the Office Action Response Arlen Ness filed with the USPTO, Arlen Ness denies the allegations contained Paragraph 13 of the Complaint.

14. For its response to Paragraph 14 of the Complaint, Arlen Ness denies that, as of August 6, 2018, its competitors, including Plaintiffs, were using DEEP CUT in a non-infringing manner in connection with motorcycle products. Arlen Ness alleges and avers that DEEP CUT is suggestive of Arlen Ness's products, is inherently distinctive, and was protectable as an Arlen Ness trademark as early as August 1, 2008, more than ten years before the response to the USPTO Office Actin referenced in the Complaint. Arlen Ness alleges and avers that third-party uses of DEEP CUT in or around August 6, 2018, were either infringing Arlen Ness's common-law trademark rights or were uses referring to Arlen Ness's legitimate Deep Cut branded products.

Arlen Ness admits that it formally objected to several of Plaintiffs' Amazon.com listings, which wrongfully and unlawfully used DEEP CUT to sell infringing products contrary to Arlen Ness's federal and common-law rights. Arlen Ness lacks knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as to what actually prompted Amazon.com to remove any Amazon.com listing originally posted by any of the Plaintiffs. Arlen Ness denies that any Plaintiff suffered any harm or damage as a result of any wrongful act by Arlen Ness.

31. Arlen Ness states that Paragraph 31 of the Complaint sets forth legal conclusions to which no response is required. To the extent that Paragraph 31 of the Complaint sets forth factual allegations, Arlen Ness denies said allegations including, in particular, that Arlen Ness engaged in any unlawful, unfair, or fraudulent business act or practice with respect to any Plaintiff or the DEEP CUT trademark.

Arlen Ness reserves the right to pursue this defense based on additional information obtained through discovery from the Plaintiffs, Amazon.com, or otherwise.

WHEREFORE, based upon the foregoing admissions, denials, and averments, Arlen Ness states that Plaintiffs should take nothing by their Complaint. Arlen Ness respectfully requests that the Court dismiss Plaintiffs' claims with prejudice, and award Arlen Ness its costs and fees incurred in connection with this action, as well as all such other legal and equitable relief as this Court deems appropriate under the circumstances.

BACKGROUND FACTS

10. Arlen Darold Ness is known worldwide as the "godfather" of custom motorcycles. See Exhibit 1.

11. After buying his first motorcycle (a 1947 Harley-Davidson® Knucklehead) in 1963 with $300 he earned in bowling winnings, which he subsequently customized, Mr. Ness soon found himself winning motorcycle show after motorcycle show.

12. With demand quickly rising for his unique customized motorcycles, Mr. Ness began selling custom-painted motorcycles out of his garage in San Leandro, California, in the mid-1960s.

13. While operating his custom-motorcycle business, Mr. Ness continued to enter into and win motorcycle shows, rebuilding his original '47 Knucklehead every year to compete.

14. During this frequent dismantling and rebuilding of his 1947 motorcycle, Mr. Ness discovered there was a lack of variety of motorcycle parts for the aftermarket and customized motorcycle industry.

15. In 1970, as a result of this shortage of custom aftermarket parts, Mr. Ness started what is now a multi-billion-dollar-a-year custom motorcycle industry.

16. Today, the company that Mr. Ness founded sells a catalogue of hundreds of custom motorcycle parts under internationally famous brands such as Arlen Ness®, ®, Deep Cut®, Monster Sucker®, Beveled®, and many others.

17. Arlen Ness, the company that Mr. Ness founded, has been an innovator in motorcycle parts manufacturing, being the first manufacturer to use computer numerical control (i.e., "CNC") machining to produce high-quality, show-ready motorcycle components.

ICE MILLER LLP

18. Arlen Ness takes great pride in its products and expends extraordinary time and energy to protect its intellectual property. Arlen Ness's products are protected by both utility and design patents, as well as trademarks.

19. Motorcycles and parts from the Mr. Ness's eponymous brand have been featured in numerous collections, publications, movies, and television shows, including the New York Times®, Motorcyle.com, the movie "Why We Ride," the documentary "Biker Build-Off," and FX's "Sons of Anarchy."

20. Before passing in 2019, Mr. Ness sealed his immortal status in custom motorcycle lore by being inducted into the AMA Motorcycle Hall of Fame and the Sturgis Motorcycle Museum & Hall of Fame, and by earning the first Sturgis Motorcycle Museum & Hall of Fame Lifetime Achievement Award, an annual award that now bears his name. Mr. Ness's company, Arlen Ness, remains one of the largest custom motorcycle parts companies in the U.S.

21. Indeed, after fifty years in business, Arlen Ness and its well-known brands have become synonymous with high-quality custom motorcycle parts, which are sought after today by riders and museums throughout the world.

Arlen Ness's DEEP CUT® Mark

22. The phrase "deep cut" (like "deep wound" and "serious cut") means a penetrating laceration of the skin and is used by Arlen Ness as a trademark to evoke and suggest the "rugged toughness" of motorcycles and of motorcycle riders.

23. In 2008, Arlen Ness, the entity, originally conceived of and first began using DEEP CUT® for motorcycle parts—none of which have or exhibit literal "deep cuts." Instead, Arlen Ness motorcycle parts feature either complete holes or smooth, shallow grooves.

24. "Deep Cut" is not a term of art in the motorcycle industry and does not describe any CNC process or characteristic, nor any motorcycle product trait or feature.

25. When Arlen Ness first conceived of and adopted the DEEP CUT® brand in 2008, Arlen Ness was not aware of any other use of the phrase by anyone for motorcycle parts—or even for automotive parts in general.

ICE MILLER LLP

26. Arlen Ness uses its DEEP CUT® mark to advertise and sell a unique line or "style" of motorcycle parts; Arlen Ness does not use DEEP CUT® in any descriptive or generic manner.

27. Arlen Ness has continuously and substantially exclusively used DEEP CUT® for custom motorcycle parts since 2008, with only a handful of third-party infringers using some variation of the DEEP CUT® mark for motorcycle parts during that time period. Other uses of DEEP CUT® by third parties have used that name to refer to Arlen Ness's products.

28. Arlen Ness has policed unauthorized third-party uses of Arlen Ness's DEEP CUT mark by, among things, (i) registering the mark with the United States Patent and Trademark Office ("the USPTO"), (ii) instituting an anti-counterfeiting program in collaboration with Red Points® anti-counterfeiting detection service, and (iii) sending infringement notices to online platforms and to counterfeiters and infringers.

29. Arlen Ness registered the DEEP CUT® trademark for motorcycle parts in Class 7 and Class 12 before the United States Patent and Trademark Office ("USPTO") on January 1, 2019. A true and correct copy of the registration certificate for DEEP CUT (Reg. No. 5,640,507) is included in Exhibit 2 attached hereto.

30. Registration No. 5,640,507 is valid, subsisting, in full force and effect, and constitutes prima facie evidence of the validity of, and Arlen Ness's exclusive right to use, the DEEP CUT® mark pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1057(b).

The Arlen Ness "A" Logo

31. Arlen Ness also owns a registration for its unique logo design used for motorcycle parts in Class 7 and clothing and other attire in Class 25. A true and correct copy of the registration certificate for the logo design is included as Exhibit 3 attached hereto. The logo appears as follows:

ICE MILLER LLP

32. This registration is valid, subsisting, in full force and effect, and constitute prima facie evidence of the validity of, and Arlen Ness's exclusive right to use, the logo mark pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 1057(b).

Arlen Ness's United States Design Patent No. D522,942

33. On June 13, 2006, the USPTO issued United States Design Patent No. D522,942 (the "'942 Patent"), titled "FOUR-POINT MIRROR FOR MOTORCYCLES." The face of the '942 Patent lists Cory Ness as the inventor, and identifies Arlen Ness Enterprises, Inc. as the assignee.

34. The '942 Patent expired on June 13, 2020. Arlen Ness remained owner by assignment of the '942 Patent throughout its entire term.

35. The '942 Patent claims the ornamental design for a four-point mirror for motorcycles, as shown in the figures.

36. A true and correct copy of the '942 Patent is attached hereto as Exhibit 4.

Arlen Ness's United States Design Patent No. D570,755

37. On June 10, 2008, the USPTO issued United States Design Patent No. D570,755 (the "'755 Patent"), titled "VEHICLE MIRROR WITH FLARING SHAPE." The face of the '755 Patent lists Cory Ness as the inventor, and identifies Arlen Ness Enterprises, Inc. as the assignee.

38. The '755 Patent does not expire until June 10, 2022. Arlen Ness Enterprises, Inc. is the current assignee of the '755 Patent.

39. The '755 Patent claims the ornamental design for a vehicle mirror with flaring shape, as shown in the figures.

40. A true and correct copy of the '755 Patent is attached hereto as Exhibit 5.

Arlen Ness's Utility Patent U.S. 6,374,815

41. On June 13, 2006, the USPTO issued United States Patent No. 6,374,815 (the "'815 Patent"), titled "AIR CLEANER BASE ASSEMBLY WITH CRANKCASE BREATHER VENTS." The face of the '815 Patent lists Cory A. Ness and Jeffrey D. Border, as the inventors, and identifies Arlen Ness Enterprises, Inc. as the assignee.

42. The ’815 Patent expired on January 4, 2021. Arlen Ness remained owner by assignment of the ’815 Patent throughout its entire term.

43. The ’815 Patent claims a combination backing plate and crankcase breather for a motorcycle engine having at least a pair of cylinders, a cylinder head mounted on each cylinder, and a valve for connecting each cylinder head to the crankcase for venting the crankcase through an exit port in the cylinder head.

44. A true and correct copy of the ’815 Patent is attached hereto as Exhibit 6.

Counterfeiting Is A Significant Problem the U.S.

45. The sale of counterfeit products, especially by foreign individuals and entities over the internet, continues to be a major problem in the U.S.

46. For example, U.S. Customs and Border Protection personnel seized over 26,000 shipments containing counterfeit goods worth nearly $1.3 billion in fiscal year 2020 alone. See Exhibit 7 (report on counterfeiting from United States Customs and Border Protection Agency).

47. Notably, the “bulk of counterfeit products to the US come from China and its dependent territories,” accounting for over 90.6% of all cargo with IP rights violations, according to a report from the Buy Safe America Coalition. See Exhibit 8.

48. Additionally, the report states: “Of the $1.23 billion in total violations intercepted, $1.12 billion was from China…[and] it is estimated that $44.3 billion in additional illicit cargo is escaping detection. Id.

49. The online sale of counterfeit goods, especially by foreign actors in China, costs over 750,000 U.S. jobs a year, including jobs in Arlen Ness’s Dublin, California, headquarters. See Exhibit 7.

The Internet Store Owners’ Counterfeit Operation

50. Based on information and belief, the Internet Store Owners include and/or involve an unincorporated group of individuals located in China. This group uses Chinese manufacturers to manufacture counterfeit and infringing motorcycle parts and goods, imports them into the U.S., and then advertises and sells the goods through multiple online stores.

ICE MILLER LLP

51. Considerable information supports Arlen Ness's belief referenced above. First, the Internet Store Owners' California entities each originally listed the exact same address for their principal offices: 337 Paseo Sonrisa, Walnut, California 91789. See Combined Exhibit 9.

52. Second, three of the Internet Store Owners' California entities originally listed, and still list, an individual with the last name of "Hu" as the Manager/Member or Director (and sometimes also the CEO, Secretary, and Agent) of the entity. Specifically, Secret E lists "Tiezhuan Hu," XKH lists "Zhenkai Hu," and HK lists "Hongbai Hu." See Combined Exhibit 10.

53. Based on information and belief, these "Hu" individuals are merely aliases for the true identities of the Internet Store Owners that are used to conceal the true to hide the full scope and interworkings of their counterfeiting operation

54. Third, three of the Internet Store Onwers (Secret E, XKH, and HK) list the same principal office address of 2910 South Archibald Ave., Ontario CA 91761.

55. Said shared principal "office" at 2910 South Archibald Ave., Ontario CA 91761, however, upon information and belief, is a UPS store rather than an actual "office":

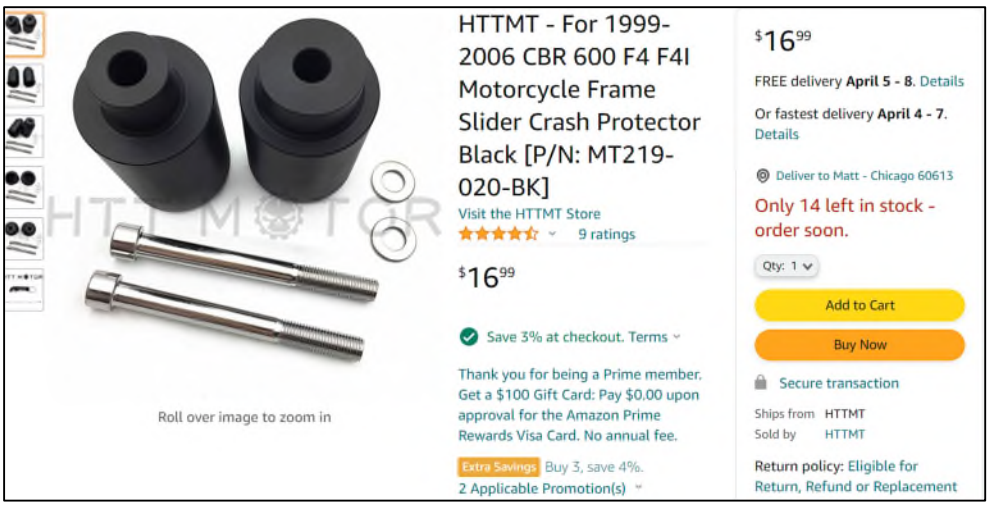

See Exhibit 10.

ICE MILLER LLP

56. Fourth, the same UPS store is listed as the personal address for each of the aforementioned "Hu" individuals. See Exhibit 10.

57. Fifth, the Internet Store Owners sell several of the same products, with all four Internet Store Owners even selling the same product that includes the "HTT MOTO" watermark on the photographs accompanying the product listing:

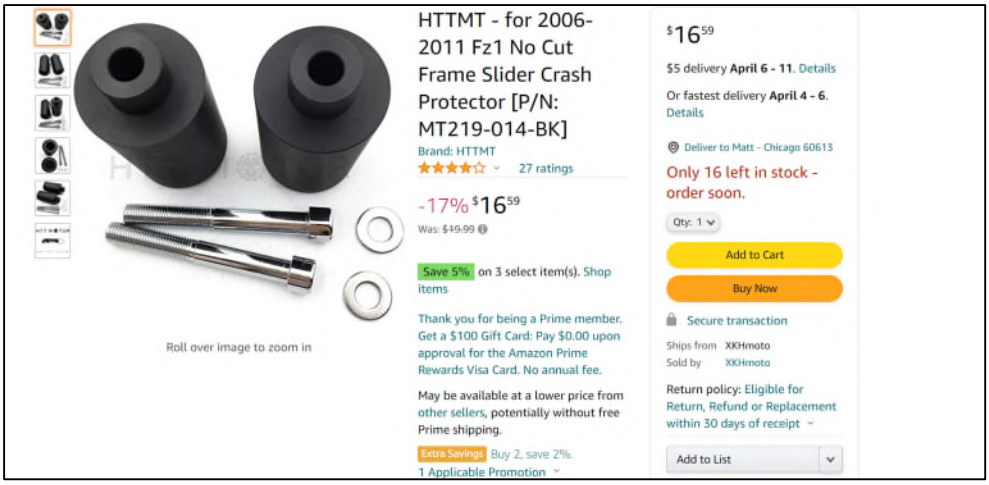

HTTMT's "HTTMT" Amazon Store

Secret E's "Secret E" Amazon Store

HK's "HK MOTO INC." Amazon Store

XKH's "XKHmoto" Amazon Store

See Exhibit 11.

58. Sixth, based on information and belief, each of the four Internet Store Owners manufactures its products in, and imports its products from, China.

59. Seventh, the four Internet Store Owners hired the same attorney to bring the instant lawsuit.

60. Based on information and belief, the Internet Store Owners use multiple seller aliases and owner aliases to conceal their true identities, to hide the full scope and interworking of their counterfeiting operation, and to avoid or mitigate liability.

ICE MILLER LLP

61. On information and belief, the Internet Store Owners reside in, and operate their online stores from, the People's Republic of China—a country with a lax patent and trademark enforcement system.

62. Based on information and belief, the Internet Store Owners also maintain off-shore bank accounts and regularly move funds from their financial accounts to off-shore bank accounts outside the jurisdiction of this Court to avoid payment of any monetary judgment awarded to Arlen Ness.

63. The Internet Store Owners also rely on third-party service providers that do not adequately subject new sellers to verification and confirmation of their identities, allowing them to "routinely use false or inaccurate names and addresses when registering with these e-commerce platforms." Daniel C.K. Chow, Alibaba, Amazon, and Counterfeiting in the Age of the Internet, 40 NW. J. INT'L L. & BUS. 157, 186 (2020); see also Exhibit 12 (report on "Combating Trafficking in Counterfeit and Pirated Goods" prepared by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Office of Strategy, Policy, and Plans (Jan. 24, 2020) that finds for "at least some e-commerce platforms, little identifying information is necessary for a counterfeiter to begin selling" and recommending that "[s]ignificantly enhanced vetting of thirdparty sellers" is necessary).

64. By selling the same products through multiple online stores on multiple platforms, the Internet Store Owners take advantage of the "bureaucratic or technical hurdles" created by e-commerce platforms that reduce the ability of brand owners like Arlen Ness to locate and stop the sale of counterfeits. See Daniel C.K. Chow, Alibaba, Amazon, and Counterfeiting in the Age of the Internet, 40 NW. J. INT'L L. & BUS. at 186-87.

65. The Internet Store Owners import and then sell hundreds of counterfeit and infringing products to U.S. consumers, including but certainly not limited to products using famous third-party brands such as Harley-Davidson®, Honda®, Yamaha®, Suzuki®, and even smaller brands like AlloyArt™:

67. The Internet Store Owners' attempt to hide their sale of products with counterfeit trademarks only highlights the willfulness of their counterfeiting.

The Internet Store Owners' Sale of Counterfeit and Infringing Arlen Ness® Products

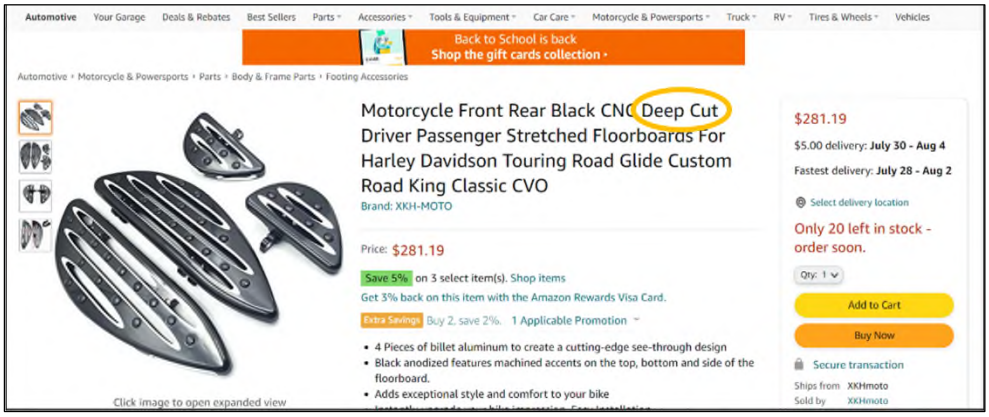

68. In or around April of 2019, the Internet Store Owners' four Amazon stores triggered over 200 infringement alerts from Arlen Ness's anticounterfeiting program.

69. After reviewing each of those listings, Arlen Ness caused infringement reports to be filed with Amazon.com against the 65 most egregious listings, all of which used Arlen Ness's DEEP CUT® as a trademark in the title of clear knockoff products.

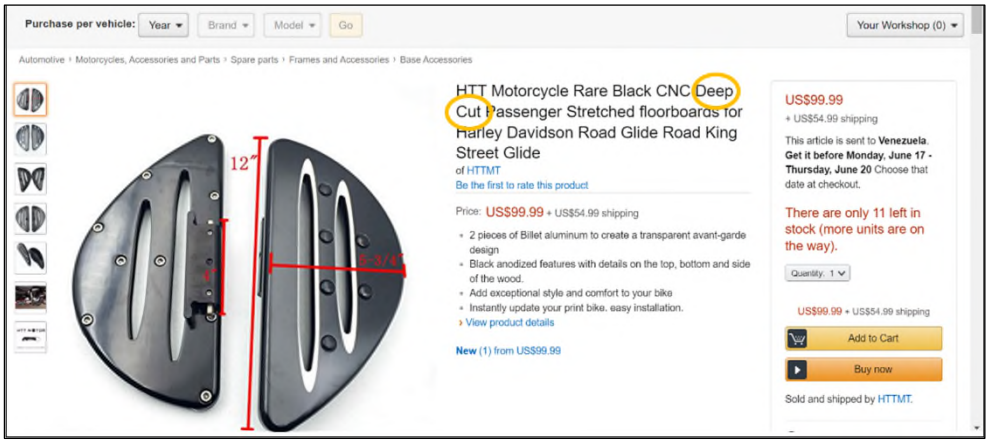

70. It was clear from these listings, and several others, that the Internet Store Owners knowingly and intentionally used Arlen Ness's identical mark for identical goods in order to profit off the goodwill that Arlen Ness built up in the DEEP CUT® mark over years of investment and commercial success, as shown in the screenshots of the Internet Store Owners' Amazon.com listings below:

Secret E's "Secret E" Amazon Store

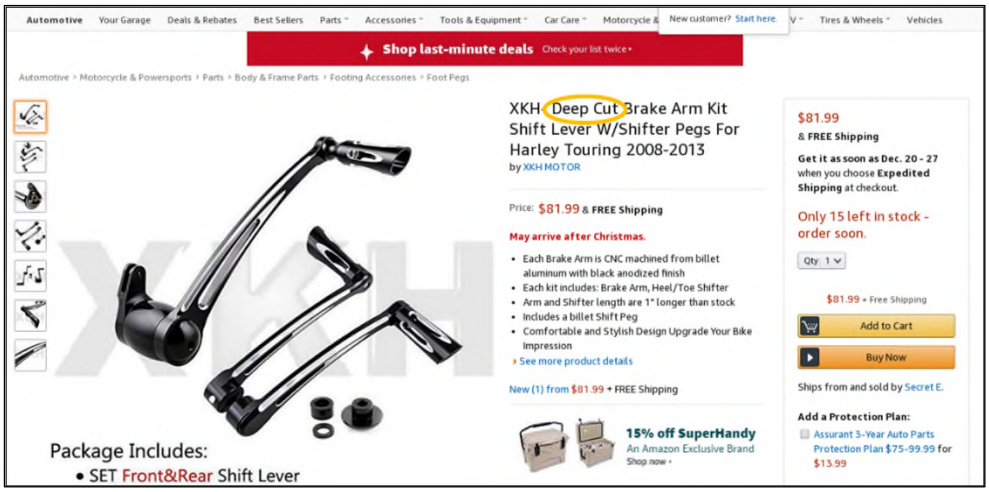

HKH's "HKHMoto" Amazon Store

HTTMT's "HTTMT" Amazon Store

ICE MILLER LLP

Secret E's "Secret E" Amazon Store

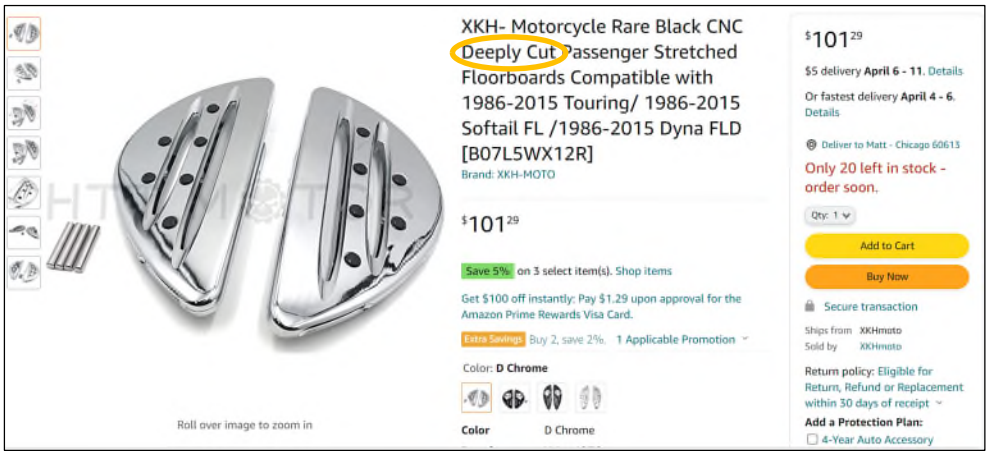

See Combined Exhibit 15.

71. Upon information and belief, the Internet Store Owners used Arlen Ness's well-known DEEP CUT® trademark in product titles and meta tags in order to generate traffic from consumers on Amazon and to attract various search engines crawling the Internet looking for websites relevant to consumer searches for genuine goods.

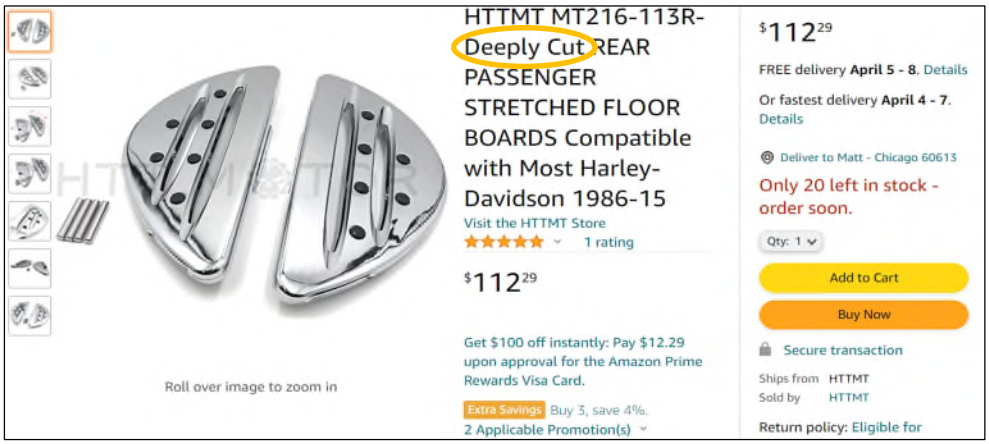

72. The Internet Store Owners also used—and still use—virtually identical versions of Arlen Ness's DEEP CUT® mark for clear knock-off products:

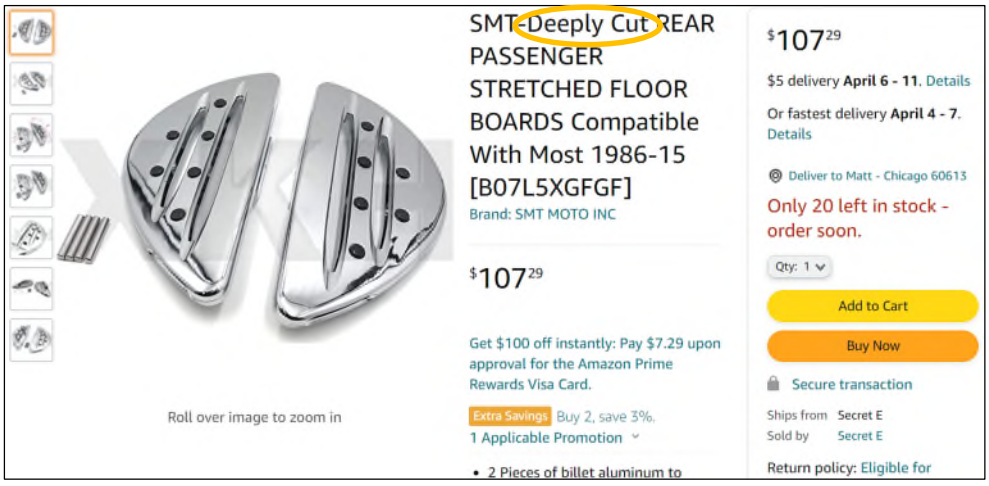

Arlen Ness Authorized Reseller on Amazon

XKH's "XKHmoto" Amazon Store

HTTMT's "HTTMT" Amazon Store

Secret E's "Secret E" Amazon Store

See Exhibit 16.

73. In addition, the Internet Store Owners sold—and today still sell—knockoff products infringing on Arlen Ness's design and utility patents, including the following:

 Arlen Ness® Four Point Chrome Mirror	 Knockoff Version (Sold on "HTTMT" Amazon Store)
 Arlen Ness® Four Point Chrome Mirror	 Knockoff Version (Sold on "Secret E" Amazon Store)
 Arlen Ness® Rad 2 Micro Mirror	 Knockoff Version (Sold on "HK MOTO INC." Amazon Store)
 Arlen Ness's '815 Patent (Sold on "XKHmoto" Amazon Store)

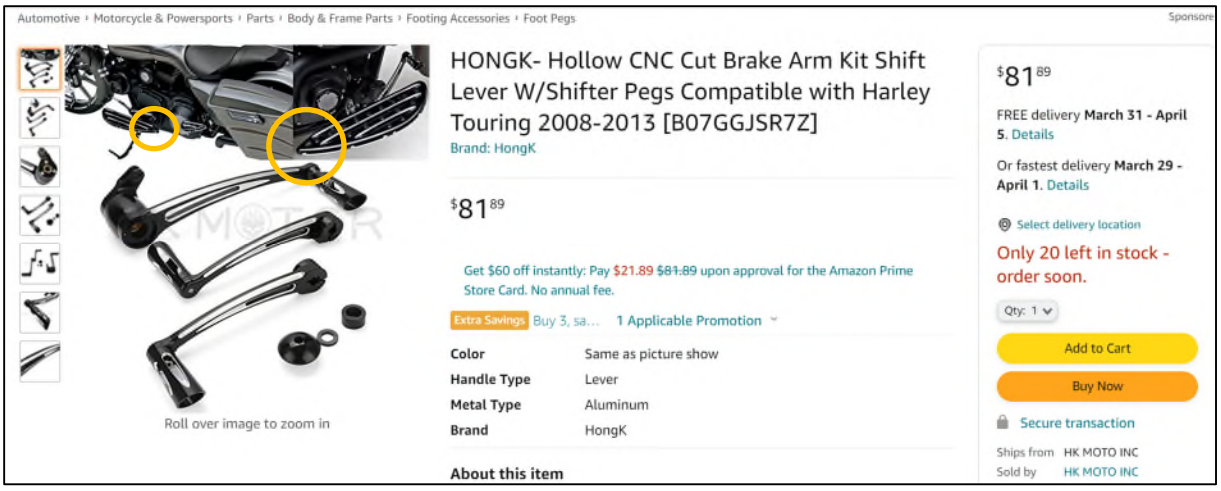

See Combined Exhibit 17.

74. The Internet Store Owners also utilize other deceptive means to trick consumers into purchasing their products, such as pirating photographs of Arlen Ness's products and using those photographs in their infringing listings.

75. For example, in several product listings, the Internet Store Owners use parts of photographs ripped from Arlen's Ness's online product catalogue. The photographs even feature Arlen Ness's registered logo:

See Exhibit 18. The full Arlen Ness image and call-outs therefrom showing the Arlen Ness logo as it appeared in the Internet Store Owners' ads are shown below and in Exhibit 19.

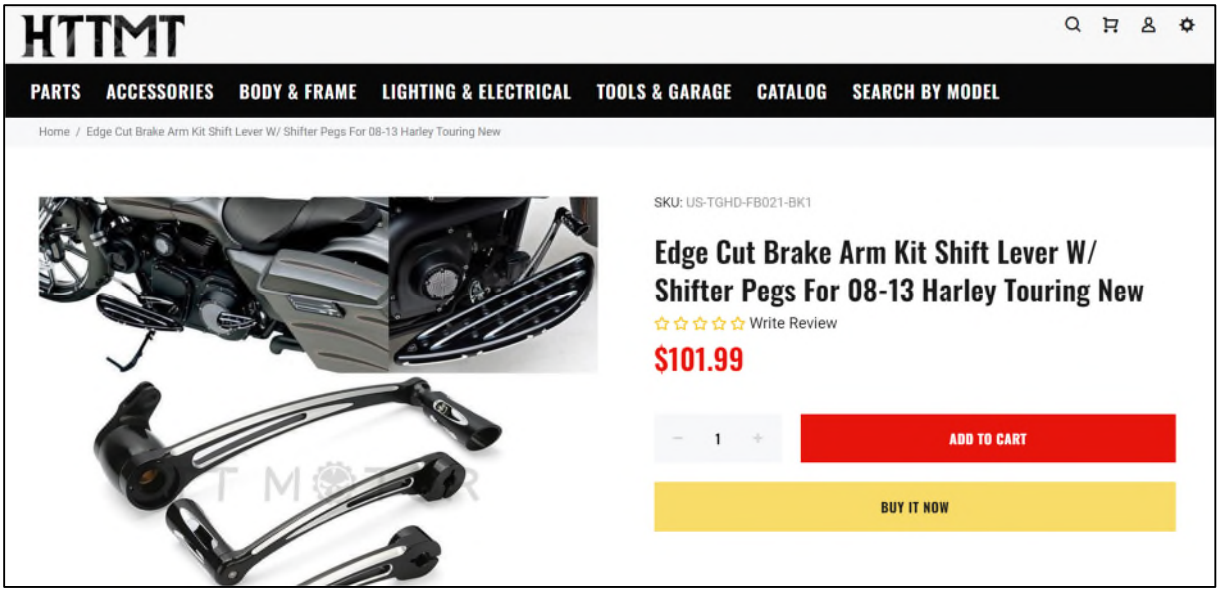

Arlen Ness's Catalog Photographs and Enlargements

ICE MILLER LLP

See Exhibit 19.

76. HTTMT's website uses the same pirated photographs:

See Exhibit 20.

77. The Internet Store Owners unauthorized and willful use of Arlen Ness's trademarks, Arlen Ness's patents, and copyright-protected photographs in connection with their advertisement, distribution, offering for sale, and sale of counterfeit and infringing products to consumers in the U.S. (including consumers in this district) is likely to cause confusion, mistake, and deception by and among consumers, and is irreparably harming Arlen Ness.

COUNT I
COUNTERFEITING
OF ARLEN NESS'S DEEP CUT® TRADEMARK
(15 U.S.C. § 1114)

78. Arlen Ness hereby re-alleges and incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in the preceding paragraphs.

79. Arlen Ness is the exclusive owner of the DEEP CUT® trademark.

80. The DEEP CUT® trademark is registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office and said registration remains valid and in force on the USPTO's Principal Register.

ICE MILLER LLP

81. The DEEP CUT® trademark is well-known and is inherently distinctive or is otherwise distinctive by virtue of acquired distinctiveness.

82. Consumers have come to expect the highest quality from products sold or marketed under the DEEP CUT® trademark.

83. The Internet Store Owners, through their four Amazon stores, and likely elsewhere, have sold, offered to sell, marketed, distributed, and advertised, and are still selling, offering to sell, marketing, distributing, and advertising products using counterfeit reproductions of the DEEP CUT® mark, without Arlen Ness's permission, for competing products—namely motorcycle parts.

84. The Internet Store Owners' use of counterfeit copies of the DEEP CUT® trademark was—and remains—inauthentic and without authorization.

85. The Internet Store Owners knowingly and intentionally used counterfeit versions of the DEEP CUT® trademark to sell motorcycle parts and products that are listed in Arlen Ness's DEEP CUT® federal trademark registration.

86. The Internet Store Owners' unauthorized and willful use of the DEEP CUT® trademark has caused, and likely will continue to cause, confusion, mistake, and deception as to the origin and quality of the counterfeit "DEEP CUT" products among the general public.

87. The Internet Store Owners' unauthorized and willful use of the DEEP CUT® trademark has directly and proximately caused damages and injuries to Arlen Ness's brand and business.

88. The Internet Store Owners' activities constitute counterfeiting under Section 32 of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1114.

89. Arlen Ness has no adequate remedy at law, and if the Internet Store Owners actions are not enjoined, Arlen Ness will continue to suffer irreparable harm to its reputation and the goodwill of its well-known DEEP CUT® mark.

COUNT II

94. The Internet Store Owners, through their four Amazon stores, and likely elsewhere, have sold, offered to sell, marketed, distributed, and advertised, and are still selling, offering to sell, marketing, distributing, and advertising products using counterfeit reproductions of the ® mark without Arlen Ness's permission for competing products—namely, motorcycle parts.

95. The Internet Store Owners knowingly and intentionally used counterfeit versions of the ® to sell motorcycle products that are listed in Arlen Ness's ® registration.

96. The Internet Store Owners' use of counterfeit copies of the ® trademark was—and remains—inauthentic and without authorization.

97. The Internet Store Owners' unauthorized and willful use of the ® mark has caused, and likely will continue to cause, confusion, mistake, and deception as to the origin and quality of the counterfeit products among the general public and have directly and proximately caused damages and injuries to Arlen Ness's brand and business.

98. The Internet Store Owners' activities constitute counterfeiting under Section 32 of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1114.

ICE MILLER LLP

99. Arlen Ness has no adequate remedy at law, and if the Internet Store Owners actions are not enjoined, Arlen Ness will continue to suffer irreparable harm to its reputation and the goodwill of its ® mark.

COUNT III
INFRINGEMENT
OF ARLEN NESS'S REGISTERED DEEP CUT® TRADEMARK
(15 U.S.C. § 1114)

100. Arlen Ness repeats and realleges the allegations of the preceding paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

101. Without Arlen Ness's consent or authorization, the Internet Store Owners have used in interstate commerce, and continue to use, confusingly similar versions of Arlen Ness's registered DEEP CUT® trademark for motorcycle parts.

102. The Internet Store Owners' use of confusingly similar versions of Arlen Ness's registered DEEP CUT® trademark for motorcycle parts is likely to cause confusion or mistake as to the source, approval, sponsorship, affiliation, connection, or association of the Internet Store Owners' products with Arlen Ness and Arlen Ness's products.

103. The goodwill associated with Arlen Ness's registered DEEP CUT® trademark is of significant value to Arlen Ness, and Arlen Ness has suffered, is suffering, and will continue to suffer, irreparable harm should the Internet Store Owners continue to use Arlen Ness's registered DEEP CUT® mark.

104. The Internet Store Owners' use of Arlen Ness's registered DEEP CUT® trademark has diverted, and will continue to divert, Arlen Ness's goodwill, customers, and potential customers to the Internet Store Owners' four Amazon stores, and likely elsewhere, for the benefit of the Internet Store Owners and to the injury of consumers and Arlen Ness.

105. The Internet Store Owners' acts constitute infringement of Arlen Ness's registered DEEP CUT® mark under 15 U.S.C. § 1114.

106. Based on information and belief, the Internet Store Owners knowingly and willfully infringed Arlen Ness's DEEP CUT® trademark.

ICE MILLER LLP

107. Unless enjoined, the Internet Store Owners will continue to use Arlen Ness's DEEP CUT® trademark, thereby confusing the public and causing Arlen Ness irreparable harm.

COUNT IV
FEDERAL FALSE DESIGNATION OF ORIGIN AND UNFAIR COMPETITION
(15 U.S.C.§ 1125(a))

108. Arlen Ness hereby re-alleges and incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in the preceding paragraphs.

109. The Internet Store Owners' promotion, marketing, offering for sale, and sale of motorcycle products to U.S. consumers using copyrighted photographs of Arlen Ness products in product listings on the Internet Store Owners' four Amazon stores and the HTTMT website, using products intentionally manufactured to look identical to, or virtually identical to, Arlen Ness's uniquely designed and constructed products, and using similar product descriptions have created, are creating, and will create a likelihood of confusion, mistake, and deception among the general public as to the affiliation, connection, or association with Arlen Ness or the origin, sponsorship, or approval of by Arlen Ness.

110. The Internet Store Owners aforementioned actions have created, are creating, and will create a false designation of origin as to the origin and sponsorship of motorcycle parts sold through the Internet Store Owners' four stores and HTTMT website.

111. Unless enjoined, the Internet Store Owners will continue to engage in unfair competition, thereby confusing the public and causing Arlen Ness irreparable harm in addition to financial harm.

COUNT VII
PARENT INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. UTILITY PATENT 6,374,815
(35 U.S.C. § 271)

144. Arlen Ness hereby re-alleges and incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in the preceding paragraphs.

145. Arlen Ness was and remains the assignee and owner of all right, title, and interest in and to the '815 Patent. Arlen Ness had the exclusive right to make, use, sell, and offer to sell any product embodying the '815 Patent throughout the United States, and to import any product embodying the '815 Patent into the United States throughout the life of the '815 Patent.

146. The '815 patent claims, inter alia, an invention that relates to motorcycle engines and, more particularly, to air cleaner base assemblies that couple an air cleaner to a carburetor or fuel injection system and provide conduits for venting blow-by gases from the crankcase into a venturi air intake thereof. The claimed air cleaner base assembly functions both as a support to mount and seat the air cleaner and as a crankcase breather device to vent blow-by gases from the crankcase directly into the venturi portion of the base assembly just prior to the air intake of the fuel system. The strategic location of these exit ports of the communication conduits at the venturi portion enable direct venting of the blow-by gases into the air intake of the fuel system (i.e., the carburetor of fuel injection system). Such direct venting minimizes fouling of the components (e.g., the air cleaner) by residual oil and unburned fuel contained in the blow-by gases.

HTTMT's Amazon listing for this product includes the following image:

ICE MILLER LLP

152. Arlen Ness purchased one "HTTMT MT229–Air Cleaner Kits Compatible with 2008-2012 Harley Dyna Electra Glide Flhx Road King Chrome" product through HTTMT's Amazon storefront for inspection. The sample MT229 product that Arlen Ness received matched the pictures and description on HTTMT's Amazon storefront. On information and belief, the sample MT229 product obtained by Arlen Ness is representative of the products described above and sold by the Internet Store Owners.

153. The sample MT229 product was confirmed upon inspection to be an air cleaner support member having a first side positioned adjacent the air intake port and an opposite second side adapted to seat the air cleaner thereto, and further including a venturi portion defining an intake aperture extending from the second side to the first side, and having a transverse cross-sectional dimension substantially similar to that of the air intake port of the fuel system for air flow from the air filter, through the intake aperture and into the air intake port. The sample MT229 product also included a flange member mounted to the support member, and adapted to mount said support member to the cylinder head of a motorcycle engine, said flange member defining a communication conduit extending therethrough, and having an entrance port in flow communication with the communication port of the cylinder head and an opposite exit port terminating at the venturi portion. Inspection of the MT229 product thus revealed that it met the limitations of the claims of the '815 Patent.

154. Based on the review of the purchased product and the images from HTTMT's product listings, HTTMT has infringed at least claims 1, 11, and 20 of the '815 Patent in this State, in this District, and elsewhere in the United States, by, among other things, directly or through intermediaries, making, using, selling and/or offering for sale its "HTTMT MT229– Air Cleaner Kits Compatible with 2008-2012 Harley Dyna Electra Glide Flhx Road King Chrome," "HTTMT–Glossy Black Bullet Air Cleaner Intake Compatible with Harley 2010 Harley Dyna Touring models [P/N: MT230B]," "HTTMT MT230C – Chromed Triangle Spike Air Cleaner Kits Compatible with Harley Dyna Touring models," "HTTMT MT240 – Spike Air Cleaner Kits Compatible with 2014 Harley Davidson Electra Glide FLHTCU Chrome," and "HTTMT MT231C– Triangle Spike Air Cleaner Kits Compatible with 1991-2006 H-D Xl Models Sportster Chrome" products and others substantially similar thereto (collectively, the "Accused Air Cleaner Products") through its Amazon store front and likely elsewhere. HTTMT was thus directly infringing, literally infringing, and/or infringing the '815 Patent under the doctrine of equivalents, and, therefore, is liable for infringement of the '815 Patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271(a).

155. In addition, HTTMT has contributorily infringed at least claims 1, 11, and 20 of the '815 Patent by offering to sell and/or selling within the United States, and/or importing into the United States, Accused Air Cleaner Products. HTTMT knew that the Accused Air Cleaner Products were each components of a patented machine, constituting a material part of the invention, and also knew that the Accused Air Cleaner Products were especially made or adapted for use in an infringement of at least claims 1, 11, and 20 of the '815 Patent, and not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial noninfringing use. HTTMT was thus contributorily infringing the '815 Patent and is liable for infringement of the '815 Patent pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 271(c).

156. Pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 284, Arlen Ness is entitled to damages adequate to compensate for the infringement.

157. HTTMT's infringement has been willful and, pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 284, Arlen Ness is entitled to treble damages. HTTMT's willful infringement is based at least on its knowledge of Arlen Ness, its products and patents. HTTMT has either willfully and wantonly infringed the '815 Patent or has recklessly avoided knowledge of its own infringement, even when faced with knowledge of Arlen Ness's products and patents.

158. This case is "exceptional" within the meaning of 35 U.S.C. § 285, and Arlen Ness is entitled to an award of attorneys' fees.

HAYWARD — They called him the king of custom motorcycles.

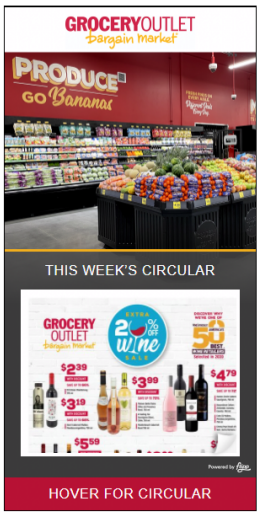

Arlen Ness, a designer whose wildly colorful customized motorcycles are sought after by riders and museums alike, died March 22 in the East Bay after a long illness, family and friends reported. He was 79.

Ness grew up in San Lorenzo and San Leandro and customized bikes at home before he set up shop on East 14th Street in San Leandro.

For the past few decades, his Alan Ness Motorcycles has operated out of a Dublin dealership, a 72,000-square-foot location that features new and used bikes, as well as riding gear and apparel.

For the past few decades, his Alan Ness Motorcycles has operated out of a Dublin dealership, a 72,000-square-foot location that features new and used bikes, as well as riding gear and apparel.

"My dad was extremely well-respected around the world," said Ness's son, Cory Ness. "Everyone loves his artistic side and the creative things he did with motorcycles."

Ness's company announced on its Facebook page Saturday that he had died, describing him as a "visionary, loving husband, father, grandfather and leader of our family."

"Arlen once said that, 'Motorcycling has been a great ride … my whole life since I've been motorcycling has been wonderful. I've met so many nice people. Friends all over the world. … We can go almost anyplace and stay with friends. It's been great,'" the company said.

The motorcycle world and other fans, including country music star Travis Tritt, took to social media to mourn and pay tribute to Ness.

As a young man, Ness earned money as a semipro bowler, parlaying $300 of winnings into his first motorcycle purchase, a 1947 Harley-Davidson Knucklehead, according to Bay Area News Group archives.

"I was into cars — hot rods," Ness once recalled, according to a biography on the AMA Motorcycle Museum website. "On Friday nights, we'd cruise East 14th Street (in Oakland and San Leandro). That was what you did back then. There was a place where all the guys with bikes would hang out. I'd go by that place 20 times a night just to look at the bikes. I didn't really know one from another, but I knew I liked the ones that had a low-slung look."

With just his high school shop experience, Ness took the Knucklehead apart, added a peanut-shaped gas tank, painted it green and entered it in a motorcycle show.

Soon local bikers were visiting Ness, who made his own parts, asking him to customize their bikes, too.

That first Knucklehead ended up being part of a California lifestyle exhibit at the Oakland Museum.

"Nobody was doing what he was doing," said Danny Perez, the retail manager of the Dublin shop, which features a museum of some of Ness's creations.

The motorcycle pioneer's work was showcased in numerous other collections and publications, plus was featured on FX's "Sons of Anarchy."

His achievements included helping found the Hamsters Motorcycle Club, made of riders who want to counter the popular image of custom bikers as outlaws and criminals, according to Buck Lovell, a longtime motorcycle magazine editor. Instead of patches, Hamsters wear yellow T-shirts.

"He's considered the godfather of custom motorcycles," Lovell said about Ness. "In the motorcycle industry, he was huge."

Ness was inducted into the AMA Motorcycle Hall of Fame in 1992. In 2016, he earned the Sturgis Lifetime Achievement Award.

Ness is survived by his wife of 59 years, Beverly, and his children and grandchildren. His son Cory and grandson Zach are also noted custom motorcycle builders who run the Dublin operation.

The family said a memorial service and celebration of life will be held at a later date.

"He was the nicest guy," Cory Ness said, adding that people have contacted the family from around the world as news has spread about the death of his father. "A true gentleman."

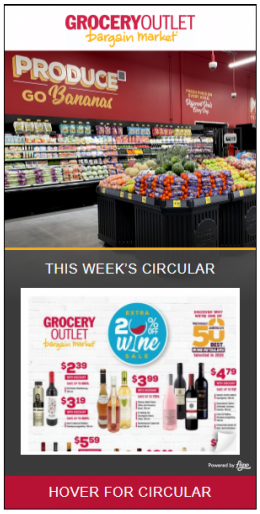

Ness is survived by his wife of 59 years, Beverly, and his children and grandchildren. His son Cory and grandson Zach are also noted custom motorcycle builders who run the Dublin operation.

The Ultimate Motorcycling website said a memorial service and celebration of life will be held at a later date.

AIR CLEANER BASE ASSEMBLY WITH CRANKCASE BREATHER VENTS

BACKGROUND OF THE INVENTION

This invention relates to relates to motorcycle engines and, more particularly, to air cleaner base assemblies that couple an air cleaner to a carburetor or fuel injection system and provide conduits for venting blow-by gases from the crankcase into a venturi air intake thereof.

As internal combustion engines wear, the annular spaces between the pistons and the cylinder tend to increase. In the combustion chamber of each cylinder, an air-fuel mixture is ignited. The expanding gas mixture forces the piston upwards generating power from the engine. In the expansion process, part of the gas mixture is forced between the annular spaces between the piston and the cylinder into the crankcase. These "blow-by" gases, which also include oil mist and unburned fuel, accumulate in the crankcase and must be vented from the crankcase to the atmosphere to prevent a potentially dangerous pressure build-up in the crankcase.

Pollution control laws and regulations restrict the emissions from internal combustion engines. As exhaust gases from internal combustion engines have become cleaner, the blow-by gases have become a more significant fraction of the total pollution generated from internal combustion engines. In many localities, the pollution control laws and regulations are such that vapors from the crankcase of internal combustion engines must be cleaned prior to discharge into the atmosphere. One method of reducing the pollution associated with the blow by gases is to recycle the gases through the engine. In some four cycle, two cylinder engines manufactured by Harley-Davidson, crank case venting and cleaning is accomplished by a crankcase breather system that conducts blow-by gases from the crankcase to an air cleaner, from which the gases are recirculated back into the engine through the carburetor for burning in the engine cylinders. A crankcase breather system is also used for engines employing a fuel injection system.

By way of example, in the Harley-Davidson four cycle, two cylinder engines each cylinder includes a pair of push rods that extend from the crankcase into the cylinder head for operating the intake and exhaust valves. Each of the push rods is disposed within a hollow push rod tube that communicates with the crankcase (e.g. provide a passageway for blow-by gases in the crankcase). Upper ends of the push rod tubes communicate with a chamber in the middle rocker box of each cylinder head. On each downstroke of the piston in each cylinder, an umbrella valve attached to a center rocker spacer opens, permitting blow-by gases to pass into the middle chamber. From the middle chamber, the blow-by gases are conducted to a second, upper chamber in the rocker box, and thence, via passageways, through a pair of spaced-apart, threaded holes in a right side of the cylinder heads. The threaded holes in combination with hollow bolts enable a stock plastic backing plate to be secured to the cylinder heads. The hollow bolts provide a passageway for the blow-by gases to vent from the holes in the cylinder heads. In a stock version of the Harley Davidson engine with a carburetor, a stock plastic carburetor or backing plate is provided, together with a pair of rubber tubes to conduct the blow-by gases from the hollow bolts to an air cleaner element.

To improve and customize engine performance, many purchasers of Harley Davidson motorcycles owners remove and discard the stock carburetor backing plate, hollow bolts and rubber tubes and replace the system with a substitute crankcase breather system. These substitute crankcase breather systems, for instance, by improving air flow to the engine, can significantly improve the horse power of the engine within certain operational ranges. Examples of substitute crank case breather systems are described in U.S. Pat. No. 5,233,967 by Peller et al. and U.S. Pat. No. 5,937,816 by Wincewicz et al.

In the background Wincewicz et al., the disadvantages of the Peller system are described in detail, such as a large part count and vibration/seal problems. The large part count of the Peller system increases the installation, the manufacturing and the maintenance costs associated with utilizing the system. The vibration/seal problems, however, may cause oil leakage at the joint between the breather system and the cylinder head or air leakage where the system attaches to the carburetor. Such leakage problems are also characteristic of other types of breather systems, as well.

While the breather system of Wincewicz is suitable in most applications, one problem associated with this design is that the blow-by gases, which contain oil and fuel mist, are vented directly into the air cleaner. These blowby gases tend to foul the air cleaner which substantially increases the replacement frequency of the air cleaner. Both the Peller system and the stock Harley-Davidson breather system, incidentally, also suffer from this fouling problem. Another disadvantage of the Wincewicz system is that the blow-by gases are vented from the cylinder heads in a manner where they may interfere with one another. Since the blow-by gases are vented into a common communication channel, the portions vented during the piston downstroke in one cylinder, can interfere with outflow of blow-by gases from the other cylinder during its piston upstroke.

Accordingly, it would be desirable to provide a crank case breather system that is easy to install, utilizes a minimum number of components, eliminates airflow interference effects, preserves air cleaner performance and minimizes seal leakage problems.

SUMMARY OF THE INVENTION

This invention addresses the needs indicated above by providing a combination backing plate and crankcase breather for a motorcycle engine having at least a pair of cylinders, a cylinder head mounted on each cylinder and a valve for connecting each cylinder head to the crankcase for venting the crankcase through an exit port in the cylinder head. The combination includes two hollow bolt alignment members integrally connected by brackets to a support member. The support member includes a venturi air intake, an air cleaner support surface and a backing plate. The backing plate is adapted to allow the support member to be mounted to the air intake of the motorcycle engine. The air intake of the motor cycle engine may be connected to a carburetor or a fuel injection system. The air cleaner support surface is adapted to allow an air cleaner and air cleaner cover to be mounted to the combination. Each bracket includes a conduit that allows blow-by gases vented from the engine through exit ports in the cylinder heads to be conducted.to an exit port in the venturi air intake where the blow-by gases are mixed with outside air and recirculated into the engine.

One aspect of the present invention provides an air cleaner base assembly for a motorcycle engine including at least one cylinder head having a communication port for venting a crankcase, an air cleaner and an air intake port of a fuel system. The base assembly can be generally characterized as including: 1) an air cleaner support member having a first side positioned adjacent the air intake port and an opposite second side adapted to seat the air cleaner thereto, the support member further including a venturi portion defining an intake aperture extending from the second side to the first side, and having a transverse cross-sectional dimension substantially similar to that of the air intake port of the fuel system for air flow from the air filter, through the intake aperture and into the air intake port; and 2) a flange member mounted to the support member, and adapted to mount said support member to the cylinder head, the flange member defining a communication conduit extending therethrough, and having an entrance port in flow communication with the communication port of the cylinder head and an opposite exit port terminating at the venturi portion.

In particular embodiments, the flange member may further define a bolt alignment passage formed for coaxial alignment with the communication port of the cylinder head when mounted thereto. Thus, the base assembly may include a bolt member extending through the bolt alignment passage and the communication port to mount the air cleaner support member to the cylinder head. In addition, the communication conduit of the flange member may intersect the bolt alignment passage at the entrance port thereof and the bolt member may be configured to enable fluid communication between the communication port of the cylinder head and the entrance port of the communication conduit of the flange member. Further, the bolt member may include a flow passage extending through a shaft portion thereof to provide flow communication between the communication port and the entrance port where the flow passage of the bolt member may include a first opening terminating at a distal end of the shaft, and a second opening terminating at a side portion of the shaft proximate the communication conduit entrance port when the base assembly is mounted to the cylinder head. The longitudinal axis of the communication conduit may intersect the longitudinal axis of the bolt alignment passage at an angle of between about 30° to about 60°.

In other embodiments, the flange member may include a bolt contact surface surrounding one end of the bolt alignment passage, and formed to forcibly engage a head portion of the bolt member during the mount and the base assembly may further include a first seal device cooperating with the head portion of the bolt and the contact surface to form a fluid tight seal there between during the mount. The first seal device may be provided by an O-ring disposed in an annular groove inset in the bolt contact surface and encircling the one end of the alignment bolt passage. Further, the flange member may include a cylinder head contact surface surrounding an opposite end of the bolt alignment passage, and formed to forcibly engage a sealing surface of the cylinder head during the mount. Therefore, the base assembly may include a second seal device cooperating with the cylinder head contact surface and the sealing surface of the cylinder head to form a fluid tight seal therebetween during the mount. In addition, the first seal device may be provided by an O-ring disposed in an annular groove inset in the bolt contact surface and encircling the one end of the alignment bolt passage, and the second seal device may be provided by an O-ring disposed in an annular groove inset in the cylinder head contact surface and encircling the opposite end of the alignment bolt passage

In yet other embodiments, a second flange member, spaced-apart from the first named flange member, mounted to the support member, and adapted to mount the second support member to a second cylinder head of the motorcycle, the second flange member defining a communication conduit extending therethrough, and having an entrance port in flow communication with a communication port of the second cylinder head for venting the crankcase, the communication conduit also including an opposite exit port terminating at the venturi. Each flange member may define a respective bolt alignment passage formed for coaxial alignment with the corresponding communication port of the corresponding cylinder head when mounted thereto. In additon, the base assembly may include a respective bolt member extending through the respective bolt alignment passage and respective communication port to mount the air cleaner support member to the respective cylinder head. In addition, each communication conduit of the respective flange member may intersect the respective bolt alignment passage at the respective entrance port thereof and each bolt member may be configured to enable fluid communication between the respective communication port of the respective cylinder head and the entrance port of the communication conduit of the respective flange member. The longitudinal axis of the respective communication conduit may intersect the longitudinal axis of the respective bolt alignment passage at an angle of between about 30° to about 60°.

In another embodiment, each flange member may include a bolt contact surface surrounding one end of the respective bolt alignment passage, each bolt contact surface being formed to forcibly engage a head portion of the respective bolt member during the mount. Thus, the base assembly may further include a respective first seal device cooperating with the respective head portion of the corresponding bolt member and the respective contact surface to form a fluid tight seal therebetween during the mount. Further, each flange member may include a respective cylinder head contact surface surrounding an opposite end of the respective bolt alignment passage, each cylinder head contact surface being formed to forcibly engage a respective sealing surface of the respective cylinder head during the mount. Therefore, the base assembly may include a respective second seal device cooperating with the respective cylinder head contact surface and the respective sealing surface of the corresponding cylinder head to form a fluid tight seal therebetween during the mount.

Another aspect of the present invention provides a combination backing plate and crankcase breather assembly for a motorcycle engine having at least a first and a second cylinder, a cylinder head mounted on each cylinder, means for connecting the cylinder heads to the crankcase for venting the crankcase through an exit port on each cylinder head, an air intake port of a fuel system and an air cleaner. The assembly may be generally characterized as including: 1) a support member having a first side adapted to mount to the engine air intake, and an opposite second side adapted to seat the air cleaner thereto where support member may includes a venturi portion defining a centrally disposed intake aperture with a transverse cross-sectional shape substantially identical to a transverse-cross-sectional shape of the engine air intake, 2) securing structure configured to secure the air cleaner to the support member; 3) a pair of flange members each integrally connected to the support member and formed to mount the assembly to the cylinder heads, each integrally connected to one hollow bolt alignment member, each flange member defining a respective communication conduit extending therethrough, and each communication conduit having an entrance port in flow communication with a respective communication port of the corresponding cylinder head and an opposite exit port terminating at the venturi portion such that each communication conduit vents gases from the crankcase through the exit ports of the respective cylinder head to the corresponding exit port at the venturi portion; 4) a pair of hollow bolt members each adapted to releasably mount a respective flange member to the corresponding cylinder head, each bolt member including a flow passage coaxially aligned with the corresponding exit port of cylinder head when the bolt member is fastened in the respect exit port; and 5) respective sealing devices cooperating with at least one of the respective hollow bolt members and the respective flange members to fluid seal the respective communication conduit to the respective exit port.

These and other features of the present invention will be presented in more detail in the following detailed description of the invention and the associated figures.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PREFERRED EMBODIMENTS

While the present invention will be described with reference to a few specific embodiments, the description is illustrative of the invention and is not to be construed as limiting the invention. Various modifications to the present invention can be made to the preferred embodiments by those skilled in the art without departing from the true spirit and scope of the invention as defined by the appended claims. It will be noted here that for a better understanding, like components are designated by like reference numerals throughout the various figures.

Referring now to FIGS. 2–5B, an air cleaner base assembly with crankcase breather vents, generally designated 100, is provided for a motorcycle engine 5 including at least one cylinder head 12 or 14 having a communication port 18 or 20 for venting a crankcase 10. The motorcycle engine 5 further includes an air cleaner 40 and an air intake port 21 of a fuel system 22. The base assembly 100 includes an air cleaner support member 130 having a first side (FIGS. 3 and 5A) positioned adjacent the air intake port 21 and an opposite second side (FIGS. 4 and 5B) adapted to seat the air cleaner 40 thereto. The support member 130 further includes a venturi portion 104 defining an intake aperture 110 extending from the second side to the first side. A transverse cross-sectional dimension of the intake aperture 110 is substantially similar to that of the air intake port 21 of the fuel system 22 for air flow from the air cleaner 40, through the intake aperture 110 and into the air intake port 21. The cleaner base assembly further includes at least one flange member 113 or 115 mounted to the support member 130 which is adapted to mount the support member to a respective cylinder head 12 or 14. Each flange member 113 or 115 defines a communication conduit 170, 171 extending therethrough, and having a respective entrance port 172, 173 in flow communication with the corresponding communication port 18, 20 of the cylinder head 12 or 14 and an opposite exit port 174, 175 termninating at the venturi portion 104.

Accordingly, the air cleaner base assembly with crankcase breather vents of the present invention functions both as a support to mount and seat the air cleaner and as a crankcase breather device to vent blow-by gases from the crankcase directly into the venturi portion of the base assembly just prior to the air intake of the fuel system. The strategic location of these exit ports of the communication conduits at the venturi portion enable direct venting of the blow-by gases into the air intake of the fuel system (i.e., the carburetor of fuel injection system). Such direct venting minimizes fouling of the components (E.g., the air cleaner) by residual oil and unburned fuel contained in the blow-by gases.

Briefly, referring now to FIG. 1, a side elevation view of a right side of a four cycle, two stroke motorcycle engine with the air cleaner and the carburetor backing plate removed. The engine 5 has a crankcase 10, a pair of cylinders 6, 8, and a pair of cylinder heads 12, 14 located at upper ends of the cylinders 6, 8. Each cylinder 6, 8 has a pair of hollow push rod tubes 24 with push rods (not shown) disposed inside of the push rod tubes 24. The hollow push rod tubes 24 extend from the crankcase 10 into the cylinder heads 12 and 14. A lower end of each push rod tube 24 communicates with the crankcase 10 and an upper end of each tube 24 communicates with a first, lower chamber 41 within a middle rocker box section 26 in the cylinder heads 12 and 14, providing a conduit for venting gases from the crankcase.

The push rods (not shown) operate cylinder intake and exhaust valves (not shown). An umbrella valve 30 opens on each piston downstroke in each cylinder 6 and 8, thereby permitting blow-by gases to move from the lower chamber 41 to a second, upper chamber 43 in the rocker box 26. Various chambers (not shown) in the rocker box 26 provide a conduit to a threaded hole or exit port, 18 and 20, on a right side of each cylinder head, 12 and 14, respectively. A land 32, 33 is formed in each cylinder head, 12 and 14, in surrounding relation to the exit ports 18, 20.

In a stock Harley-Davidson breather system (not shown), hollow threaded bolts may secure a combination plastic carburetor backing plate and air intake system to the cylinder heads, 12 and 14, via the threaded communication ports 18 and 20. The hollow threaded bolts may include a nipple on an end opposite the end secured to the threaded communication ports 18 and 20. The nipple may be used to secure a hose to the hollow bolts. A first side of the carburetor backing plate is secured to the fuel system 22 (e.g., a carburetor 22) using attachment means. A gasket is typically disposed between the carburetor backing plate and the carburetor 22 to provide a seal between the carburetor backing plate and the carburetor 22. On a second side of the carburetor backing plate opposite the carburetor side, an air cleaner may be secured using attachment means to the combination air intake system and carburetor backing plate. The air cleaner may include two hollow rubber hoses with first ends fixed near the outer diameter of the air cleaner in communication with the interior of the air cleaner. The opposite ends of the hollow rubber tubes may be attached to the hollow threaded bolts attached to the threaded communication ports 18 and 20 providing a conduit for blow-by gases from the cylinder heads 12, 14 to the air cleaner. A metal cover with a gasket may be secured to the combination air intake system and carburetor backing plate with attached air cleaner proving a cover to the air cleaner. During operation of the engine, outside air enters the air intake system via an intake port 21 in the combination backing plate and circulates through the air cleaner preferably removing dust or other contaminants from the outside air. The outside air potentially mixes with blow-by gases vented from the communication ports 18 and 20 in the cylinder heads 12, 14 which are conducted to the air cleaner via the hollow bolts and rubber tubes connected to the air cleaner. The mixture of filtered air and blow-by gases enters the carburetor and is mixed with fuel for burning in the engine.

FIG. 2 is a fragmentary, top perspective view of the engine 5 illustrated in FIG. 1 together with an exploded perspective view of the air cleaner support assembly 100 of the present invention. An air cleaner 40 comprising an air filter 42 and air cleaner cover 44 may be secured to the air cleaner support assembly 100 through attachment bolts 102, to be described in greater detail below. Referring now to FIGS. 3–7, it may be seen that each flange member 113, 115 of the assembly 100 includes two cylindrical bolt alignment members 109, 114 integrally connected to the support member 130, via two brackets 106, 112. The two cylindrical bolt alignment members 109, 114, brackets 106, 112 and support member 130 may be integrally cast using aluminum or any other appropriate material.

FIGS. 5 and 6 best illustrate that each bolt alignment member 109, 114 is hollow, having respective bolt alignment passages 107, 108 extending therethrough from a bolt head contact surface 160, 161 to a land contact surface 140, 141. Threaded bolts 150 with a shaft diameter less than the inner diameter of the bolt alignment passages 107, 108 of the bolt alignment members 109, 114 and with bolt heads 101 with a diameter greater than the alignment passages may be used to secure the air cleaner support assembly 100 to the cylinder heads 12, 14 of engine 5 using the threaded communication ports 18, 20 in each cylinder head 12, 14.

As set forth above, the triangular-shaped support brackets 106, 112 of the flange members 113, 115 mount the respective bolt alignment members 109, 114 to the air cleaner support member 130. Further, as will be discussed in greater detail below, each support bracket defines a significant portion of the communication conduits 170, 171 extending from the bolt alignment members 109, 114 to the venturi portion 104. Accordingly, as best shown in FIG. 6, the blow-by gases from the crankcase 10 exit the communication ports 18, 20 of the cylinder heads 12, 14; enter the alignment passages 107, 108 through respective entrance ports 172, 173 thereof; and exit the corresponding communication conduits 170, 171 through exit ports 174, 175 strategically positioned at the venturi portion 104.

An upper surface 116 (See FIGS. 3 and 4) of the support brackets 106, 112 may be concave-shaped with a radius of curvature substantially similar to a radius of curvature of the circumferential surface 162 of the bolt alignment members 109, 114 for integral mounting thereto. The upper surface 116 extends into the air cleaner support surface 122 permitting the respective bolts 150 to be inserted through the bolt alignment passage 107, 108 of each bolt alignment member.

FIG. 2 illustrates that each spaced bolt alignment member 109, 114 is oriented and positioned along the air cleaner support member 130 such that when the bolt alignment members are seated against the lands 32, 33 of the respective cylinder heads, bolt alignment passages 107, 108 are coaxially aligned with the cylinder head communication ports 18, 20. Incidentally, it will be appreciated that the intake aperture 110 in the support member 130 will also be coaxially aligned with intake port 21 of the fuel system 22. When the alignment bolts 150 are tightened, each bolt alignment member is secured against the cylinder heads 12 and 14. A diameter of the bolt heads 101 is less than an outer diameter of the bolt alignment members 109, 114, allowing the bolts 150 to be tightened without adversely contacting the upper surfaces 116 of the support brackets 106, 112.

Each bolt alignment member 109, 114 includes a first face or land contact surface 140, 141 (see FIG. 5A) formed to contact and seat against an outer surface of the land 32, 33 or some other flat surface around the threaded communication ports 18, 20. When the threaded bolts 150 are inserted through the bolt alignment passage 107, 108 of each bolt alignment member 109, 114, and into the corresponding threaded communication ports 18, 20, the opposed surfaces engage and contact one another.

To provide a fluid seal at this joint between communication ports 18, 20 and the corresponding alignment passages 107, 108, a second seal device 148, 149 is disposed between the land contact surface 140, 141 and the surface of the land 32, 33. Accordingly, the blow-by gases of the crankcase will not vent into the environment from this joint. Preferably, the second seal device 148, 149 is provided by an O-ring 148, 149 encircling the corresponding bolt alignment passage 107, 108 at the land contact surface 140, 141. As shown in FIG. 5A, each land contact surface 140, 141 includes a circumferential outer edge and a circumferential inner edge and defines an annular groove 146, 147 between the outer edge and the inner edge. Prior to securing the bolt alignment members to the cylinder heads 12 and 14, the O-ring 148, 149 may be inset into the annular groove 146, 147. The O-ring 148, 149 and the annular groove 146, 147 are sized such that the O-ring protrudes above the apex of the land contact surface 140, 141. Therefore, when the alignment bolts 150 are inserted secured in the threaded communication ports 18, 20, the land contact surface 140, 141 contacts the land 32, 33 and the O-ring 148 is compressed into the annular groove 146, 147 forming a seal. The seal formed by the O-ring prevents blow-by gases vented from the communication ports 18 and 20 from escaping between any gaps where the land contact surface 140, 141 contacts the land 32.

While the O-ring 148, 149 and the annular groove 146, 147 have been described as being carried by the bolt alignment member 109, 114, it will be appreciated that they may be carried by the lands 32, 33 as well without departing from the true spirit and nature of the present invention.

Similar to the joint between the bolt alignment members and the lands, a first seal device 168, 169 is disposed between head contact surface 160, 161 and the head portion 101 of the bolts 150. Such a seal prevents blow-by gases vented from the communication ports 18 and 20 from escaping between any gaps where the bolt head portion 101 contacts the corresponding head contact surface 160, 161. As shown in FIG. 5B, the second face or head contact surface 160, 161 of each bolt alignment member 109, 114, includes an inner edge and an outer edge with an annular groove 164, 165 therebetween. The first seal device 168, 169 is also preferably provided by an O-ring which may be inserted into the corresponding annular groove 146, 147. The O-ring 168, 169 and annular groove 164, 165 are sized such that the O-ring protrudes above the top surface of the head contact surface 160, 161. The bolts 150 are designed such that an inner surface 153 of the bolt head portion 101 (See FIG. 6) contacts the head contact surface 160, 161, when the bolts 150 are used to attach the bolt alignment members 109, 114, as described above, to the threaded exit ports 18, 20 on the cylinder heads 12, 14. When the bolts 150 are tightened, the inner surface 153 of the bolt head 101 contacts the head contact surface 160, 161 and the O-ring 168, 169 is compressed, forming a seal thereby. Similar to the second seal device, these 0-rings prevent blow-by gases, which may contain residual oil and unburned fuel from escaping between any gaps where the head contact surface 160, 161 contacts the inner surface 153 of the bolts 150.

An advantage of the O-ring design of the present invention is that oil leaks are prevented at the interface where the air cleaner support assembly 65 is attached to the cylinder heads 12, 14. Other designs typically employ a conventional paper gasket or the like at this attachment interface which is more susceptible to leakage problems during normal use.

To provide flow communication from the communication ports 18, 20 of the cylinder heads 12, 14 to the entrance ports 172, 173 of the communication conduits 170, 171, when the bolts 150 are secured in the bolt alignment passages 164, 165, each bolt 150 includes a flow passage 151 (see FIG. 6) counter-bored into a distal end of the shaft of the bolt. The longitudinally extending flow passage 151 includes a first opening 152 at the distal end of the bolt 150, and an opposite second opening 154 terminating at a side portion of the bolt shaft. Thus, when the hollow bolts 150 are attached to the threaded communication ports 18, 20, the flow passages 151 provide a flow communication path between the entrance ports 172, 173 of the communication conduits 170, 171 and the exit ports 18, 20 of the cylinder heads 12, 14. This allows the blow-by gases to enter the hollow bolt 150 and exit via the second opening 154.

FIG. 6 illustrates that the second opening 154 into the flow passage 151 of the shaft is positioned at a bottom portion of an annular channel 155 extending circumferentially around the shaft. When the bolts 150 are threaded into the corresponding communication ports 18, 20 until the inner surface of the bolt heads 153 forcibly contact the head contact surface 160 of the bolt alignment members 109, 114, sealing the corresponding O-rings 148, 168 and 148, 149, the annular groove will be strategically positioned to enable flow communication with the entrance port 172, 173 of the corresponding communication conduit 170, 171. Hence, blow-by gasses exiting the second opening 154 of the flow passage 151 in the bolts 150 flows into the fill the annular channel 155, and enters into communication conduit 170, 171 in each bracket 106, 112. An advantage of the annular groove design is that the second opening 154 of the flow passage does not have to precisely align the entrance ports 172, 173 of communication conduits 170, 171 for passage of the blow-by gases.

The entrance ports 172, 173 of the communication conduits 170, 171 terminate at alignment passages 164, 165 of the hollow bolt alignment members 109, 114, while the opposite and exit ports 173, 174 terminate at the face of the venturi air intake 104. In the present embodiment, the communication conduits 170, 171 are relatively linear having a longitudinal axis, extending through the support brackets 106, 112, which preferably intersects the longitudinal axis of the corresponding bolt alignment passage 107, 108 at an angle of between about 30° to about 60°, and more preferably about 45°. A cross section of one communication conduit 170, bracket 112, the hollow bolt alignment member 114 and the support member 130 is depicted in FIG. 6.

The venturi air intake portion 104 tapers inwardly from a front facing raised shoulder 105 (See FIGS. 2 and 4) of the air cleaner support member 130 to rear facing contact surface 127 of a manifold contact plate 126 (see FIG. 3). The contact surface 127 of the manifold contact plate 126 is facing toward the crankcase when the support member 130 is secured to the engine 5. The venturi air intake 104 causes a venturi effect to accelerate the air flow through the aperture 110 of the support member 130 and into the intake port 21 of the fuel system 22 of the engine 5. During operation, accordingly, the blow-by gases vented into the venturi air intake 104 may be mixed with outside air filtered through the air filter 42.

In accordance with the present invention, the communication conduits 170, 171 provide a relatively direct communication path for the blow-by gases from the cylinder head communication ports 18, 20 to the venturi air intake 104 and into the aperture 110 in the support member 130. Blow-by gases from each communication port 18, 20 are independently vented into the aperture 110 at the communication conduit exit ports 174, 175. In contrast, some breather systems combine the blow-by gases from each cylinder head exit port using a single exit port terminating at the air filter 42. These breather systems, which vent the gases into the air filter, require more components and increase the collective length of the flow passages from the cylinder head exit ports. Consequently, manufacturing costs are increased as compared to the present invention. Additionally, in many current breather systems, the longer vent channels are provided by rubber hoses which are less durable then the maintenance free communication conduits of the present invention.

Another advantage of the present invention is that the blow-by gases from each exit port 18, 20 are vented into the aperture 110 through the support member 130. Compared to the current designs, potential fouling of the air filter 42 by the blow-by gases is substantially decreased, thus reducing the maintenance of the air filter 42.

A plurality of support bolts 102 may be inserted through a plurality of bolt alignment holes 125 in the manifold contact plate 126 and the raised shoulder 105. The support bolts 102 may be used to secure the air filter 42 to the support member 130 using a plurality of bolt alignment holes 120 in the air filter 42. Outer surfaces of the air filter 42 abut against the air cleaner support surface 122 such that the raised shoulder extends into the air filter 42. An air cleaner cover 44 may be placed over the air filter 42 and in contact with the air cleaner support surface 122. An attachment device may extend through the center of the air cleaner cover 44, the air filter 42 and the air cleaner support assembly 65, and into the engine 5, to attach the air cleaner cover 44 to the engine 5. In another embodiment, an attachment device may be inserted through one of the bolt alignment holes 125 to secure the support member 130 directly to the carburetor 22.

When the air cleaner support assembly is secured using one of the attachment devices described above, it is urged toward the carburetor 22. A gasket may be disposed between the top surface of the manifold contact plate 127 and the carburetor 22 providing a seal between the manifold contact plate 127 and the carburetor 22. The seal is designed to prevent the mixture of air and blow-by gases from escaping between any gaps between the manifold contact plate and a top surface of the carburetor around the carburetor throat 23.

FIG. 7 is a plan view of a first side of a support member 195 that interfaces with a two cylinder motorcycle engine employing a fuel injection system in another embodiment of the present invention. Two hollow bolt alignment members 200, 202 are integrally connected to the support member 195 using brackets 204 and 206. The brackets 204, 206 include conduits 208, 210 that allow communication between apertures 203, 205, in each hollow bolt alignment member 202, 204 and a venturi air intake 220. The venturi intake 220 is substantially oval shaped to match an air intake for an engine employing a fuel injection system. Using hollow bolts, as described above, inserted through the bolt alignment members 200, 202 and an attachment means inserted through a plurality of bolt alignment holes 225, the support member 195 with an air filter and air cleaner cover may be secured to the engine and cylinder heads and operate in the manner described above for the air cleaner support assembly 100. For instance, as described above, blow-by gases from exit ports in the cylinder heads are injected into the oval shaped venturi air intake 220 . Within the oval shaped venturi air intake 220, blow-by gases and air from the air filter are mixed prior to entering the engine where the mixture is mixed with fuel and burnt.

Although the foregoing invention has been described in some detail for purposes of clarity of understanding, it will be apparent that certain changes and modifications may be practiced within the scope of the appended claims. For instance, the venturi air intakes of the present invention have been shown with a circular or ovular cross sections. Executive Summary

U.S. Customs and Border Protection focuses its trade enforcement efforts on seven Priority Trade Issues (PTI). PTIs represent high-risk areas that can cause significant revenue loss, harm the U.S. economy, or threaten the health and safety of the American people. Current PTIs include Intellectual Property Rights (IPR), which protect American Intellectual Property by interdicting violative goods and leveraging enhanced enforcement authorities.

Trade in illegitimate goods is associated with smuggling and other criminal activities, and often funds criminal enterprises. CBP protects the intellectual property rights of American businesses, safeguarding them from unfair competition and use for malicious intent while upholding American innovation and ingenuity. CBP works with many partner government agencies and the trade community to mitigate the risks posed by imports of such illicit goods.

FY 2020 was another successful year for IPR enforcement. CBP made 26,503 seizures with an estimated manufacturer's suggested retail price (MSRP) of over $1.3 billion.

COVID-19 Spotlight

In FY 2020, CBP saw a shift in certain product category seizures, including counterfeit, unapproved, or otherwise substandard COVID-19 related products that threatened the health and safety of American consumers, including the following:

COVID-19 Related Seizures FY 2020

Product	# of incidents	# of items seized
Counterfeit face masks	352	12.7 million
Prohibited COVID-19 test kits	378	180,000
Prohibited Chloroquine tablets	221	38,000

Over half of these seizures occurred in the express consignment environment and 24 percent were intercepted in international mail. Roughly 51 percent originated in China. In order to curb the sale of counterfeit or substandard COVID-19 sanitation products or safety equipment online, CBP also published the E-Commerce Consumer Awareness for COVID-19 Safety Guide: http://www.cbp.gov/document/guides/e-commerce-consumer-awareness-covid-19

In addition, CBP created the COVID-19 Cargo Resolution Team (CCRT), comprised of a network of subject matter experts from across the agency. The CCRT triaged incoming requests from importers and customers; coordinated with federal, state, and local government agencies; facilitated inbound shipments through ports of entry; expedited importation of critical medical supplies; and responded directly to inquiries about the importation of personal protective equipment, COVID-19 test kits, ventilators, and other medical supplies.

In FY 2020, the CCRT responded to 2,611 questions from the trade community and facilitated clearance of 480 Federal Emergency Management Agency-arranged flights, filled with critical medical supplies from legitimate vendors and international donors.

Operational and Enforcement Highlights

In FY 2020, 70 national level IPR Trade Special Operations (TSOs) and 111 local IPR-TSOs were conducted, representing a total of 181 IPR-TSOs in FY 2020. These TSOs targeted high-risk shipments across the United States and resulted in 219 seizures of IPR-infringing goods which, if genuine, would have an estimated MSRP of $1.7 million. This represents a 104% increase in MSRP from IPR-trade special operations from FY 2019.

CBP Partnerships

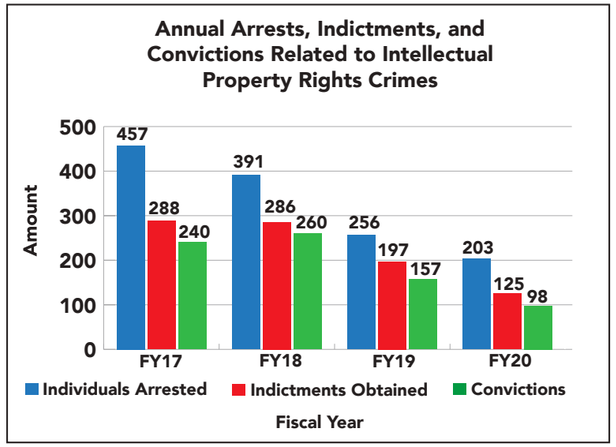

CBP works with partner government agencies to facilitate legitimate trade that supports economic growth and shields the American public and businesses from unsafe products, intellectual property theft, and unfair trade practices.

Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) – Homeland Security Investigations (HSI)
CBP and ICE-HSI identify cases in which third-party intermediaries have demonstrably directed, assisted financially, or aided and abetted the importation of counterfeit merchandise. In coordination with the DOJ, CBP and ICE-HSI seek all available statutory authorities to pursue civil fines and other penalties against these entities, including remedies under 19 U.S.C. § 1526(f), as appropriate.

CBP and ICE-HSI mitigate the welfare and financial risks posed by imports of illicit products. In FY20, ICE-HSI arrested 203 individuals, obtained 125 indictments, and received 98 convictions related to intellectual property crimes.

Collaboration Spotlight: In partnership with CBP, HSI launched Operation Stolen Promise (OSP) in April 2020 to protect the Homeland from the increasing and evolving threat posed by COVID-19-related fraud and criminal activity. As part of OSP, CBP Officers and HSI special agents have opened investigations nationwide, seized millions of dollars in illicit proceeds; made multiple arrests; and shut down thousands of fraudulent websites.

HSI continues to work alongside CBP to seize shipments of mislabeled, fraudulent, unauthorized, or prohibited COVID-19 test kits, treatment kits, homeopathic remedies, and purported anti-viral products and personal protective equipment (PPE).

Operation Stolen Promise 2.0 has been launched to expand the focus of OSP to address the emerging public health threat of counterfeit versions of COVID-19 vaccines and treatments entering the marketplace.

CBP Partnerships

The United States Postal Service (USPS)
USPS is responsible for presenting mail and providing electronic data (AED) to CBP for arriving international mail parcels. USPS and CBP have worked to target and identify 31 violations imported through international mail. Both agencies are implementing new strategies for leveraging the AED already available to identify offending merchandise.

Collaboration Spotlight: Operation Mega Flex is a CBP-led, interagency effort that was initiated in July 2019 to measure compliance and assess illicit networks in the international mail environment through periodic enhanced inspections. CBP conducts Mega Flex operations at international mail facilities and express consignment hubs nationwide in close coordination with ICE and the USPS.

Through Operation Mega Flex, CBP has found that more than 13 percent of targeted shipments contain counterfeit goods or contraband. Since July 2019, CBP has seized more than 4,800 shipments and nearly 2,600 agriculture violations through Mega Flex that posed health, safety, or economic threats to the United States and its people.

The National Intellectual Property Rights Coordination Center (IPR Center)

The IPR Center, in collaboration with CBP, stands at the forefront of the United States government's response to combatting global intellectual property (IP) theft and enforcement of its international trade laws.

Collaboration Spotlight: Operation Team Player is an ongoing annual operation that begins after every Super Bowl and continues through the next one, targeting international shipments of counterfeit sports merchandise into the United States. This operation is run by the IPR Center in collaboration with CBP, the NFL, and other major sports leagues to prevent the illegal importation and distribution of counterfeit sports merchandise.

Super Bowl LIV was played on February 2, 2020 at Hard Rock Stadium in Miami Gardens, Florida. U.S. CBP and ICE HSI announced the seizure of more than 176,000 counterfeit sports-related items, worth an estimated $123 million manufacturer's suggested retail price (MSRP), through a collaborative enforcement operation targeting international shipments of counterfeit merchandise into the United States.

CBP Partnerships

Commercial Customs Operations Advisory Committee (COAC)
The private sector plays an instrumental role in the global economy and has a unique opportunity to lend their considerable expertise to CBP. By partnering with industry leaders, CBP links our processes with modern business practices, which results in enhanced compliance with trade laws, improves our facilitation and enforcement efforts, and assists the U.S. economy. CBP's engagement with its federal advisory committee, the COAC, is a key component in evaluating and adapting CBP policies and getting feedback about significant proposed changes.

In September 2020, CBP developed a new Statement of Work (SOW) to re-engage the COAC Intellectual Property Rights Working Group (IPRWG). The SOW requested the IPRWG to further develop, expand upon, and align three previous recommendations pertaining to sharing of detention information, photographic standards guide, and data-driven CBP seizure process. We look forward to continued progress with the upcoming 16th term of COAC.

Public Awareness Campaign: "The Truth Behind Counterfeits"
In FY 2020, CBP continued "The Truth Behind Counterfeits" https://www.cbp.gov/trade/fakegoodsrealdangers. IPR public-awareness campaign to educate the public about the potential harm of counterfeit goods by making people aware that buying counterfeits is not a victimless crime and encouraging them to shop from well-known and reputable sources. The campaign ran at major U.S. airports including NYC, Charlotte, Minneapolis, Denver, Miami, Pittsburgh, and Baltimore during the busy 2019 holiday and travel season.

In addition to the large ads that were displayed at the airports, the campaign also included a digital component that targeted ads online in these same cities. The campaign and its messages about responsible consumer behavior were viewed an estimated 106 million times throughout the period from Thanksgiving through the New Year.

Donations Acceptance Program
As part of TFTEA, CBP prescribed regulations (19 CFR 133.61) for receiving donations from private sector parties of hardware, software, equipment, and technologies for the purpose of enforcing IPR. Administered through CBP's Donations Acceptance Program (DAP), this program has yielded several high-profile public-private partnerships that have already demonstrably enhanced CBP's ability to more quickly and accurately detect counterfeit merchandise entering the U.S. In FY 2020, Cisco donated additional barcode scanners raising the total number of tools being used to 16 in conjunction with their online package look-up tool which are now impacting six CBP Field Offices. Since the regulation went into effect in January 2018, the DAP has fully executed four formal IPR enforcement partnerships and is in process of completing one more with Nike, Inc. in FY 2021.

Intellectual Property Rights e-Recordation
CBP concentrates its IPR border enforcement on federally registered trademarks and copyrights that have been recorded with CBP by their owners using the Intellectual Property Rights e-Recordation (IPRR) system, https://iprr.cbp.gov/. CBP administers these recordations using a secure proprietary database. Product ID manuals provided by rights holders are also linked to the database and used by CBP in making IPR border enforcement determinations.

Intellectual Property Rights Search
CBP works closely with rights holders in making IPR enforcement determinations. A public database of both active and inactive recordations is available using a search engine called the Intellectual Property Rights Search (IPRS) at http://iprs.cbp.gov/ Information on potential IPR infringements can be submitted to CBP using the e-Allegations Online Trade Violation Reporting System at https://eallegations.cbp.gov/Home/Index2.

As of September 30, 2020, CBP was enforcing 18,757 active recorded copyrights and trademarks. In FY 2020, CBP's Office of Trade (OT) received and responded to 455 inquiries from the field concerning IPR enforcement. This represents a 20 percent increase from FY 2019. At the end of FY 2020, CBP was administering 127 active exclusion orders issued by the U.S. International Trade Commission (USITC) following investigations of unfair import practices in the importation of articles into the U.S. in violation of 19 U.S.C. § 1337, the majority of which are based on allegations of patent infringement. CBP's enforcement of these orders resulted in 137 exclusion order administrative actions.

IPR & E-Commerce

E-Commerce sales have contributed to large volumes of low-value packages imported into the United States. In FY 2020, there were 184 million express shipments and 356 million international mail shipments. Many of these shipments contain counterfeit goods that pose the same health, safety, and economic security risks as containerized shipments. Over 90 percent of all intellectual property seizures occur in the international mail and express environments. The ongoing e-commerce revolution drove a 28 percent increase in low-value shipments and a 219 percent increase in air cargo in Fiscal Year 2020.

In response to the increase in e-commerce, CBP has created a modernized enforcement and facilitation framework for e-commerce through the administration of Section 321 Data Pilot and Entry Type 86 Test.

Section 321 Data Pilot
Initiated in 2019, the Section 321 Data Pilot is a voluntary collaboration with online marketplaces, carriers, technology firms, and logistics providers to secure e-commerce supply chains and protect American consumers. The pilot allows CBP to accept shipment-level information directly from online marketplaces and match it with the information received from traditional carriers. As a result, CBP is empowered to better segment risk and to perform more effective and efficient targeted screening with respect to Section 321 shipments. The number of shipments qualifying for the Section 321 exemption has greatly increased, largely due to the enactment of TFTEA, which raised the de minimis value cap from $200 to $800.

Entry Type 86
The Entry Type 86 Test provides filing capabilities through the Automated Broker Interface, accommodates entries that include PGA data and the 10-digit Harmonized Tariff Schedule, and expedites clearance of compliant de minimis shipments into the United States.

The pilots have shown significant operational and private sector benefits when seller, enhanced product description and other transactional details are provided. Combined, CBP has received enhanced targeting and admissibility data on over 300 million shipments to date.

CBP is also working to educate the public, including consumers and importers alike, of the risks associated with non-compliant products. In FY 2020, CBP published the E-Commerce Counterfeit Awareness Guide for Consumers and the E-Commerce Counterfeit Awareness Guide for Importers to create awareness for consumers and importers about their responsibilities to comply with customs regulations. Additionally, CBP issued an administrative ruling clarifying the duty-free status of certain low-value shipments. Visit https://www.cbp.gov/trade/basic-import-export/e-commerce to learn more about CBP's efforts in e-commerce.

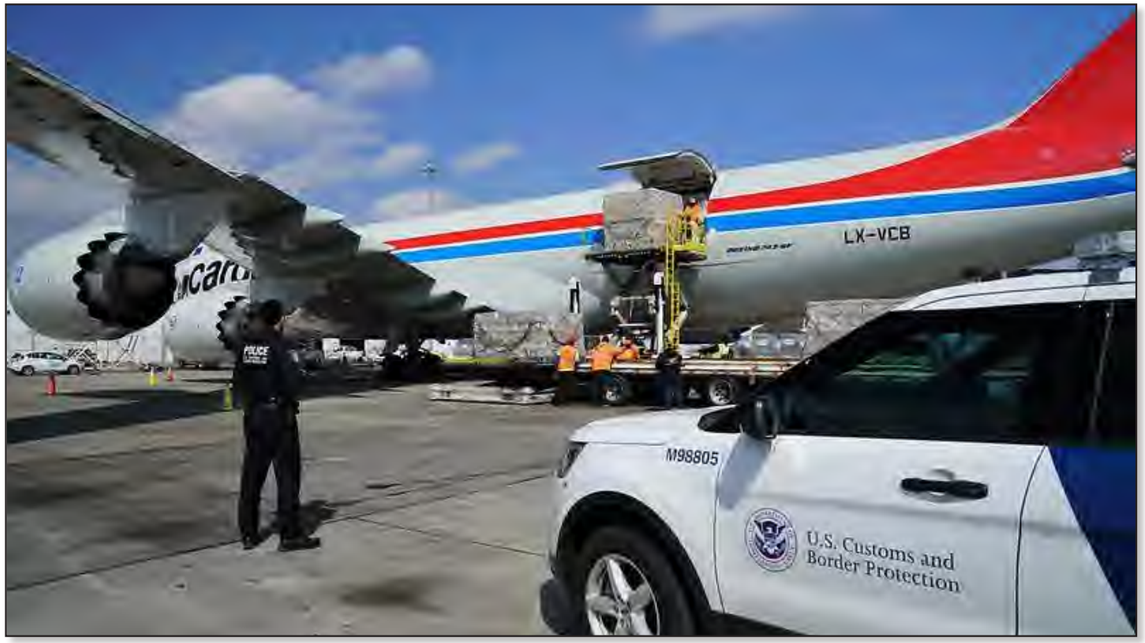

Exclusion Orders

CBP enforces exclusion orders issued by the International Trade Commission (ITC). Most ITC exclusion orders are patent-based. The ITC issues both limited and general exclusion orders. Limited exclusion orders apply only to infringing articles of named respondents. General exclusion orders bar the entry of infringing articles by all.

Exclusion orders prohibit the entry of all covered articles, even if they were not specifically accused and found to infringe by the ITC. Once excluded, subsequent importations of the same articles by the same importer are subject to seizure.

Notes:
For shipments seized under an active exclusion order, in FY20 a total of 169 seizures cited 19 USC 1337(i) with a total MSRP of $12,241,036. During FY 2020, CBP enforced up to 128 active exclusion orders.

BUY SAFE AMERICA COALITION

THE IMPACT OF COUNTERFEIT CONSUMER PRODUCTS SMUGGLED INTO THE UNITED STATES

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Buy Safe America Coalition represents a diverse group of responsible retailers, consumer groups, manufacturers, intellectual property advocates and law enforcement officials who support efforts at all levels of government to protect consumers and communities from the sale of counterfeit and stolen goods.

One important issue facing US businesses is the massive growth in the availability and sales of illicit products, both from counterfeit imports — increasingly from China — and from products stolen from legitimate retailers and sold through online marketplaces, where the anonymity of a screenname has made it easier and more profitable to fence counterfeit and stolen goods. The Coalition asked John Dunham & Associates (JDA) to examine the data around these illicit sales to determine how they impact the US economy, federal tax revenues, and criminal activity.

This is the first of a series of papers examining the issue of counterfeit and stolen goods and its effect on the United States economy. This analysis will focus on the importation of illicit products, notably counterfeits that violate producers' intellectual property rights. Future analysis will examine the effects of domestic smuggling, the resale of stolen goods, and the effects of contraband on overall criminal activity.

According to the analysis:

- A large share of contraband items are delivered to US consumers by mail or by express consignment. These transactions account for over 60.8 percent of all seizures by the US customs service and over 90 percent of intellectual property rights (IPR) seizures. The growth in these types of shipments has increased along with the use of online marketplaces. Amazon, for instance, now derives more than 75 percent of their ecommerce revenue from marketplace sales.[1]

- In effect, as companies like the Chinese ecommerce marketplace Alibaba and the Amazon marketplace, have linked more consumers to more shippers, many companies producing illegitimate products have gained access to unwitting consumers in America.

- The bulk of counterfeit products to the US come from China and its dependent territories, accounting for over 90.6 percent of all cargo with IPR violations. Of the $1.23 billion in total IPR violations intercepted, $1.12 billion was from China.

- Examining just those data where CBP can provide an HS code, in some cases, the amount of contraband cargo is nearly equal to the entire import base.[2] For example, imports of certain sweaters, jumpsuits and toys from China are almost 100 percent contraband, as are large amounts of handbags, jewelry and belts.

- While there is substantial academic literature on the smuggling of narcotics, people and tobacco, there is very little written on counterfeit products. Using a very conservative model it is estimated that $44.3 billion in additional illicit cargo is escaping detection.

- These lost sales alone mean that over 39,860 jobs in wholesaling and nearly 283,400 retail jobs are lost due to the impact of counterfeit goods skirting normal trade channels. All told, the sale of counterfeit items is expected to cost the wholesale and retail sectors of the US economy nearly 653,450 full-time equivalent jobs, that pay over $33.6 billion in wages and benefits to US workers.

- It is estimated that the smuggling of counterfeit goods costs the US government nearly $7.2 billion in personal and business tax revenues alone.

- This analysis is based on the current level of CBP intercepts of illicit cargo. It is likely that the number of illegal imports is much larger than even estimated here.

1 In 2020, $295 billion worth of products were sold by third-parties on the Amazon marketplace. Meanwhile, Amazon's own retail sales were only $180 billion. Kaziukenas, Jouzas, Marketplaces Year in Review 2020, Marketplace Pulse, at: www.marketplacepulse.com/marketplaces-year-in-review-2020

BACKGROUND

The Buy Safe America Coalition represents a diverse group of responsible retailers, consumer groups, manufacturers, intellectual property advocates and law enforcement officials who support efforts at all levels of government to protect consumers and communities from the sale of counterfeit and stolen goods.

One important issue facing US businesses is the massive growth in the availability and sales of illicit products, both from counterfeit imports — increasingly from China — and from products stolen from legitimate retailers and sold through online marketplaces where the anonymity of a screenname has made it easier and more profitable to fence counterfeit and stolen goods. The Coalition asked John Dunham & Associates (JDA) to examine the data around these illicit sales to determine how they impact the US economy, federal tax revenues, and criminal activity.

This is the first of a series of papers examining the issue of organized retail crime (ORC), and its effect on the US economy. This analysis will focus on the importation of illicit products, notably counterfeits that violate producers' intellectual property rights. Future analysis will examine the effects of domestic smuggling, the resale of stolen goods, and the effects of contraband on overall criminal activity.

CUSTOMS SERVICE DATA

One source of illicit products sold through fences and ecommerce sites are counterfeit products brought into the United States illegally. According to US Customs and Border Protection (CBP), most counterfeit products now come through international mail and express courier services. Since FY2013, CBP has seen a 168 percent increase in the number of express consignment and international mail shipments, and in FY 2019, the agency processed over 600 million express consignment and international mail shipments.[3]

In FY2019, over 90 percent of intellectual property rights (IPR) seizures were found in express and international mail shipments,[4] and based on data provided through a freedom of information request, over 59.3 percent of all goods seized by CBP were being shipped by mail or international express consignment services.[5] This compares to just 22.6 percent arriving by ocean vessel. Table 1 outlines the source of illicit shipments seized by carrier type.

This is not a new phenomenon. According to CBP data, mail and express consignment services have been the primary source of IPR seizures since at least 2007.[6] During that year, seizures from these sources accounted for roughly 75 percent of all interceptions, a number which fell to roughly 70 percent until FY 2013, when they rose to about 90 percent. Seizures from express consignment and mail deliveries have averaged 89.6 percent since then.

The growth in IPR seizures from mail and express consignment delivery has closely tracked the growth in ecommerce sales.

Figure 1

Growth in Section 321 Shipments

Rather than being imported by smugglers and then sold through illegitimate retailers, street vendors or ecommerce sites, according to CPB, the US consumer now initiates most imports, most of which are Section 321 shipments that meet de minimis requirements to

Smugglers Hide Behind Ecommerce Services

The growth in IPR violations has closely tracked the growth in ecommerce. Before the advent of Alibaba, Amazon, Ebay, and other on-line services, smugglers had to ship goods to a network of traffickers who used street dealers and other physical means to get counterfeit products to market. This can still be seen today in places like New York City, where operatives working for criminal networks sell counterfeit watches and handbags on the street.

Now, with the advent of ecommerce, most of these illicit transactions are enacted by the buyer when they order products on-line, through catalogues or by phone. In many of these cases, third-party sellers working under the umbrella of legitimate ecommerce sites, then directly ship the counterfeit product to the seller either by mail or courier service. Many, if not most of these consumers may not be aware that the products are illicit in any way.

The growth in these transactions closely matches the growth in ecommerce services. In fact, there is a strong correlation between the growth in ecommerce services and the percentage of IPR seizures made from mail or express courier deliveries. As ecommerce shopping has grown from about 3 to about 10 percent of all retail transactions, the percentage of seizures from non-cargo shipments has risen as well, from about 70 to nearly 90 percent.

This growth parallels changes in ecommerce marketplaces, with the Chinese Alibaba launching AliExpress.com in 2010 and 11 Main in 2014, a site geared to the US market that hosts more than 1,000 merchants in categories such as clothing, fashion accessories and jewelry. Meanwhile, Amazon.com, which began as an online book broker in 1995, launched its Prime service in 2005, the same year that Etsy began its service for third-party retailers.

A significant increase in these shipments began in 2014 when Amazon launched its Marketplace for third-party retailers.

enter duty-free into the US. Generally, these are shipments with a value of $800 or less.[7]

As Figure 1 shows, Section 321 shipments have grown dramatically over the past 35 years, from just around $4.0 billion in 1992 to $17.5 billion last year.[8] While part of this is due to inflation, the largest increases occurred as companies like Alibaba and Amazon were promoting their ecommerce services to outside parties. It is interesting to note that overall, 321 shipments fell dramatically following the 2007-2008 recession and have stabilized in the $18 billion range since then (see box).

As expected, the fastest growth in 321 shipments in dollar terms has been from the People's Republic of China, with other major trade partners like Mexico and Germany following at a distant 2nd and 3rd place.

Examining the seizure data provided by the customs service shows that almost 36.9 percent of all shipments intercepted were Section 321 shipments; however, these represented just 0.6 percent of the total value of products seized by the customs service. Table 3 below shows how the vast majority of shipments with IPR violations seized by the CBP are generally small in size.

Obviously, with so many small shipments being drop-shipped to consumers from sources located all over the world, it is difficult to ensure that counterfeit and dangerous products don't reach American households. Fortunately for law enforcement, the shipments that do violate IPR, or other laws, originate mainly from China or its dependent territories of Macau and Hong Kong, meaning that the customs service can concentrate on these particular countries of origin.

Again, looking at the seizure statistics, over 90.6 percent of all cargo with IPR violations comes from China or its dependent territories. Of the total $1.23 billion in IPR violations intercepted, $1.12 billion was from China. This is equal to over 29.0 percent of all Section 321 shipments from China and its dependent territories. Compare this to the $0.11 billion intercepted from all other countries – just 0.08 percent of shipments.

This cargo tends to be concentrated into just a few products. Examining just those data where CBP can provide an HS code, in some cases, the amount of contraband cargo is nearly equal to the entire import base.[9] For example, imports of certain sweaters, jumpsuits and toys are almost 100 percent contraband, as are large amounts of handbags, jewelry and belts.

[9] Over 7.2 percent of the cargo identified as seized in the data provided by CBP was labeled as CGD, CID, EVD, GEN, NONE, VEH or blank.

As Table 4 on the following page shows, nearly all these products emanate from China and its dependent territories. No other country is the source for this much IPR related contraband, only Turkey (which represents 1.2 percent of contraband sales) and Vietnam (1.1 percent), even top one percent. China, on the other hand, accounts for 90.6 percent of all seized goods.[10] In addition, contraband imports from China are highly skewed toward parcels and general mail, suggesting that a large portion are drop-shipped via an Internet sale. Nearly 60.4 percent of all of this IPR-related contraband cargo seized from China entered the country this way, while a smaller share, 49.0 percent, came via parcel from other countries.

It's Not Just Fancy Watches

Buying a fake Rolex or Fendi bag on New York City's Canal Street is seen by many as an innocent tourist experience. However, it is not, in that it costs American companies billions of dollars in lost sales, and often sends money to gangs, terrorist organizations and even North Korea.

But smuggling of illicit products goes well beyond the designer brands featured on Canal Street. According to Fox Business, the Customs Service intercepted 171,460 fake N95 masks that originated in China. (https://www.foxnews.com/us/cbp-intercepts-counterfeit-n95-masks-worth-)350k-originated-china

The counterfeit masks, which would be used to protect front-line workers from infections, such as COVID-19, came in boxes with the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health logo on them.

CBP has seized approximately 18 million counterfeit masks in the first three months of 2021 – well above the 12 million that the agency seized for all of fiscal year 2020 and a mere 1,300 in fiscal year 2019.

To counteract the problem, CBP ran a public awareness campaign on the "Truth Behind Counterfeits" during FY2019. The campaign, which was intended to educate the public on the negative impacts associated with the purchase of counterfeit goods, highlighted how purchasing knockoffs can damage the US economy, destroy American jobs, support criminal activity, and be harmful to the health and safety of consumers.[11]

While it is impossible to fully document the extent of contraband goods entering US commerce, the very fact that such a large percentage of overall recorded imports are captured by the customs service for certain product categories suggests that most other recorded cargo is likely being legitimately shipped, at least in the case of items like handbags, garments, jewelry, electronic parts and certain chemicals. What is not known is what comes in through the black market, where the good is never recorded as entering the country. With such a small amount of cargo entering US customs territory over land, this may be a major source for these goods.[12]

ESTIMATES OF ADDITIONAL SMUGGLED CONTRABAND PRODUCTS

The Danger of Illicit Products

Counterfeit products do not only cause economic losses, as legitimate manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers see their markets undercut by products violating international property rights regulations, but illicit products can also be extremely dangerous.

For example, an investigation by reporters with the Wall Street Journal, found 4,152 items for sale on Amazon's Marketplace that have been declared unsafe or banned by federal regulators, or have deceptive labels. These include 116 products that were falsely listed as "FDA-approved" including 98 eyelash-growth serums that never undertook the drug-approval process to be marketed as approved. It also included 80 listings for infant sleeping wedges the FDA has warned can cause suffocation. (Wall Street Journal, August 23, 2019)

According to a recent report by the Department of Homeland Security, counterfeiting is no longer confined to street-corners and flea markets. The report cites figures from the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) which suggest that the amount of counterfeit goods traded internationally was $509 billion in 2016.[13] While this is the worldwide figure, the amount of counterfeit products imported into the United States alone is staggering.

Using the data from the customs service, and US overall trade data, it is possible to estimate the overall scope of contraband goods being imported into the United States. It is obvious from the outset that the Customs Service is not intercepting anywhere near the volume of contraband cargo entering the country, for were they, there would be no counterfeit handbags, perfume or Gucci watches being sold on the streets of America. But while data on what is intercepted are available, what is not intercepted is, by definition, unknown. In addition, while there is substantial academic literature on the smuggling of narcotics, people and tobacco, there is very little written on counterfeit products.[14]

Using a Monte Carlo analysis to determine the total size of the illicit import market (see Methodology), gives an estimated total market of over approximately $45.5 billion, of which the customs service intercepted $1.2 billion, or about 2.7 percent. This suggests that as much as 10 percent of the counterfeit goods shipped worldwide come to the United States. Table 5 on the following page shows the estimated illegitimate imports by major category. Over 99.3 percent of the products are manufactured goods, however, there are products classified under the agriculture, mineral and other sectors as well. Of these, most are food products (see box), while others are items made of glass, crystal and stone.

The wide range of products being smuggled from China is hard to imagine. In February of this year, the CBP confiscated 36 counterfeit guitars at Dulles Airport.[15] Some of these were even autographed with fake signatures.

Based on these confiscation data, the universe of smuggled products violating international property rights that is not detained by US Customs may be as much as $44.3 billion.

ECONOMIC IMPACT OF SMUGGLED GOODS

Smuggled and contraband goods, particularly those being drop-shipped by Chinese and other foreign entities, do not enter the normal trade channels in the United States. Even for imported goods that are designed, sourced and manufactured in a foreign country, the transportation, wholesaling and retailing services provided by US based companies account for a large part of the overall value of the product at retail. It is estimated that just 21 product types account for over 60 percent (60.7 percent) of all of the contraband goods entering the United States. These illegitimate imports alone cost domestic retailers nearly $54.1 billion in sales.

Based on data provided by the US Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis, the economic losses to domestic wholesalers and retailers from counterfeits entering US commerce is over $38.1 billion. This is not the loss in retail sales, but rather the value added that wholesalers and retailers would have generated had these products gone through normal supply chains.

These value-added figures can be converted into jobs using the IMPLAN input/output model. A full description of the model is included in the methodological section to this report, but in basic terms, the model uses the production structure of the US economy to calculate how much production is generated by each employee in each sector of the economy.

In this case, based on where these types of products are sold, it is estimated that 39,860 jobs in wholesaling and nearly 283,400 retail jobs are lost due to the impact of counterfeit goods skirting normal trade channels. Table 7 outlines these losses, along with the lost jobs from suppliers that would serve those establishments, and the lost jobs that would have been induced by employees re-spending their wages in the economy.

Table 7

Estimated 2020 Economic Impact of Contraband Smuggled into the United States (Major Categories Only)

	Jobs		Wages		Output
Wholesale	39,863	$	3,700,006,458	$	14,133,127,968
Retail	283,393	$	9,929,601,160	$	23,568,099,880
Total Direct	323,256	$	13,629,607,618	$	37,701,227,848
Supplier	137,786	$	9,207,399,939	$	26,076,081,172
Induced	192,405	$	10,764,205,892	$	34,113,113,912
Total	653,447	$	33,601,213,448	$	97,890,422,932

In effect, an imported belt, handbag, or bottle of perfume owes the bulk of its retail value to services provided by wholesalers, retailers and transportation companies that package, distribute and hold the product in inventory until such time as the consumer wishes to purchase it. All told, smuggling of counterfeit items is expected to cost the wholesale and retail sectors of the US economy nearly 323,260 full-time equivalent jobs, paying over $13.6 billion in wages and benefits to workers.

LOST TAXES DUE TO SMUGGLED PRODUCTS

In addition to leading to lost jobs, the smuggling of counterfeit products into the country reduces tax revenues. This not only includes sales tax revenues that are not collected when consumers purchase items through normal trade channels, but customs duties for the federal government.

Table 8

Estimated Fiscal Losses due to Reduced Economic Activity

	Federal	State & Local	Total
From Wholesaling Activities	$ 2,401,440,480	$ 1,834,330,233	$ 4,235,770,713
From Retailing Activities	$ 4,750,056,860	$ 4,559,275,826	$ 9,309,332,686
Total	$ 7,151,497,340	$ 6,393,606,059	$ 13,545,103,399

In addition, the lost jobs and wages resulting from smuggling lead to losses in taxes from businesses and workers. The loss of 653,450 workers due to smuggling will reduce state and local tax collections from income taxes, property taxes, sales taxes and excise taxes that these workers would have generated in the economy, but also lost profits, taxes and license fees from businesses. The same is true for the federal government, which would see reduced income taxes, social security taxes and excise taxes. All told, it is estimated that smuggling of counterfeit goods costs the government over $13.5 billion in these tax revenues alone.

CONCLUSION

Based on an extremely conservative analysis of smuggled contraband products, over $45.5 billion in contraband products are likely entering US commerce each year. This is on top of the over $1.2 billion worth of products detained by the US Customs Service, which represents nearly 10 percent of all contraband products shipped between countries.

Its More Than Just the Economics

A recent report in the Cincinnati Enquirer stated that US Customs officers in that city seized 242 fake Cartier bracelets from China with a retail value of $3.6 million. (https://www.cincinnati.com/story/news/2021/04/19/fake-cartier-bracelets-seized-cincinnati-were-headed-indiana-customs-says/7283940002/)

According to Cincinnati Port Director Richard Gillespie, "Purchasing counterfeit goods not only damages our small businesses and enterprises, but also supports criminal institutions that often engage in human rights violations such as child labor and forced labor."

Since these products do not enter normal distribution channels, they likely cost the US economy nearly 653,450 full-time equivalent jobs, paying over $33.6 billion in wages and benefits to workers. In addition, over $13.5 billion in personal and business tax revenues alone, not to mention state and local sales taxes, would be lost.

The majority of these products come from China and its dependent territories. Of the total $1.23 billion intercepted, $1.12 billion, or 91.1 percent was from China.

METHODOLOGICAL APPENDIX

The most studied form of international smuggling for products legitimately sold at retail is the illicit trade in cigarettes. Spurred by what were then extraordinarily high excise taxes, and more stringent marketing restrictions in the late 1990s - the volume of contraband cigarettes exploded. In fact, based on research conducted by the General Accounting Office, in the early part the 2000s, when high taxes and minimal penalties began to encourage cigarette smuggling, seizures of cigarettes indicated that as many as 80 percent were counterfeit.[16]

Counterfeit Cigarettes as a Percent of Internationally Smuggled Cigarettes

Because of the profitability of the trade, by 2003, cigarettes accounted for about 44 percent of all illicit cargo seized by US customs agents, whereas today, watches and jewelry account for about 45 percent of the cargo seized. As is the case today, much of this was shipped by on-line retailers based in off-shore locations.

These figures suggest that the size of the counterfeit cigarette trade in the early part of the century can serve as a good proxy, at least when it comes to the larger IPR smuggling categories. And this market was substantial. Based on a number of studies by academics on both sides of the cigarette debate, the size of the overall tobacco market supplied by internationally smuggled products ranges fairly widely, but generally falls in the neighborhood of at least 10 percent.[17]

This paper reports that international smuggling accounts for between 15 and 21 percent of the market in the UK and 9.5 percent in Germany; Levinson, Bruce, An Inquiry into the Nature, Causes and Impacts of Contraband Cigarettes, Center for Regulatory Effectiveness, January 2011, which reports

The literature on international cigarette smuggling can be a good model to use to determine the volume of IPR related smuggling, since a large portion of this product is indeed counterfeit. The model uses a bounded Monte Carlo simulation analysis.

Monte Carlo simulation is a probability simulation used to estimate the possible outcomes of an uncertain event. In this case, the model is used to estimate the average amount of contraband cargo for each of the product categories imported from China.

The technique was invented during World War II to improve decision making under uncertain conditions and uses a probability simulation similar to a game of roulette – thus the name. Monte Carlo simulation predicts a set of outcomes based on a set of fixed input values and a given probability distribution. In this case, the model uses a normal probability distribution and a mean value of 10 percent (from the tobacco literature) and a standard deviation of 0.273, which is the measure of the amount of variation in the percentage of imports by HS code from China. In effect, the model is based on a simulation of smuggling values representing the range of legitimate imports from China and an average smuggling rate of 10 percent.

The Monte Carlo Simulation builds a model of possible results using the probability distribution, by recalculating the results over and over, each time using a different set of random numbers between the minimum and maximum values. In this case, the minimum value is the amount of contraband intercepted by US Customs in 2019, and the upper value is unbounded. The model is run 250 times, and the average mean percent of those 250 simulations is used in this model.

The model uses data from the US Customs service to measure overall imports in 2019 by commodity, for a total of 20,074 commodity types. The same data are used to estimate imports from China and its dependent territories of Hong Kong and Macau.[18]

For HS 9999950000 (Estimated Imports Of Low Valued Transactions), the percentage of low-value transactions from the customs smuggling data (0.7 percent by value) was split across categories and added back into the overall import data. So too was the intercepted contraband data. This provides an estimate of overall imports into the US of all products both legitimate and illegitimate. This was the baseline dataset that the Monte Carlo simulation was run with.

In this case, the model predicts that the overall value of smuggled counterfeit imports was approximately $46.1 billion. From this, about $612.5 million was removed because they were products classified as returns of US goods, or other non-commercial categories. This brought the total estimate of smuggled products to $45,534.2 million of which the customs service intercepted $1,230.9 million, or about 2.7 percent. The vast share of these imports would be from China.

The estimated illegitimate import data were linked to wholesale and retail margin data from the US Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis. These data provide the markups that bring the import price of each product to both the wholesale and retail prices. This allows for a calculation of the value added domestically at each stage that is lost because the products are not going through normal retail channels. These value-added estimates are used to calculate the economic impacts of smuggled products on US wholesalers and retailers using the IMPLAN model.

IMPLAN Model

The analysis utilizes the IMPLAN model to calculate economic impacts.[19] The model adopts an accounting framework through which the relationships between different inputs and outputs across industries and sectors are computed. This model can show the impact of a given economic decision – such as a retailer opening – on a pre-defined, geographic region. It is based on the national income accounts generated by the US Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA).[20]

The IMPLAN model is designed to run based on the input of specific direct economic factors. It uses a detailed methodology (see IMPLAN Methodology section) to generate estimates of the other direct impacts, tax impacts and supplier and induced impacts based on these entries. In the case of this model, estimated changes in the estimated retail sales price of contraband products is a starting point for the analysis.

Once the changes in sales have been established, they are entered into a model linked to the IMPLAN database. The IMPLAN data are used to generate estimates of employment direct wages and output. Wages are derived from the U.S. Department of Labor's ES-202 reports. IMPLAN uses this data to provide annual average wage and salary, establishment counts, employment counts, and payrolls at the county level. Since this data only covers payroll employees, it is modified to add information on independent workers, agricultural employees, construction workers, and certain government employees. Data are then adjusted to account for counties where non-disclosure rules apply. Wage data include not only cash wages, but health and life insurance payments, retirement payments and other non-cash compensation. In short, it includes all income paid to workers by employers.

Total output is the value of production by industry in a given state. It is estimated by IMPLAN from sources similar to those used by the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) in its RIMS II series. Where no Census or government surveys are available, IMPLAN uses models such as the Bureau of Labor Statistics' growth model to estimate the missing output.

The model also includes information on income received by the federal, state and local governments and produces estimates for the following taxes at the federal level: corporate income; payroll, personal income, estate and gift, customs duties; and fines, fees, etc. State and local tax revenues include estimates of:

corporate profits, property, sales, severance, estate and gift and personal income taxes; licenses and fees and certain payroll taxes.

IMPLAN Methodology[21]

Input-output analysis, for which Wassily Leontief received the 1973 Nobel Prize in Economics for, is an econometric technique used to examine the relationships within an economy. It captures all monetary market transactions for consumption in a given period and for a specific geography. The IMPLAN model uses data from many different sources – as published government data series, unpublished data, sets of relationships, ratios, or as estimates. IMPLAN gathers this data, converts them into a consistent format, and estimates the missing components.

There are three different levels of data generally available in the United States: federal, state, and county. Most of the detailed data are available at the county level, but there are many issues with disclosure, especially in the case of smaller industries. IMPLAN overcomes these disclosure problems by combining a large number of datasets and estimating variables that are not found in the merged data. The data are then converted into national input-output matrices (Use, Make, By-products, Absorption, and Market Shares) as well as national tables for deflators, regional purchase coefficients, and margins.

The IMPLAN Make matrix represents the production of commodities by industry. The Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) Benchmark I/O Study of the US Make Table forms the bases of the IMPLAN model. The Benchmark Make Table is updated to current year prices and rearranged into the IMPLAN sector format. The IMPLAN Use matrix is based on estimates of final demand, value-added by sector, and total industry and commodity output data as provided by government statistics or estimated by IMPLAN. The BEA Benchmark Use table is then bridged to the IMPLAN sectors. Once the re-sectoring is complete, the Use tables can be updated based on the other data and model calculations of interstate and international trade.

In the IMPLAN model, as with any input-output framework, all expenditures are in terms of producer prices. This allocates all expenditures to the industries that produce goods and services. As a result, all data not received in producer prices are converted using margins derived from the BEA Input-Output model. Margins represent the difference between producer and consumer prices. As such, the margins for any good add up to one.

Deflators, which account for relative price changes during different time periods, are derived from the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) Growth Model. The 224 sector BLS model is mapped to the 544 sectors of the IMPLAN model. Where data are missing, deflators from BEA's Survey of Current Businesses are used.

Finally, the Regional Purchase Coefficients (RPCs) – essential to the IMPLAN model – must be derived. IMPLAN is derived from a national model, which represents the "average" condition for a particular industry. Since national production functions do not necessarily represent particular regional differences, adjustments need to be made. Regional trade flows are estimated based on the Multi-Regional Input-

Output Accounts, a cross-sectional database with consistent cross interstate trade flows developed in 1977. These data are updated and bridged to the 544 sector IMPLAN model.

Once the databases and matrices are created, they go through an extensive validation process. IMPLAN builds separate state and county models and evaluates them, checking to ensure that no ratios are outside of recognized bounds. The final datasets and matrices are not released until extensive testing takes place.

Product Description

Attributes:

- High Quality and Light Weight Frame Sliders (Left & Right Sides)
- Frame sliders help to protect the frame, engine cases and bodywork/fairings to minimize the cost of repair
- Professional installation is recommended

Specifics

- Quantity: 1 pair
- Instructions: Not Included
- Condition: Brand New, Never Used
- Color: Same as picture show
- Material: Delrin

Quick bullet points about sliders:

- They are not designed to protect plastics, clipons, or rearsets, even though they might help sometimes
- You do not want a slider to stick out too far or it will help flip your bike in a crash by snagging on the ground, curb or anything else
- You want delrin or plastic to touch down when you crash as they will grind off and not catch on anything and if hit hard enough or direct enough they will shatter
- If your slider shatters, grinds off or bends then it did it's job. You don't want it solid after a crash or it didn't absorb any energy but merely transfered it on to what you bolted it to
- When F1 cars hit the side of a track they explode as they don't want the drive to absorb the energy. Frame sliders are the same way. You want them to stay attached but get beat up and take the energy
- If the bolt on a frame slider bends that's a good thing as the only other option is to put the energy on the frame or mounting point. Better the bolt bends. Also if it didn't bend it might have flip the bike by snagging something. A mangled frame slider but still on the bike did it's job
- No cut frame sliders aren't a direct bolt on like cut sliders as they often have a bracket

Fitment:

- 2006-2011 FZ1

★★☆☆☆ INSPECT HARDWARE CAREFULLY

Reviewed in the United States on May 6, 2020

Size: 2006-2011 FZ1 | Color: Black | Verified Purchase

The sliders are great but the bolts are garbage and should not be used. Buy something else with better hardware because it cost 10$ at the hardware store to buy replacement. The threads were awful and the Allen hole wasn't even centered. I'm giving it 2 stars because the black slider material is decent looking.

Easy to install. Held up to a minor fall. Would probably have to replace if I ever went down hard. Made out of hard plastic and mars up easily but isn't that what they are for? Kept my fairings from getting scratched

Seems like it should work perfectly. This was used on a 2006 FZ1. If you have the full fairings this will not work.

INSPECT HARDWARE CAREFULLY

Reviewed in the United States on May 6, 2020

The sliders are great but the bolts are garbage and should not be used. Buy something else with better hardware because it cost 10$ at the hardware store to buy replacement. The threads were awful and the Allen hole wasn't even centered. I'm giving it 2 stars because the black slider material is decent looking.

Easy to install. Held up to a minor fall. Would probably have to replace if I ever went down hard. Made out of hard plastic and marr up easily but isn't that what they are for? Kept my fairings from getting scratched.

Foreword/Message from the Acting Secretary of Homeland Security

The rapid growth of e-commerce has revolutionized the way goods are bought and sold, allowing for counterfeit and pirated goods to flood our borders and penetrate our communities and homes. Illicit goods trafficked to American consumers by e-commerce platforms and online third-party marketplaces threaten public health and safety, as well as national security. This illicit activity impacts American innovation and erodes the competitiveness of U.S. manufacturers and workers.

Consumers must be confident in the safety, quality, and authenticity of the products they purchase online. DHS is committed to combating counterfeiters and pirates with the help of our U.S. Government partners and private sector stakeholders - who are critical to helping secure supply chains to stem the tide of counterfeit and pirated goods.

"Combating Trafficking in Counterfeit and Pirated Goods," has been prepared by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Office of Strategy, Policy, and Plans. The report uses available data, substantial public input, and other information to develop a deeper understanding of how e-commerce platforms, online third-party marketplaces, and other third-party intermediaries facilitate the importation and sale of massive amounts of counterfeit and pirated goods. The report identifies appropriate administrative, statutory, regulatory, and other actions, including enhanced enforcement measures, modernization of legal and liability frameworks, and best practices for private sector stakeholders. These strong actions can be implemented swiftly to substantially reduce trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods while promoting a safer America.

This report was prepared pursuant to President Donald J. Trump's April 3, 2019, Memorandum on Combating Trafficking in Counterfeit and Pirated Goods. The President's historic memorandum provides a much warranted and long overdue call to action in the U.S. Government's fight against a massive form of illicit trade that is inflicting significant harm on American consumers and businesses. This illicit trade must be stopped in its tracks.

This report was prepared in coordination with the Secretaries of Commerce and State, the Attorney General, the Office of Management and Budget, the Intellectual Property Enforcement Coordinator, the United States Trade Representative, the Assistant to the President for Economic Policy, the Assistant to the President for Trade and Manufacturing Policy, and with other partners in the U.S. Government. The report also benefitted from extensive engagement with the private sector.

Sincerely,

Chad Wolf
Acting Secretary,
U.S. Department of Homeland Security

1. Executive Summary

The President's April 3, 2019, Memorandum on Combating Trafficking in Counterfeit and Pirated Goods calls prompt attention to illicit trade that erodes U.S. economic competitiveness and catalyzes compounding threats to national security and public safety.

Counterfeiting is no longer confined to street-corners and flea markets. The problem has intensified to staggering levels, as shown by a recent Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) report, which details a 154 percent increase in counterfeits traded internationally — from $200 billion in 2005 to $509 billion in 2016. Similar information collected by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) between 2000 and 2018 shows that seizures of infringing goods at U.S. borders have increased 10-fold, from 3,244 seizures per year to 33,810.

Relevant to the President's inquiry into the linkages between e-commerce and counterfeiting, OECD reports that "E-commerce platforms represent ideal storefronts for counterfeits and provide powerful platform[s] for counterfeiters and pirates to engage large numbers of potential consumers."[1] Similarly, the U.S. Government Accountability Office (GAO) found that e-commerce has contributed to a shift in the sale of counterfeit goods in the United States, with consumers increasingly purchasing goods online and counterfeiters producing a wider variety of goods that may be sold on websites alongside authentic products.

Respondents to the July 10, 2019, Federal Register Notice issued by the Department of Commerce echoed these observations.[2] Perhaps most notably, the International Anti-Counterfeiting Coalition (IACC) reports that the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods in e-commerce is a top priority for every sector of its membership — comprised of more than 200 corporations, including many of the world's best-known brands in the apparel, automotive, electronics, entertainment, luxury goods, pharmaceutical, personal care and software sectors. The IACC submission goes on to say:

> Across every sector of the IACC's membership, the need to address the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods in e-commerce has been cited as a top priority. The vast amounts of resources our members must dedicate to ensuring the safety and vitality of the online marketplace, bears out the truth of the issue highlighted by Peter Navarro, Assistant to the President for Trade and Manufacturing Policy, in his April 3, 2019 Op-Ed piece in The Wall Street Journal - that the sale of counterfeit brand-name goods presents a pervasive and ever-growing threat in the online space. One IACC member reported making

[1] OECD (2018), Governance Frameworks to Counter Illicit Trade, Illicit Trade, OECD Publishing, Paris, https://doi.org/10.1787/9789264291652-en.

[2] Under Federal Register Notice (84 FR 32861), the Department of Commerce sought "comments from intellectual property rights holders, online third-party marketplaces and other third-party intermediaries, and other private-sector stakeholders on the state of counterfeit and pirated goods trafficking through online third-party marketplaces and recommendations for curbing the trafficking in such counterfeit and pirated goods."

> hundreds of investigative online test purchases over the past year, with a nearly 80% successfully resulting in the receipt of a counterfeit item.[3]

The scale of counterfeit activity online is evidenced as well by the significant efforts e-commerce platforms themselves have had to undertake. A major e-commerce platform reports that its proactive efforts prevented over 1 million suspected bad actors from publishing a single product for sale through its platform and blocked over 3 billion suspected counterfeit listings from being published to their marketplace. Despite efforts such as these, private sector actions have not been sufficient to prevent the importation and sale of a wide variety and large volume of counterfeit and pirated goods to the American public.

The projected growth of e-commerce fuels mounting fears that the scale of the problem will only increase, especially under a business-as-usual scenario. Consequently, an effective and meaningful response to the President's memorandum is a matter of national import.

Actions to be Taken by DHS and the U.S. Government

Despite public and private efforts to-date, the online availability of counterfeit and pirated goods continues to increase. Strong government action is necessary to fundamentally realign incentive structures and thereby encourage the private sector to increase self-policing efforts and focus more innovation and expertise on this vital problem. Therefore, DHS will immediately undertake the following actions and make recommendations for other departments and agencies to combat the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods.

Immediate Actions by DHS and Recommendations for the U.S. Government
1. Ensure Entities with Financial Interests in Imports Bear Responsibility
2. Increase Scrutiny of Section 321 Environment
3. Suspend and Debar Repeat Offenders; Act Against Non-Compliant International Posts
4. Apply Civil Fines, Penalties and Injunctive Actions for Violative Imported Products
5. Leverage Advance Electronic Data for Mail Mode
6. Anti-Counterfeiting Consortium to Identify Online Nefarious Actors (ACTION) Plan
7. Analyze Enforcement Resources
8. Create Modernized E-Commerce Enforcement Framework
9. Assess Contributory Trademark Infringement Liability for Platforms
10. Re-Examine the Legal Framework Surrounding Non-Resident Importers
11. Establish a National Consumer Awareness Campaign

Best Practices for E-Commerce Platforms and Third-Party Marketplaces

Government action alone is not enough to bring about the needed paradigm shift and ultimately stem the tide of counterfeit and pirated goods. All relevant private-sector stakeholders have critical roles to play and must adopt identified best practices, while redoubling efforts to police their own businesses and supply chains.

While the U.S. brick-and-mortar retail store economy has a well-developed regime for licensing, monitoring, and otherwise ensuring the protections of intellectual property rights (IPR), a comparable regime is largely non-existent for international e-commerce sellers. The following table catalogs a set of high priority "best practices" that shall be communicated to all relevant private sector stakeholders by the National Intellectual Property Rights Coordination Center. It shall be the Center's duty to monitor and report on the adoption of these best practices within the scope of the legal authority of DHS and the Federal government.

Best Practices for E-Commerce Platforms and Third-Party Marketplaces
1. Comprehensive "Terms of Service" Agreements
2. Significantly Enhanced Vetting of Third-Party Sellers
3. Limitations on High Risk Products
4. Rapid Notice and Takedown Procedures
5. Enhanced Post-Discovery Actions
6. Indemnity Requirements for Foreign Sellers
7. Clear Transactions Through Banks that Comply with U.S. Enforcement Requests for Information (RFI)
8. Pre-Sale Identification of Third-Party Sellers
9. Establish Marketplace Seller ID
10. Clearly Identifiable Country of Origin Disclosures

Foremost among these best practices is the idea that e-commerce platforms, online third-party marketplaces, and other third-party intermediaries such as customs brokers and express consignment carriers must take a more active role in monitoring, detecting, and preventing trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods.

2. Introduction

> E-commerce platforms represent ideal storefronts for counterfeits…and provide powerful platform[s] for counterfeiters and pirates to engage large numbers of potential consumers.
> - Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development[4]

The rapid growth of e-commerce platforms, further catalyzed by third-party online marketplaces connected to the platforms, has revolutionized the way products are bought and sold. "Online third-party marketplace" means any web-based platform that includes features primarily designed for arranging the sale, purchase, payment, or shipping of goods, or that enables sellers not directly affiliated with an operator of such platforms to sell physical goods to consumers located in the United States.

In the United States, e-commerce year-over-year retail sales grew by 13.3 percent in the second quarter of 2019 while total retail sales increased by only 3.2 percent as brick-and-mortar retail continued its relative decline.[5] For example, Amazon reports third-party sales on its marketplace grew from $100 million in 1999 to $160 billion in 2018.[6] In 2018 alone, Walmart experienced an e-commerce sales increase of 40 percent.[7]

Counterfeits threaten national security and public safety directly when introduced into government and critical infrastructure supply chains, and indirectly if used to generate revenue for transnational criminal organizations. Counterfeits also pose risks to human health and safety, erode U.S. economic competitiveness and diminish the reputations and trustworthiness of U.S. products and producers. Across all sectors of the economy, counterfeit goods unfairly compete with legitimate products and reduce the incentives to innovate, both in the United States and abroad.

While the expansion of e-commerce has led to greater trade facilitation, its overall growth—especially the growth of certain related business models—has facilitated online trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods. American consumers shopping on e-commerce platforms and online third-party marketplaces now face a significant risk of purchasing counterfeit or pirated goods. This risk continues to rise despite current efforts across e-commerce supply chains to reduce such trafficking.

The OECD reports international trade in counterfeit and pirated goods amounted to as much as $509 billion in 2016. This represents a 3.3 percent increase from 2013 as a proportion of world trade. From 2003[8] through 2018, seizures of infringing goods by the U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) increased from 6,500 to 33,810 while the domestic value of seized merchandise — as measured by manufacturer's suggested retail price of the legitimate good (MSRP) — increased from $94 million in 2003 to $1.4 billion in 2018.[9]

The rise in consumer use of third-party marketplaces significantly increases the risks and uncertainty for U.S. producers when creating new products. It is no longer enough for a small business to develop a product with significant local consumer demand and then use that revenue to grow the business regionally, nationally, and internationally with the brand protection efforts expanding in step. Instead, with the international scope of e-commerce platforms, once a small business exposes itself to the benefits of placing products online — which creates a geographic scope far greater than its more limited brand protection efforts can handle — it begins to face increased foreign infringement threat.

Moreover, as costs to enter the online market have come down, such market entry is happening earlier and earlier in the product cycle, further enhancing risk. If a new product is a success, counterfeiters will attempt, often immediately, to outcompete the original seller with lower-cost counterfeit and pirated versions while avoiding the initial investment into research and design.

In other words, on these platforms, the counterfeit and pirated goods compete unfairly and fraudulently against the genuine items. While counterfeit and pirated goods have been sold for years on street corners, alleys, and from the trunks of cars, these illicit goods are now marketed to consumers in their homes through increasingly mainstream e-commerce platforms and third party online marketplaces that convey an air of legitimacy.

With the rise of e-commerce, the problem of counterfeit trafficking has intensified. The OECD documents a 154 percent increase in counterfeits traded internationally, from $200 billion in 2005 to $509 billion in 2016.[10] Data collected by CBP between 2000 and 2018 shows that seizures of infringing goods at U.S. borders, much of it trafficked through e-commerce, has increased ten-fold. Over 85 percent of the contraband seized by CBP arrived from China and Hong Kong. These high rates of seizures are consistent with a key OECD finding.

> Counterfeit and pirated products come from many economies, with China appearing as the single largest producing market. These illegal products are frequently found in a range of industries, from luxury items (e.g. fashion apparel or deluxe watches), via intermediary products (such as machines, spare parts or

Operation Mega Flex

In 2019, in response to the alarmingly high rates of contraband uncovered by DHS and a request from the White House Office of Trade and Manufacturing Policy (OTMP), CBP initiated Operation Mega Flex. This operation uses enhanced inspection and monitoring efforts to identify high-risk violators that are shipping and receiving illicit contraband through international mail facilities and express consignment hubs.

The periodic "blitz operations" conducted under the auspices of Operation Mega Flex examine thousands of parcels from China and Hong Kong and carefully catalog the range of contraband seized. To date, such operations have included visits to seven of CBP's international mail facilities and four express consignment hubs and the completion of over 20,000 additional inspections. The following table summarizes the findings of three Mega Flex blitzes conducted between July and September of 2019.

Results of Operation Mega Flex (2019)
	Blitz I July 16 & 17	Blitz II August 21	Blitz III September 18	Total

Among the discrepancies uncovered by Operation Mega Flex were 1,061 shipments of counterfeit products. These counterfeits range from fake name brand items, like Louis Vuitton bags to sports equipment made with faulty parts. Other contraband included drug paraphernalia, deadly opioids, and counterfeit drivers' licenses.[12] In all, counterfeits constituted more than one of every three discrepancies uncovered by inspectors.[13]

[13] Among the near 3,000 discrepancies, 20% of them were agricultural violations, such as bad meat, fruit, or produce, unsafe for the American consumer. These agricultural discrepancies are dangerous to the United States because they may contain diseases or pests that can greatly impact agriculture. For example, on October 16, 2018, CBP seized nearly 900 pounds of mitten crabs from an incoming Chinese freight. In Asia, mitten crabs are considered a seasonal delicacy; however, they have a disastrous impact on other global habitats and are labeled as an invasive species. See, Department of Homeland Security, U.S. Customs and Border Protection, "CBP Prevents Smuggling of Nearly 900 Pounds of Invasive Mitten Crabs," 31 October 2018. https://www.cbp.gov/newsroom/national-media-release/cbp-prevents-smuggling-nearly-900-pounds-invasive-mitten-crabs.

Authorities also seized 174 controlled or prohibited substances, including: recreational drugs like LSD, cocaine, DMT, ecstasy, marijuana, mushrooms, and poppy pods as well as steroids and highly addictive painkillers like Tramadol.

It is not just a rise in the volume of counterfeits we are witnessing. GAO notes that counterfeiters are increasingly producing a "wider variety of goods that may be sold on websites alongside authentic products."[14]

DHS finds the current state of e-commerce to be an intolerable and dangerous situation that must be addressed firmly and swiftly by strong actions within the Department and across other relevant agencies of the U.S. Government (USG). These include: The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Department of Justice, the Department of Commerce, and the Department of the Treasury. This report provides a blueprint for swift and constructive changes and sets forth several actions for immediate implementation.

3. Overview of Counterfeit and Pirated Goods Trafficking

While most e-commerce transactions involve legitimate sellers and products, far too many involve the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods and expose legitimate businesses and consumers to substantial risks. This is a global phenomenon; the OECD reports international trade in counterfeit and pirated goods amounted to as much as half a trillion dollars in 2016.[15]

Key Drivers of Counterfeiting and Piracy in E-Commerce

Historically, many counterfeits were distributed through swap meets and individual sellers located on street corners. Today, counterfeits are being trafficked through vast e-commerce supply chains in concert with marketing, sales, and distribution networks. The ability of e-commerce platforms to aggregate information and reduce transportation and search costs for consumers provides a big advantage over brick-and-mortar retailers. Because of this, sellers on digital platforms have consumer visibility well beyond the seller's natural geographical sales area.

Selling counterfeit and pirated goods through e-commerce is a highly profitable activity: production costs are low, millions of potential customers are available online, transactions are convenient, and listing on well-branded e-commerce platforms provides an air of legitimacy.

Other discrepancies found by CBP in the blitz operations included 13 weapon modifications and gun parts, 3 occurrences of drug paraphernalia, and 3 pill presses. When sellers of illicit goods are in another country, they are largely outside the jurisdiction for criminal prosecution or civil liability from U.S. law enforcement and private parties.

The Role of Online Third-Party Marketplaces

Third-party online marketplaces can quickly and easily establish attractive "store-fronts" to compete with legitimate businesses. On some platforms, little identifying information is necessary to begin selling.

A counterfeiter seeking to distribute fake products will typically set up one or more accounts on online third-party marketplaces. The ability to rapidly proliferate third-party online marketplaces greatly complicates enforcement efforts, especially for intellectual property rights holders. Rapid proliferation also allows counterfeiters to hop from one profile to the next even if the original site is taken down or blocked. On these sites, online counterfeiters can misrepresent products by posting pictures of authentic goods while simultaneously selling and shipping counterfeit versions.

Counterfeiters have taken full advantage of the aura of authenticity and trust that online platforms provide. While e-commerce has supported the launch of thousands of legitimate businesses, their models have also enabled counterfeiters to easily establish attractive "store-fronts" to compete with legitimate businesses.

Platforms use their third-party marketplace functions to leverage "two-sided" network effects to increase profitability for the platform by adding both more sellers and more buyers. Because sellers benefit with each additional buyer using the platform (more consumers to sell to), and buyers are more likely to join/use the platform with each additional seller (more sellers to buy from), there can be diminished internal resistance to adding lower quality sellers.

Platforms that recognize this strategy may incentivize seller listings to stimulate further growth and increase profits but do so without adequate scrutiny. As just one incentive, many platforms create "frictionless entry" by reducing the costs for sellers and buyers to join, thereby increasing the likelihood that the platform will reach an efficient and highly profitable scale.

Platforms also generate value by opening previously unused (or less frequently used) markets. In addition, online platforms reduce transaction costs by streamlining the actual transaction; for example, buyers and sellers use a standardized transaction method that simplifies interactions with buyers and reduces the risk that the buyer will not pay.

For example, before the rise of e-commerce, secondhand products could be sold at garage sales or in classified newspaper advertisements. E-commerce created a process for allowing buyers and sellers to trade goods digitally, reducing transaction costs and creating a global marketplace for used, but too often counterfeit, products.

Another way platforms generate value is by aggregating information and reducing search costs. A buyer may search for a product, either by keyword or product category, at lower search cost than visiting brick-and-mortar stores. Because of this, sellers on digital platforms have consumer visibility well beyond the seller's natural geographical sales area.

In addition, consumers who have made a purchase may use tools provided by the marketplace to rate the product and the seller involved. These ratings create an important mechanism to facilitate future consumer trust in an otherwise unknown seller.

In principle, such a rating system provides a key to overcoming a common economic problem that might otherwise preclude sales: without a low-cost trust building feature that also communicates quality, and in a market with significant numbers of low-quality products, buyers may refuse to purchase any product at all, or would demand a lower price to reflect the uncertainty. One frequent result is that low cost counterfeits drive out high quality, trusted brands from the online marketplace. In practice, even the ratings systems across platforms have been gamed, and the proliferation of fake reviews and counterfeit goods on third-party marketplaces now threatens the trust mechanism itself.

Lower Startup and Production Costs

The relative ease of setting up and maintaining e-commerce websites makes online marketplaces a prime locale for the retailing of counterfeit and pirated goods. E-commerce retailers enjoy low fixed costs of setting up and maintaining web businesses and lower costs for carrying out normal business operations such as managing merchant accounts. These ventures can be set up quickly without much sophistication or specialized skills.

Some online platforms allow retailers to use pre-made templates to create their stores while other platforms only require that a seller create an account. These businesses face much lower overhead costs than traditional brick-and-mortar sellers because there is no need to rent retail space or to hire in-person customer-facing staff. Not only can counterfeiters set up their virtual storefronts quickly and easily, but they can also set up new virtual storefronts when their existing storefronts are shut down by either law enforcement or through voluntary initiatives set up by other stakeholders such as market platforms, advertisers, or payment processors.

In the production stage, counterfeiters keep costs low by stealing product secrets or technological knowledge, exploiting new production technologies, and distributing operations across jurisdictions. One method involves employees who sell trade secrets to a third party who, in turn, develops and sells counterfeit products based on the stolen secrets. Another method relies on an intermediary to steal a firm's product or technology. The use of intermediaries reduces the traceability to the counterfeiter.

Counterfeiting and piracy operations also take advantage of new low-cost production technologies. For example, the technological advances in modeling, printing and scanning technologies such as 3D printing reduce the barriers for reverse engineering and the costs of manufacturing counterfeit products.

Lower production costs can also be achieved through distributed production operations. One method involves manufacturing the counterfeit good in a foreign market to lower the chances of detection and to minimize legal liability if prosecuted. This can be combined with importation of the counterfeit labels separately from the items, with the labels being applied to the products after both items arrive in the U.S.

In addition, it is much cheaper to manufacture illicit goods because counterfeit and pirated goods are often produced in unsafe workplaces with substandard and unsafe materials by workers who are often paid little—and sometimes nothing in the case of forced labor. Moreover, in the case of goods governed by Federal health and safety regulations, it often costs much less to produce counterfeit versions that do not meet these health and safety standards.

Lower Marketing Costs

Businesses that use only an internet presence as their consumer-facing aspect typically enjoy lower costs of designing, editing, and distributing marketing materials. Counterfeiters also benefit from greater anonymity on digital platforms and web sites and greater ease to retarget or remarket to customers. For example, counterfeiters use legitimate images and descriptions on online platforms to confuse customers, and they open multiple seller accounts on the platform so that if one account is identified and removed, the counterfeiter can simply use another.

The popularity of social media also helps reduce the costs of advertising counterfeit products. The nature of social media platforms has aided in the proliferation of counterfeits across all e-commerce sites. Instagram users, for example, can take advantage of connectivity algorithms by using the names of luxury brands in hashtags. Followers can search by hashtag and unwittingly find counterfeit products, which are comingled and difficult to differentiate from legitimate products and sellers.

Lower Distribution Costs

Traditionally, many counterfeit goods were distributed through swap meets and individual sellers located on street corners. With the rise of online platforms for shopping, customers can have products delivered to them directly.

Foreign entities that traffic in counterfeits understand how to leverage newer distribution methods better suited to e-commerce than the traditional trade paradigm (i.e., imports arriving via large cargo containers with domestic distribution networks). Today, mail parcel shipments, including through express consignments, account for more than 500 million packages each year.[16] Seizures in the small package environment made up 93 percent of all seizures in 2018, a 6 percent increase over 2017. From 2012 to 2016, the number of seizures from express consignment carriers increased by 105 percent, and the MSRP of those seizures had a 337 percent increase.[17] In contrast, seizures from cargo decreased by 36 percent from FY17 to FY18.

The International Chamber of Commerce found that counterfeiters use international air packages because the high volume of these packages makes enforcement more difficult.[18] A recent report by the OECD points out that distributing counterfeits across a series of small packages spreads the risk of detection, and lowers the loss from having one or more shipments seized, suggesting that losses to the counterfeiter on an ongoing basis would be within a tolerable range.[19]

The OECD report also notes that it is harder for authorities to detect counterfeits in small parcels than in shipping containers because cargo containers making entry at a maritime port provide customs officials with more information, well in advance of arrival. Moreover, the effort required for CBP to seize a shipment does not vary by size of the shipment, meaning that a package of a few infringing goods requires the same resources to seize as a cargo container with hundreds of infringing goods.

Section 321 of the Tariff Act of 1930 has likewise encouraged counterfeiters to favor smaller parcel delivery. Under Section 321, a foreign good valued at or less than $800 and imported by one person on one day is not subject to the same formal customs entry procedures and rigorous data requirements as higher-value packages entering the United States. This reduced level of scrutiny is an open invitation to exploit Section 321 rules to transport and distribute counterfeits.

Rules set by the Universal Postal Union (UPU) have historically contributed to the distortion in rates for delivery of international e-commerce purchases to the United States.[20] UPU reimbursement rates have underpriced domestic postage rates for small parcels. This market distortion made it cheaper for small package exports to the United States. from certain countries than would otherwise be economically feasible and has encouraged the use of the international postal mode over other shipment channels. The United States recently scored a historic victory when the UPU overhauled its terminal dues system[21], effectively eliminating this outdated policy.[22]

Consumer Attitudes and Perceptions

The sale of counterfeits away from so-called "underground" or secondary markets (e.g. street corners, flea markets) to e-commerce platforms is reshaping consumer attitudes and perceptions. Where in the past, consumers could identify products by relying on "red flag" indicators—such as a suspicious location of the seller, poor quality packaging, or discount pricing—consumers are now regularly exposed to counterfeit products in settings and under conditions where the articles appear genuine.

While the risks of receiving a counterfeit may have been obvious to a consumer purchasing items on street corners, with the rise of online platforms, it is not so obvious anymore. For example, it is unlikely that anyone would set out to purchase a counterfeit bicycle helmet given the potential safety risks; however, such items are readily available to unsuspecting consumers on e-commerce websites.

Reports indicate that some third-party marketplace listings falsely claim to have certifications with health and safety standards or offer items banned by federal regulators or even the platforms themselves. Coupled with the inability of buyers to accurately determine the manufacturer or the origin of the product, it is challenging for buyers to make informed decisions in the e-commerce environment.

In 2017, MarkMonitor found that 39 percent of all unwitting purchases of counterfeit goods were bought through online third-party marketplaces.[23] Sellers on large well-known platforms rely on the trust that those platforms hosting of the marketplace elicits. The results of this survey indicate that bad actors selling counterfeit goods on legitimate online platforms erodes trust in both the brands and the platforms themselves.

In 2018, Incopro conducted a survey focusing on United Kingdom (UK) consumers who had unwittingly purchased counterfeit goods and how their perceptions of online marketplaces were affected as a result.[24] The results of this survey show that 26 percent of respondents reported that they had unwittingly purchased counterfeits. Of these, 41 percent reported that they had never received a refund after reporting a seller to online marketplaces.

In addition, roughly one-third of respondents reported that they would be less likely to buy a widely counterfeited product from an online marketplace while 46 percent reported no longer using a particular online marketplace after receiving counterfeit goods. Respondents also reported that, when trying to differentiate between genuine and counterfeit products, they consider online reviews along with the reputation of online marketplaces.

These recent findings, against the larger backdrop of the e-commerce environment, demonstrate the immediacy of the problem as consumer confidence and brand integrity continue to suffer in the realm of online third-party marketplaces.

Top Products Prone to Counterfeiting and Piracy

Counterfeiters sell fake goods as authentic goods — for example, a copy of a Louis Vuitton bag or Rolex watch fraudulently sold as the "real thing." Counterfeiters use identical copies of registered trademarks without the authorization of the rightful owner.

Piracy typically refers to the act of copying a protected work (such as a book, movie, or music) without the consent of the rights holder or person duly authorized by the rights holder.

The below table provides a summary of the annual IPR seizure statistics collected by CBP in FY18; including items from all modes of transportation. Apparel and other types of accessories, along with footwear, top the list at 18 percent and 14 percent of seizures, respectively. Commonly counterfeited items in these categories include brand name shoes such as Nike and Adidas, as well as NFL jerseys.

Watches and jewelry follow at 13 percent of total seizures. During the Mega Flex operation on August 21, 2019, for example, CBP officers seized counterfeit Rolex watches valued at over $1.4 million. Handbags and wallets represented nearly 11 percent of all seizures, including counterfeits of luxury brands such as Louis Vuitton, Michael Kors, and Gucci. Consumer electronics represented 10 percent of seizures, including products such as iPhones, hover boards, earbuds, microchips, and others.

Pharmaceuticals and personal care items account for only 7 percent of total seizures. However, as discussed in the next section, many of the products in these categories pose significant dangers to the consumer. Fake prescription drugs can lack active ingredients, contain incorrect dosages, or include dangerous additives. Fake personal care items such as cosmetics have been found to contain everything from harmful bacteria to human waste. Between 2017 and 2018, CBP and ICE Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) seized over $31 million in fake perfumes from China.

4. Health and Safety, Economic, and National Security Risks

Counterfeit trafficking exposes American consumers to significant health and safety risks — in addition to significant economic impacts and, in some cases, threats to national security.

Health and Safety

The types of counterfeit goods available on e-commerce platforms go far beyond those products with potential hidden toxins — like sports jerseys, jewelry and purses—and include many products that can pose more obvious serious risks to health and safety, like prescription drugs and air bags. It is not only the sellers of the counterfeit goods, but also the e-commerce platforms and other third-party intermediaries (e.g., shippers) that facilitate their sale, that are profiting from the marketing and distribution of these illicit products to the American public.

The profit margins are especially high for counterfeiters in the sale of counterfeit pharmaceuticals. In the past, counterfeit prescription drugs primarily involved so-called lifestyle drugs like sildenafil (Viagra). Today, this market has expanded to include all types of therapeutic medicines, including insulin, cancer medications, and cardiovascular drugs.

Counterfeiting has also spread into over-the-counter medicines like cough syrup and weight loss drugs. As more Americans purchase drugs online, many U.S. consumers appear to be largely unaware of the potential dangers of purchasing counterfeit drugs from internet pharmacies.

Unlike legitimate drug manufacturers that are subject to inspections by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, labs that manufacture counterfeits have no such oversight. According to a 2019 Better Business Bureau study, "companies based in China, Hong Kong, Singapore, and India shipped 97 percent of the counterfeit medicines seized in the U.S."[25]

In March 2019, Europol, the European Union's law enforcement agency, seized 13 million doses of counterfeit medicine ranging from opioids to heart medication. Europol noted that this type of counterfeiting is on the rise due to the relatively low risk of criminal detection.[26]

Counterfeit medicines not only defraud consumers who are often afflicted with serious health issues; they can also be lethal. Fake prescription opioids are often laced with deadly fentanyl, much of which originates in China. In raising awareness of the dangers, the National Institutes of Health (NIH) has warned:

> Preventing counterfeit medicines from entering the United States is especially difficult, in part because nearly 40 percent of drugs are made overseas and approximately 80 percent of the active medicinal components of drugs are imported. Because many of these medicines are expensive, buyers are attracted by lower prices. The rise of Internet pharmacies makes regulation of drug safety more difficult. [27]

Health and safety risks extend far beyond fake prescription drugs. Counterfeit cosmetics often contain ingredients such as arsenic, mercury, aluminum, or lead and may be manufactured in unsanitary conditions, which can ultimately lead to problems with one's eyes or skin.

An investigation of counterfeit iPhone adapters conducted by the GAO found a 99 percent failure rate in 400 counterfeit adapters tested for safety, fire, and shock hazards, and found that 12 of the adapters posed a risk of lethal electrocution to the user.[28] In December 2015, CBP seized 1,378 hover boards with counterfeit batteries, which can cause fires resulting in injury or death.[29]

Children's toys, some laced with deadly metals like cadmium and lead, represent another area in which counterfeiters have taken advantage of e-commerce business models that provide limited to no accountability for sellers.

The Department of Justice has prosecuted individuals for the online sale of a "high value target" of counterfeiters — namely, airbags.[30] Along with other counterfeit automotive parts like brake pads, wheels, and seat belts, unsafe airbags can have catastrophic consequences for drivers, as well as for their passengers and others on the road. Bicycle helmets, another favorite of counterfeiters, likewise can lead to catastrophic consequences for cyclists.

Of the contraband products seized in 2016 by CBP and ICE/HSI, an astonishing 16 percent posed direct and obvious threats to health and safety.[31] E-commerce also facilitates the widespread sale of pirated versions of copyrighted works. Pirated medical books — which can contain errors that endanger patients' lives — have been found on platforms along with other pirated books (textbooks and trade books) and illicit reproductions of music-CD box sets.

Economic Harm

The growth in online sales of counterfeit and pirated goods directly harms — and unfairly competes against — the many legitimate companies that produce, sell and distribute genuine goods, often resulting in lost profits, employee layoffs, and diminished incentives to innovate. Frontier Economics (2018) finds that counterfeit goods displaced roughly half a trillion dollars of global sales of legitimate companies in 2013 and forecasts this displacement to reach $1 to $1.2 trillion by 2022.[32] The study also estimates that global employment losses due to counterfeit goods were between 2 million and 2.6 million jobs in 2013, with job displacement expected to double by 2022.

Counterfeit goods also damage the value of legitimate brands. When brand owners lose the ability to collect a price premium for branded goods, it leads to diminished innovation as brand owners are less likely to invest in creating innovative products. Legitimate companies, and particularly small businesses, report devastating impacts due to the abundance of competing online counterfeits and pirated goods. Moreover, while e-commerce platforms can benefit legitimate businesses by helping them to reach customers with a new product, the same process and technology also makes it easier for unscrupulous firms to identify popular new products, produce infringing versions of them, and sell these illicit goods to the business's potential customers.

As previously noted, the speed at which counterfeiters can steal intellectual property through e-commerce can be very rapid. If a new product is a success, counterfeiters may attempt to immediately outcompete the original seller with lower-cost counterfeit versions — while avoiding research and development costs. The result: counterfeiters may have a significant competitive advantage in a very short period of time over those who sell trusted brands.

Such fast-track counterfeiting poses unique and serious problems for small businesses, which do not have the same financial resources as major brands to protect their intellectual property. Lacking the ability to invest in brand-protection activities, such as continually monitoring e-commerce platforms to identify illicit goods, perform test buys, and send takedown notices to the platforms, smaller businesses are more likely to experience revenue losses as customers purchase counterfeit versions of the branded products.

In many cases, American enterprises have little recourse aside from initiating legal action against a particular vendor. Such legal action can be extremely difficult. Many e-commerce sellers of infringing products are located outside the jurisdiction of the United States, often in China; existing laws and regulations largely shield foreign counterfeiters from any accountability.

Organized Crime and Terrorism

The impact of counterfeit and pirated goods is broader than just unfair competition. Law enforcement officials have uncovered intricate links between the sale of counterfeit goods and transnational organized crime. A study by the Better Business Bureau notes that the financial operations supporting counterfeit goods typically require central coordination, making these activities attractive for organized crime, with groups such as the Mafia and the Japanese Yakuza heavily involved.[33] Criminal organizations use coerced and child labor to manufacture and sell counterfeit goods. In some cases, the proceeds from counterfeit sales may be supporting terrorism and dictatorships throughout the world.[34]

National Security

One of the greatest threats counterfeits pose to national security is their entry into the supply chain of America's defense industrial base. This defense industrial base includes both private sector contractors and government agencies, particularly the Department of Defense.

In FY 2018, 12 percent of DHS seizures included counterfeit versions of critical technological components, automotive and aerospace parts, batteries, and machinery. Each of these industrial sectors have been identified as critical to the defense industrial base, and thus critical to national security. One example drawn from a 2018 study by the Bureau of Industry and Security within the Department of Commerce featured the import of counterfeit semiconductors or "Trojan chips" for use in defense manufacturing and operations[35]. Such Trojan chips can carry viruses or malware that infiltrate and weaken American national security. The problem of counterfeit chips has become so pervasive that the Department of Defense has referred to it as an "invasion." Companies from China are the primary producers of counterfeit electronics.[36]

5. How E-Commerce Facilitates Counterfeit Trafficking

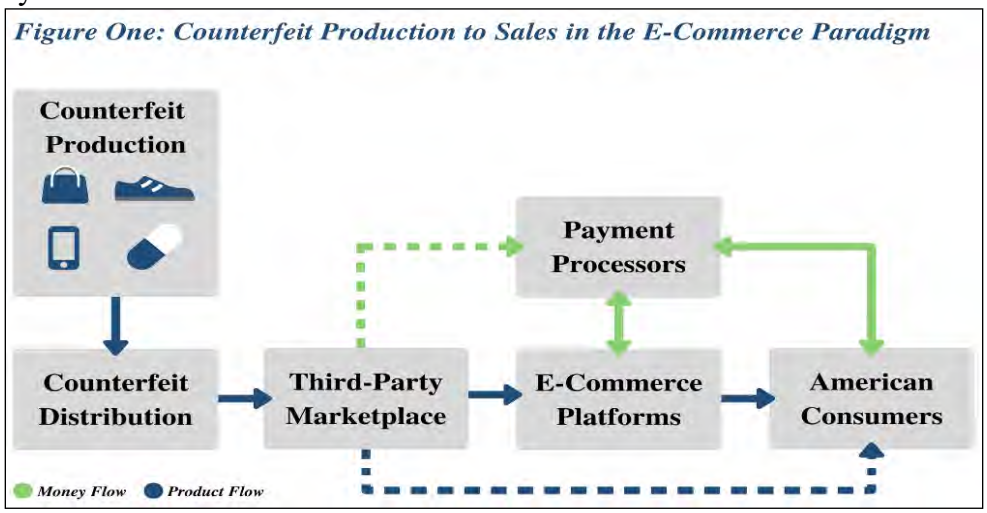

While e-commerce has supported the launch of thousands of legitimate businesses, e-commerce platforms, third-party marketplaces, and their supporting intermediaries have also served as powerful stimulants for the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods. The central economic driver of such trafficking is this basic reality: Selling counterfeit and pirated goods through e-commerce platforms and related online third-party marketplaces is a highly profitable venture.

For counterfeiters, production costs are low, millions of potential customers are available online, transactions are convenient, and listing goods on well-known platforms provides an air of legitimacy. When sellers of illicit goods are in another country, they are also exposed to relatively little risk of criminal prosecution or civil liability under current law enforcement and regulatory practices. It is critical that immediate action be taken to protect American consumers and other stakeholders against the harm and losses inflicted by counterfeiters.

Figure One provides a simplified overview of how counterfeit products move from production by counterfeiters to sales to American consumers:

Counterfeit Production and Distribution

The counterfeit sales process begins with some type of production capability for the counterfeit good. In this stage, counterfeiters enjoy enormous production cost advantages relative to legitimate businesses. Counterfeits are often produced in unsafe workplaces, with substandard and unsafe materials, by workers who are often paid little or sometimes nothing in the case of forced labor.

In the case of goods subject to federal health and safety regulations, it costs much less to produce counterfeit versions that do not meet these health and safety requirements that make the legitimate products so safe.

Counterfeiters likewise minimize the need for incurring significant research and development expenditures by stealing intellectual property, technologies, and trade secrets. They also shave production costs using inferior ingredients or components.

For example, a common way for counterfeiters to produce fake prescription opioids like Oxycontin, or a prescription drug like Viagra, is to start with the real pills as a basic ingredient. These real pills are then ground up into a powder, diluted with some type of (sometimes toxic) powder filler, and then "spiked" with an illegal and deadly narcotic like fentanyl, in the case of fake opioids, or illegal and deadly amphetamines or strychnine, in the case of Viagra.

In the case of apparel, such as running shoes, employees from a legitimate branded company may leave the company and set up their own facility. These employees have the expertise to manufacture identical-looking shoes; but they will typically do so with cheaper, inferior components. The result: the shoes may fail during activity, injure the user with an inferior insole, or, at a minimum, wear out faster than the real product.[37]

[37]Department of Homeland Security, U.S. Customs and Border Protection, "CBP Seizes Over $2.2 Million worth of Fake Nike Shoes at LA/Long Beach Seaport," 9 October 2019. https://www.cbp.gov/newsroom/local-media-release/cbp-seizes-over-22-million-worth-fake-nike-shoes-lalong-beach-seaport

The technological advances in modeling, printing, and scanning technologies such as 3D printing, have also significantly reduced the barriers for reverse engineering and the costs of manufacturing counterfeit products. Again, one problem that may arise may be the use of inferior production inputs that lead to product failure.

These are just a few of the many ways counterfeits begin their long journey into American households. There is often no way for legitimate businesses to compete, on a production cost basis, with counterfeiters. There is also often no way for a consumer to tell the difference between a counterfeit and legitimate good.

Third-Party Marketplaces and Counterfeiter Websites

A counterfeiter seeking to distribute fake products will typically set up one or more accounts on third-party marketplaces, and these accounts can often be set up quickly and without much sophistication or many specialized skills. Under such circumstances, it is axiomatic that online retailers face much lower overhead costs than traditional brick-and-mortar sellers. There is no need to rent retail space or to hire in-person, customer-facing staff.

In a common scenario, third-party marketplace websites contain photos of the real product, fake reviews of the counterfeit product, and other such disinformation designed to mislead or fool the consumer into believing the legitimacy of the product. The proliferation of such disinformation is the hallmark of the successful online counterfeiter. Such deception not only provides counterfeiters with an enormous competitive advantage over their brick-and-mortar counterparts; legitimate sellers on the internet are harmed as well.

In some cases, counterfeiters hedge against the risk of being caught and their websites taken down from an e-commerce platform by preemptively establishing multiple virtual store-fronts. A key underlying problem here is that on at least some e-commerce platforms, little identifying information is necessary for a counterfeiter to begin selling. In the absence of full transparency, counterfeiters can quickly and easily move to a new virtual store if their original third-party marketplace is taken down.

The popularity of social media also helps proliferate counterfeits across various e-commerce platforms. Instagram users, for example, can take advantage of connectivity algorithms by using the names of luxury brands in hashtags. Followers can search by hashtag and unwittingly find counterfeit products, which are comingled and difficult to differentiate from legitimate products and sellers.

According to a 2019 report, Instagram and Counterfeiting, nearly 20 percent of the posts analyzed about fashion products on Instagram featured counterfeit or illicit products.[38] More than 50,000 Instagram accounts were identified as promoting and selling counterfeits, a 171 percent increase from a prior 2016 analysis. Instagram's Story feature, where content disappears in twenty-four hours, was singled out as particularly effective for counterfeit sellers.

[38]Stroppa, Andrea*, et al*., "Instagram and counterfeiting in 2019: new features, old problems," Ghost Data, 9 April 2019. Rome, New York. https://ghostdata.io/report/Instagram_Counterfeiting_GD.pdf

A more recent development on social media is the proliferation of "hidden listings" for the sale of counterfeits. Social media is used to provide direct hyperlinks in private groups or chats to listings for counterfeit goods that purport to be selling unrelated legitimate items. By accessing the link, buyers are brought to an e-commerce platform which advertises an unrelated legitimate item for the same price as the counterfeit item identified in the private group or chat. The buyer is directed to purchase the unrelated item in the listing but will receive the sought-after counterfeit item instead.

Order Fulfillment in E-Commerce

The foreign counterfeiter must first choose between sending a package either by express consignment carrier or through the international post. As a general proposition, express consignment shippers — such as DHL Express, Federal Express, and the United Parcel Service — were subject to data requirements before they were extended to the international posts.

In the next step along the delivery chain, a parcel will arrive at a port of entry under the authority of CBP. Millions of parcels arrive daily, and it is impossible to inspect more than a very small fraction.

Although ocean shipping is still a major mode of transport for counterfeits, the rapid growth of other modes, such as truck and air parcel delivery, threaten to upend established enforcement efforts, and as such, is increasingly used by international counterfeiters. This continued shift from bulk cargo delivery to other modes by counterfeiters is illustrated in the trends in seizure statistics.

It is clear from these observations that counterfeit traffickers have learned how to leverage newer air parcel distribution methods that vary from the traditional brick-and-mortar retail model (for example, imports arriving via large cargo containers with domestic distribution networks). This is an issue that must be directly addressed by firm actions from CBP.

Section 321 De Minimis Exemption and Counterfeit Trafficking

Under Section 321 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended by the Trade Facilitation and Trade Enforcement Act of 2015 (TFTEA), articles with a value of $800 or less, imported by one person on one day, can be admitted free of duty and taxes. Under 19 CFR § 10.151 and 19 CFR part 143, Subpart C, those importations are often not subject to the same formal customs procedures and rigorous data requirements as higher-value packages entering the United States. Instead, the low-value shipments can be admitted into U.S. commerce with the presentation of a bill of lading or a manifest listing each bill of lading and a limited data set. The relatively limited nature of the data requirements complicates the identification of high-risk goods by CBP and other enforcement agencies. Under 19 CFR § 143.22, CBP has existing authority to require formal entry (and the complete data set for any shipment) for any merchandise, if deemed necessary for import admissibility enforcement purposes; revenue protection; or the efficient conduct of customs business.

Warehouses, Fulfillment Centers and Counterfeit Trafficking

Certain e-commerce platforms have adopted a business model that relies on North American warehouses to provide space for foreign-made goods, followed by one-at-a-time order fulfillment, at which point the goods are individually packed and shipped to U.S. consumers on much shorter delivery timelines. The platforms that use this model may also coordinate with customs brokers, as well as provide third-party logistics and freight forwarding services to assist with the initial delivery of goods to the warehouse.

Although this model is a significant innovation for legitimate commerce and provides benefits to consumers in the form of reduced costs and shipping time, it creates a mechanism that allows counterfeit traffickers to minimize transportation costs as well, while intermingling harmful goods among legitimate goods. From a risk perspective, this model allows goods to enter the United States in a decentralized manner, allowing a counterfeit trafficker to spread the risk of seizure across a number of low-value packages. In situations where the fulfillment center is outside the U.S. Customs area, this model provides the opportunity to use ocean container shipping as the primary mode of transit for the shipment, which keeps overall shipping costs relatively low as ocean cargo is much cheaper than air delivery. It is in part because of these incentives that these fulfillment centers have emerged as an important element of the supply chains for many counterfeit traffickers.

6. Private Sector Outreach and Public Comment

This report benefitted from extensive outreach to, and comments from, numerous private sector stakeholders in response to the FRN 2019-14715 issued on July 10, 2019. Respondents included: e-commerce platforms that operate third-party marketplaces, third-party sellers, shippers, third-party logistics providers, payment processors, and intellectual property rights holders.

Rights holders and Stakeholders Feedback

In providing comments on platforms' current preventative efforts, rights holders argued that some platforms do not do enough to ensure that sellers provide accurate information. They also stressed that the onboarding and vetting of sellers remains a concern of the highest priority.

Some commenters further argued that sellers will not be sufficiently deterred unless they can be identified and punished for promoting counterfeit and pirated goods via online platforms. Further, they contended that platforms should be more proactive in their approach to combating IPR theft and misuse. Commenters also advised that the lack of relevant policies and procedures to verify sellers' true names and addresses, and to conduct the necessary vetting and due diligence, contributes to a range of impediments to effective enforcement.

Rights holders widely view the present legislative landscape for online enforcement — where online intermediaries are generally not strictly liable for the products sold on their marketplaces by third parties — to be out of date. While in the brick-and-mortar economy, contributory infringement liability has been well-developed through case law for the licensing and oversight of sellers, a comparable regime is largely non-existent in the e-commerce realm. A key problem here is that the laws that apply today have remained largely unchanged since the early days of e-commerce. They were developed at a time when Congress' primary concern was to avoid over-regulation of the nascent market — as exemplified by the numerous safe harbors and limitations on liability for third-party intermediaries.

Rights holders further argued that the current rules, regulations, and practices governing e-commerce disproportionately place the burden of enforcement on rights holders. While e-commerce platforms that operate third-party marketplaces provide various tools for rights holders to report counterfeit listings of their brands, they have effectively shifted the primary responsibility to monitor, detect, and remove infringing products to the rights holders.

Commenters also noted several disparities across e-commerce platforms. For example, among third-party marketplaces that control who may list products on their site for sale, some scrutinize their sellers much more than others. Some allow anyone to sell a product if they provide basic information about themselves, such as credit card and tax identity information. Others require more detailed information, such as an existing online presence, proof that the seller is a business entity and not an individual, and that the seller has established customer support.

Submissions were also received from several platforms noting that they have invested heavily in proactive efforts to prevent counterfeits from reaching their online stores, and several commenters noted that some platforms have significant interactions with law enforcement to combat counterfeits trafficking. Additionally, there was concern expressed by some respondents that while several of the leading online platforms have built out substantial programs, mandating that these practices be adopted by all online platforms could have significant consequences for smaller competitors.

Observations in Support of Strong Government Action

Five observations emerged from this stakeholder outreach and a broader review of the e-commerce landscape: first, actions by the private sector components of the e-commerce supply, distribution, and sales chain will be critical to reducing the heavy volume of counterfeit and pirated goods circulating in the U.S. economy. This is particularly true for third-party marketplaces, which provide tools that producers of counterfeit and pirated goods can exploit.

With respect to such actions, platforms are increasingly developing methods to remove counterfeit listings and compensate consumers who have unwittingly purchased counterfeit goods. Platforms are also improving their capabilities to more quickly identify counterfeits as well as identify product sectors that are more vulnerable to counterfeiting.

Second, despite such actions, private stakeholders have fallen far short of adequately addressing the substantial challenges that must be surmounted if the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods is to be deterred. Such trafficking continues to grow both in the volume and array of goods trafficked. A key failing within the private sector is a lack of a commonly accepted set of best practices to combat counterfeit trafficking.

Third, rights holders are often burdened by e-commerce platforms that operate third-party marketplaces with a disproportionate share of the costs of monitoring, detection, and enforcement falling on rights holders. This burden falls heavily on smaller American enterprises that cannot spread the costs due to trademark infringements and brand enforcement over large sales and inventories.

Fourth, no amount of officers or government resources alone can stem this trafficking.

Fifth, absent the adoption of a set of best practices and a fundamental realignment of incentives brought about by strong government actions, the private sector will continue to fall far short in policing itself. Indeed, the current incentive structure tends to reward the trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods more than these incentives help to deter such trafficking.

The next two sections of this report identify a set of strong government actions that DHS, in consultation with the interagency, believes is necessary to bring about this fundamental realignment of incentives — and thereby ensure that e-commerce stakeholders appropriately shoulder much more of the responsibility for preventing the online trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods.

7. Immediate Action by DHS and Recommendations for the USG

CBP and ICE are the primary federal agencies responsible for securing America's borders. A key responsibility is to prevent goods that infringe U.S. copyrights, registered trademarks, and certain patents from entering the United States. CBP's interdiction of counterfeit goods at U.S. Ports of Entry (POE) is the frontline of USG IPR enforcement.

In meeting their responsibilities, CBP and ICE have the statutory authority to inspect any package as it is imported into U.S. territory. CBP and ICE may draw upon numerous other authorities to stop and prevent the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods, from the assessment of civil fines and other penalties to debarring and suspending irresponsible actors. Many of these authorities are underutilized or underdeveloped to match the risks in the evolving e-commerce environment.

The previous sections of this report have provided an overview of the counterfeit trafficking landscape and identified key problems that need to be addressed firmly and swiftly. This section identifies a set of actions DHS will make through enforcement actions, sub-regulatory changes, and as necessary, notice and comment rulemaking or requested statutory amendments. These actions are summarized in the following table:

Immediate Actions to be Taken by DHS and Recommendations for the U.S. Government
1. Ensure Entities with Financial Interests in Imports Bear Responsibility
2. Increase Scrutiny of Section 321 Environment
3. Suspend and Debar Repeat Offenders; Act Against Non-Compliant International Posts
4. Apply Civil Fines, Penalties and Injunctive Actions for Violative Imported Products

5. Leverage Advance Electronic Data for Mail Mode
6. Anti-Counterfeiting Consortium to Identify Online Nefarious Actors (ACTION) Plan
7. Analyze Enforcement Resources
8. Create Modernized E-Commerce Enforcement Framework
9. Assess Contributory Trademark Infringement Liability for Platforms
10. Re-Examine the Legal Framework Surrounding Non-Resident Importers
11. Establish a National Consumer Awareness Campaign

Unless the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods is greatly reduced, Americans will continue to face unacceptably high health and safety risks, American enterprises and workers will continue to endure severe negative impacts, innovation and economic growth will suffer, and America will continue to be exposed to significant national security risks.

1. Ensure Entities with Financial Interests in Imports Bear Responsibility

DHS will pursue a modernized enforcement and regulatory framework that reflects the economic realities of international e-commerce and ensures that the flow of contraband is stopped at its source.

- CBP will adjust its entry processes and requirements, as necessary, to ensure that all appropriate parties to import transactions are held responsible for exercising a duty of reasonable care.

- CBP will treat domestic warehouses and fulfillment centers as the ultimate consignee for any good that has not been sold to a specific consumer at the time of its importation. As discussed in this report, counterfeit products evade detection and sit in fulfillment centers waiting for purchase by a consumer. By treating domestic warehouses and fulfillment centers as consignees in such circumstances, CBP can enhance their ability to identify Section 321 abuses consistent with current authorities, as well as use its other statutory and regulatory authorities to combat trafficking of counterfeit goods in the possession of domestic warehouses and fulfillment centers.

- DHS will encourage platforms and other third-party intermediaries that own or operate warehouses or fulfillment centers to pursue, in coordination with rights holders, bulk abandonment and destruction of contraband goods that were not interdicted by CBP but are in the platform's or other third-party intermediary's possession in a warehouse or fulfillment center. In cases where CBP suspects merchandise destined for a U.S. fulfillment center violates trade laws prohibiting importation of counterfeit goods and initiates a seizure process for merchandise, CBP will notify the platform or other third-party intermediary operating the fulfillment center or warehouse and request they pursue abandonment and destruction with the rights holders of any identical offending goods in their possession. Failure to cooperate following such notification could be a factor when CBP and ICE identify counterfeit cases to pursue under their existing authorities.

- CBP will require formal entry for shipments deemed high-risk, notwithstanding that such shipments might otherwise qualify for duty-free or informal entry treatment. High-risk merchandise shall include those categories of goods that pose an elevated risk of counterfeiting and shall consider the source of the merchandise.

- CBP will address such high-risk shipments within its current bonding regime, developing a framework for a new type of bond specifically for counterfeit risk (like bonds required for anti-dumping and countervailing duties).

- In consultation with the Department of Justice, CBP will provide guidance regarding the types of customs violations that could be actionable under the False Claims Act (FCA) and will make information regarding successful FCA claims publicly available to inform and enable the public to identify and bring such violations to the attention of the government.

2. Increase Scrutiny of Section 321 Environment

As described above, existing laws and administrative practices may not sufficiently define responsibilities in the e-commerce environment, including who within an e-commerce transaction bears responsibility and legal liability for illicit merchandise and other violations. Statutes and administrative practices can be clarified and updated to provide greater transparency and information about the various parties involved so that DHS can identify high-risk transactions, interdict dangerous merchandise, and cause bad actors to pay the price for their actions. To address this problem in the Section 321 environment, CBP shall require data that sufficiently identifies the third-party seller and the nature and value of the imported merchandise, as well as other information that is necessary to determine the responsible party for Section 321 eligibility purposes, consistent with existing legal authorities. This will be informed by the following efforts:

- Gather Information through Pilot Program. CBP has been examining different e-commerce platform business models and has initiated several pilot programs designed to better understand the dynamics involved, and the type of information that the government should be collecting, including the "Section 321 Data Pilot" specifically for Section 321 entries, 84 Fed Reg. 35405 (July 23, 2019). CBP plans to continue these efforts for approximately two years and will use the information gained to better target counterfeits in the Section 321 environment, to help shape the scope of further policy formation, and ensure compliance with customs laws.

- Enhanced Data Requirements. Upon collection of adequate amounts of data through the Section 321 Data Pilot to identify gaps in the current data collection framework, but no later than six months from the issuance of this report, CBP will, consistent with applicable law, take all necessary steps — including, as applicable, issuing a notice of proposed rulemaking — to initiate a new data collection process. This process will include collecting certain information from domestic warehouses or fulfillment centers about third-party sellers in transactions for which the third-party seller utilizes a domestic warehouse or fulfillment center to store inventory for further sale to domestic consumers. The collection will also include data that sufficiently identifies the third-party seller and the nature and value of the imported merchandise, as well as other information that is necessary to determine the responsible party for Section 321 eligibility purposes, consistent with existing legal authorities. As appropriate, the domestic warehouse or fulfillment center may be deemed the "person" for Section 321 eligibility if the warehouse or fulfillment center fails to provide CBP with such information.

- Issue Guidance. To prevent abuse of Section 321, CBP will develop administrative guidance and, if necessary, consider whether promulgating new regulations is necessary to better define and subsequently enforce Section 321 eligibility requirements. At a minimum this guidance will address the following:

    - What value needs to be reported for a Section 321 entry; and

    - What information will be necessary to uniquely identify the ultimate consignee.

3. Suspend and Debar Repeat Offenders; Act Against Non-Compliant International Postal Operators

In appropriate circumstances, CBP and ICE currently take steps to add persons (both entities and individuals) that have been found to lack present responsibility to the federal suspension and debarment list. Those persons on this suspension and debarment list are prohibited from participating in both government procurement and certain other non-procurement activities. However, current agency practices continue to permit these persons to obtain importer of record numbers and import goods into the United States.

Explicitly clarifying the scope of suspension and debarment to prevent participation in the importer of record program by amending Executive Order 12549 will assist CBP in requiring regulated entities to screen their customers against the suspension and debarment list. This will improve targeting and reduce the number of packages sent by repeat offenders, thereby stopping the flow of contraband at their sources.

- CBP recommends amending Executive Order 12549 to explicitly bar suspended and debarred persons from participating in the Importer of Record Program.

- Following such an amendment, or as otherwise consistent with applicable law and Executive Orders, CBP will require express consignment operators, carriers, and hub facilities to verify their customers have not been suspended or debarred from participating in the Importer of Record Program and refuse to provide import-related services to such suspended or debarred customers.

- Consistent with applicable law, CBP will condition continued access to its "trusted trader programs" by express consignment operators, carriers, and hub facilities on compliance with this verification process that determines whether a customer has been suspended or debarred.

- Consistent with applicable law, CBP also will identify non-compliant international postal operators and international posts by developing an International Mail Non-Compliance metric and will take enforcement actions based on these metrics.

4. Apply Civil Fines, Penalties, and Injunctive Actions for Violative Imported Products

It is critical to the integrity of e-commerce and for the protection of consumers and rights holders that e-commerce platforms that operate third-party marketplaces, and other third-party intermediaries assume greater responsibility, and therefore greater liability for their roles in the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods. To that end, CBP and ICE will use existing statutory and regulatory authorities to reach the activities of third-party marketplaces and other intermediaries where evidence demonstrates they have unlawfully assisted in the importation of counterfeit and pirated goods through the following actions:

- CBP and ICE will immediately begin to identify cases in which third-party intermediaries have demonstrably directed, assisted financially, or aided and abetted the importation of counterfeit merchandise. In coordination with the Department of Justice, CBP and ICE will seek all available statutory authorities to pursue civil fines and other penalties against these entities, including remedies under 19 U.S.C. § 1526(f), as appropriate.

- DHS recommends the administration pursue a statutory change to explicitly permit the government to seek injunctive relief against third-party marketplaces and other intermediaries dealing in counterfeit merchandise.

- In the interim, DHS will provide information and support to registered brand owners looking to utilize statutory authorities to seek injunctive relief against persons dealing in counterfeit merchandise, whether through direct sales or facilitation of sales, following seizures of goods that are imported contrary to law.

- ICE shall prioritize investigations into intellectual property-based crimes regardless of size and will make referrals for all such investigations where appropriate.

- ICE will coordinate with the Department of Justice to develop a strategy to investigate and prosecute intellectual property violations at all levels of the supply chain at a sufficiently high level to respond to the concerns raised in this report and according to its budget and broader mission goals.

5. Leverage Advance Electronic Data for Mail Mode

The United States Postal Service (USPS) is responsible for the presentation of mail and the provision of advance electronic data (AED) to CBP for arriving international mail parcels. USPS receives such AED from international posts. As has been noted, given the number of e-commerce transactions that are sent by mail, there is a significant gap in the information CBP receives. USPS and CBP have enhanced their collaboration in the targeting and identification of offending merchandise that is imported through international mail. Both agencies are implementing new strategies for leveraging the AED already available to identify offending merchandise by taking the following actions:

- DHS and USPS have signed a letter of intent that enables the USPS to work alongside CBP during special operations to become a force multiplier in the interdiction of counterfeit products.

- Upon completion and publication of the Synthetics Trafficking and Overdose Prevention (STOP) Act implementing regulations, DHS will use information gleaned from the 321 Data Pilot and will make recommendations to USPS to address any critical data gaps that remain between what is required of mail versus air cargo. At a minimum, this effort will seek to enhance the individualized tracking of international mail parcels sent through air cargo.

6. Plan for ACTION

Counterfeit networks can be complex and multidimensional, exploiting legal and regulatory nuances in the different stages and aspects of international trade. Yet, for a variety of reasons, including competition law and trade secrets protection, various stakeholders in the e-commerce supply and distribution chains historically have not shared information on problematic sellers, shippers, freight forwarders, brokers, and other third-party intermediaries involved in counterfeit trafficking.

To address this issue, the IPR Center established the E-Commerce Working Group (ECWG) to foster and encourage the flow of actionable data and information between platforms and relevant third-party intermediaries as well as affected carriers, shippers, search engines, and payment processors. DHS supports the efforts of the IPR Center's ECWG and recommends the formation of the Anti-Counterfeiting Consortium to Identify Online Nefarious Actors (ACTION). Specific ACTION efforts will include the following:

- Sharing information within the ACTION framework on sellers, shippers, and other third-party intermediaries involved in trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods.

- Sharing of risk automation techniques allowing ACTION members to create and improve on proactive targeting systems that automatically monitor online platform sellers for counterfeits and pirated goods.

- In addition, ACTION members may enter non-binding memoranda of understanding (MOU) with the IPR Center, consistent with U.S. law, to clarify the expectations and legal understanding for data sharing and coordinated IPR enforcement moving forward. Such MOUs will provide a vehicle to create a compliance scoring mechanism, as well as to delineate reasonable efforts to know the seller as well as the scope of products involved

(e.g., fast-moving consumer goods, consumer electronics, fashion and luxury products, sports goods, software, and games, and toys).

7. Analyze Enforcement Resources

Packages shipped through the international mail environment account for approximately 500 million packages annually. This does not include the millions of packages sent out daily via express consignment carriers. Amidst this flood of packages, insufficient resources can create a key limitation on the capabilities of DHS and other government agencies to screen, target, and detect the counterfeit and pirated goods that hide amongst the increasing massive flow of small packages.

A lack of resources also limits the ability of intelligence gathering and analysis, the proper determination of whether suspect goods may be counterfeit, the collection of comprehensive data on the trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods, and the ability to conduct criminal investigations into the organizations that traffic in counterfeit goods. To address these issues, the following actions shall be taken:

- CBP will analyze whether the fees collected by CBP are currently set at sufficient levels to reimburse the costs associated with processing, inspecting, and collecting duties, taxes, and fees for parcels. CBP shall also provide recommendations to the Department of the Treasury regarding any fee adjustments that would be necessary to fund and reimburse the federal government's costs for more effectively combating the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods.

8. Create Modernized E-Commerce Enforcement Framework

DHS will pursue a modernized enforcement framework that reflects the economic realities of international e-commerce. This new framework may rely on the provision of privileges or benefits by CBP to e-commerce entities in exchange for the submission of additional data elements and sufficient internal controls that demonstrate the entities' ability to identify and manage risk within their respective supply chains. This new framework may also require updates to existing statutes and regulations to underpin this effort. Key elements of a modernized e-commerce enforcement framework could include, but are not limited to:

- Seeking statutory authority to treat IPR infringing goods as summarily forfeited upon discovery by CBP or ICE similar to the treatment of Schedule I and II narcotics under Title 21 of the U.S. Code. This will send a clear message about the importance of IPR enforcement, and simultaneously streamline the disposition of CBP enforcement actions.

- Pursuing statutory and/or regulatory changes, as necessary, so that CBP can better share information with the private sector;

- Implementing a risk-based bonding regime for e-commerce transactions; and

- Adopting streamlined enforcement processes for seized, abandoned, and forfeited goods.

9. Assess Contributory Trademark Infringement Liability for E-Commerce

Online platforms have avoided civil liability for contributory trademark infringement in several cases. Given the advance and expansion of e-commerce, DHS recommends that the Department of Commerce consider the following measures:

- Assess the state of liability for trademark infringement considering recent judicial opinions, and the impact of this report—including platforms' implementation of the best practices directed herein.

- Seek input from the private sector and other stakeholders as to the application of the traditional doctrines of trademark infringement to the e-commerce setting, including whether to pursue changes in the application of the contributory and/or vicarious infringement standards to platforms.

10. Re-Examine the Legal Framework Surrounding Non-Resident Importers

Currently, non-resident importers can legally enter goods into the United States provided they have a "resident agent" as defined in regulation. In practice, it can be difficult to compel non-resident importers to pay civil penalties and respond to other enforcement actions available to the USG. With this in mind, DHS should reevaluate the legal framework for allowing non-resident importers in the Section 321 de minimis low-value shipment environment.

11. Establish a National Consumer Awareness Campaign

Given the critical role that consumers can play in the battle against online counterfeiting, DHS recommends the development of a national public-private awareness campaign. The national public awareness campaign recommended by DHS should involve platforms, rights holders, and the applicable government agencies to provide education for consumers regarding the risks of counterfeits as well as the various ways consumers can use to spot counterfeit products. At present, many consumers remain uninformed as to the risks of buying counterfeit and pirated products online. These risks are both direct to them (e.g., tainted baby food), as well as indirect (e.g., sales revenues can fund terrorism).

Many consumers are also unaware of the significant probabilities they face of being defrauded by counterfeiters when they shop on e-commerce platforms. As this report has documented, these probabilities are unacceptably high and appear to be rising. Even those consumers motivated to conduct research and stay informed might lack the specialized knowledge and efficient user tools to make diligent online buying decisions.

A strong and ongoing national campaign to increase public awareness about the risks of counterfeits in an e-commerce world should help alert consumers about the potential dangers of some online purchases. To the extent e-commerce platforms empower their consumers to participate in the monitoring and detection of counterfeits, e.g., by implementing several of the best practices recommended in this report, this will also help in the fight against the trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods.

This effort could use technology as well as provide online education. For example, online marketplaces could prominently display messages on their home pages, as well as on high-risk item pages, warning customers about the dangers of counterfeits and urging respect for intellectual property rights. Additionally, the campaign could be paired with technologically-enabled assurances of authenticity. Such an approach would provide commercial advantages to the platforms that adopt it while also benefiting consumers and rights holders through reliable methods to identify and certify the authenticity of branded products across online platforms.

8. Private Sector Best Practices

The following table catalogs a set of high priority "best practices" that should be swiftly adopted by e-commerce platforms that operate third-party marketplaces, and other third-party intermediaries. Under the authority of the Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security, these best practices shall be recommended and communicated to all relevant private sector stakeholders by the ICE/HSI-led IPR Center.

It shall be a duty of the IPR Center to encourage, monitor, and report on the adoption of, and the progress and effectiveness of, these best practices, through all means necessary within the scope of the legal authority of DHS and the Federal Government.

Best Practices for E-Commerce Platforms and Third-Party Marketplaces
1. Comprehensive "Terms of Service" Agreements
2. Significantly Enhanced Vetting of Third-Party Sellers
3. Limitations on High Risk Products
4. Efficient Notice and Takedown Procedures
5. Enhanced Post-Discovery Actions
6. Indemnity Requirements for Foreign Sellers
7. Clear Transactions Through Banks that Comply with U.S. Enforcement Requests
8. Pre-Sale Identification of Third-Party Sellers
9. Establish Marketplace Seller IDs
10. Clearly Identifiable Country of Origin Disclosures

1. Comprehensive "Terms of Service" Agreements

It is critical that platforms require all third-party sellers to sign comprehensive and stringent terms of service agreements that maximize the authorities of the platforms to combat counterfeit trafficking. Terms of service agreements will provide platforms with an important legal means to combat counterfeit trafficking

Most obviously, these terms of service should incorporate explicit prohibitions on selling counterfeit and pirated goods. Once the platform has affirmatively detected infringement on a seller profile, the actions listed below under the category of "post-discovery actions" should be allowed under the terms and taken swiftly.

The terms of service should also list the potential repercussions sellers face for violations. Generally, these repercussions should allow platforms to impose sanctions such as suspension, termination, and debarment without waiting for a determination by a court for sellers who violate the terms of the agreement. The terms should include escalating capabilities to suspend, terminate, and debar counterfeit traffickers and their affiliates.

Specifically, they should allow the platform to conduct, at a minimum, the following actions in response to violations or identified risk factors in the seller's profile and product postings without waiting for a determination by a court:

> (1) terminate or suspend a seller account based on the use or reference to a username that is confusingly similar to a registered trademark;
> (2) take down or suspend and keep down individual product postings based on the misuse of photographs, logos, external links to infringing content, certain coded messages with actual intellectual property references removed, or imbedded offers to manufacture; and
> (3) allow for an escalating enforcement structure that results in (for major infractions and/or repeat minor infractions) permanent removal of the seller, and any known related seller profiles, from the marketplace feature of the platform and further results in forfeiture and destruction of all offending goods in warehouses or fulfillment centers operated by, or under the control of, the platform.

To maximize platform authorities, and as explained further below, such terms of service should also allow platforms to impose appropriate limitations on products listed, require clearly identifiable country of origin disclosures, impose U.S. banking and indemnity requirements, and significantly improve pre-sale identification of third-party sellers.

2. Significantly Enhanced Vetting of Third-Party Sellers

Significantly enhanced vetting of third-party sellers is one of the most effective forms of due diligence platforms can engage in to reduce the risk of counterfeits entering the e-commerce stream. Platforms should have a uniform and articulable vetting regime to determine if a seller will be allowed to list products for sale.

To facilitate enhanced vetting, platforms should, at a minimum, require the following:

(1) sufficient identification of the seller, its accounts and listings, and its business locations prior to allowing the seller to list products on the platform;

(2) certification from the seller as to whether it, or related persons, have been banned or removed from any major e-commerce platforms, or otherwise implicated in selling counterfeit or pirated products online; and

(3) acknowledgment, where applicable, that the seller is offering trademarked products for which the seller does not own the rights (either because they are a reseller or seller of used products).

Information provided by potential sellers should also be vetted for accuracy, including through the following efforts:

(1) use of technological tools, as well as analyses of historical and public data, to assess risk of sellers and products; and

(2) establishment of an audit program for sellers, concentrating on repeat offenders and those sellers exhibiting higher risk characteristics.

Any failure to provide accurate and responsive information should result in a determination to decline the seller account and/or to hold the seller in violation of the platform's terms of service.

3. Limitations on High Risk Products

Platforms should have in place protocols and procedures to place limitations on the sale of products that have a higher risk of being counterfeited or pirated and/or pose a higher risk to the public health and safety. For example, some of the major platforms completely prohibit the sale of prescription medications by third-party sellers in their marketplaces. Many platforms also ban the sale of products that are known to be particularly vulnerable to counterfeiting and that pose a safety risk when sold online. Examples include car airbag components, infant formula, and new batteries for cellular phones.

Platforms can also place other types of restrictions on third-party sellers before certain high-risk categories of goods may be sold. For example, some platforms require prior approval for items such as automotive parts, jewelry, art, food, computers, sports collectibles, DVDs, and watches that are particularly prone to counterfeiting.

Platforms should prominently publish a list of items that may not be sold on third-party marketplaces under any circumstances (prohibited), as well as a list of items that can only be sold when accompanied by independent third-party certification (restricted). In constructing these lists, platforms should consider, among other things, whether a counterfeit version of the underlying product presents increased risks to the health and safety of U.S. residents or the national security of the United States. When a seller claims their merchandise has an independent third-party certification, and this certification is required in order for the product to be legally offered for sale in the United States, platforms should make good-faith efforts to verify the authenticity of these certifications.

4. Efficient Notice and Takedown Procedures

Notice and takedown is the most common method of removing counterfeit listings from third-party marketplaces and e-commerce platforms. This noticing process can be particularly time-consuming and resource-intensive for rights holders who currently bear a highly disproportionate share of the burden of identifying the counterfeit listings for noticing.

These rights holders must invest significant resources to scour millions of listings across multiple platforms to identify potentially counterfeit listings and notify the third-party marketplace or e-commerce platform. This kind of comprehensive policing of e-commerce often is not possible for smaller enterprises.

As a further burden, some third-party marketplaces require rights holders to buy the suspected products from the sellers to verify that they are in fact counterfeit. There often is a delay of a day or longer between the time that notice is provided, and the time listing is removed. During this period, counterfeiters may continue to defraud American consumers.

To address these abuses — and assume a much greater share of responsibility for the policing of e-commerce — platforms should create and maintain clear, precise, and objective criteria that allow for quick and efficient notice and takedowns of infringing seller profiles and product listings. An effective regime should include, at a minimum, the following: (1) minimal registration requirements for an interested party to participate in the notice and takedown process; (2) reasonable rules that treat profile owners offering large quantities of goods on consumer-to-consumer platforms as businesses; and (3) transparency to the rights holders as to how complaints are resolved along with relevant information on other sales activity by the seller that has been implicated.

5. Enhanced Post-Discovery Actions

Upon discovery that counterfeit or pirated goods have been sold, platforms should conduct a series of "post-discovery" actions to remediate the fraud. These should include:

(1) notification to any buyer(s) likely to have purchased the goods in question with the offer of a full refund;

(2) notification to implicated rights holders, with details of the infringing goods, and information as to any remaining stock of the counterfeit and pirated goods held in warehouses;

(3) implementation of practices that result in the removal of counterfeit and pirated goods within the platform's effective control and in a manner that prevents such goods from re-entering the U.S. or being diverted to other markets; and

(4) immediate engagement with law enforcement to provide intelligence and to determine further courses of action.

6. Indemnification Requirements for Foreign Sellers

For a large portion of e-commerce, foreign sellers do not provide security or protection against a loss or other financial burden associated with the products they sell in the United States. Because these sellers are located outside the United States, they also may not be subject to the jurisdiction of U.S. courts in civil litigation or government enforcement actions. Further adding to this liability gap, there is this: while e-commerce platforms generally have a U.S. presence and are under U.S. jurisdiction, under the current interpretations of American laws and regulations, they are often found not to be liable for harm caused by the products they sell or distribute.

The result of this jurisdictional and liability gap is that consumers and rights holders do not have an efficient or predictable form of legal recourse when they are harmed by foreign products sold on third-party marketplaces. Accordingly, e-commerce platforms should require foreign sellers to provide some form of security in cases where a foreign product is sold to a U.S. consumer. Such form of security should be specifically designed to cover the potential types and scope of harm to consumers and rights holders from counterfeit or pirated products.

Note that there are several ways that platforms might flexibly achieve this goal. For example, requiring proof of insurance would provide a form of security for any reasonably foreseeable damages to consumers that might flow from the use of the product. Rights holders could also be compensated in cases of infringement.

7. Clear Transactions Through Banks that Comply with U.S. Enforcement Requests

Many foreign sellers on third-party marketplaces do not have a financial nexus to the United States, making it difficult to obtain financial information and to subject all parts of the transaction to U.S. law enforcement efforts.

Platforms should close this loophole by encouraging all sellers to clear transactions only with banks and payment providers that comply with U.S. law enforcement requests for information and laws related to (relevant to) the financing of counterfeit activity.

8. Pre-Sale Identification of Third-Party Sellers

Stakeholders have, at times, reported that buyers have been surprised to discover upon completion of an online sales transaction, that the order will be fulfilled by an unknown third-party seller and not the platform itself. Without addressing the separate legal question of whether this comprises deceptive action per se, at least some buyers may have made different purchasing decisions if they had known, prior to purchase, the identity of the third-party "storefront" owner, and/or the party ultimately responsible for fulfilling the transaction.

To increase transparency on this issue, platforms should significantly improve their pre-sale identification of third-party sellers so that buyers can make informed decisions, potentially factoring in the likelihood of being sold a counterfeit or IPR infringing merchandise. Platforms should implement additional measures to inform consumers, prior to the completion of a transaction, of the identity of storefront owners and/or those responsible for fulfilling a transaction, as well as any allegations of counterfeits being sold by a particular seller. On the converse, if a particular seller is a licensed reseller of the product, this information should also be provided.

Even if this information may be currently available, firm steps should be taken to ensure that this information is featured prominently in product listings. This will prompt greater consumer awareness and lead to more informed decision-making.

9. Establish Marketplace Seller IDs

Platforms generally do not require a seller on a third-party marketplace to identify the underlying business entity, nor to link one seller profile to other profiles owned by that same business, or by related businesses and owners. In addition, the party that appears as the seller on the invoice and the business or profile that appears on the platform to be the seller, may not always be the same. This lack of transparency allows one business to have many different profiles that can appear unrelated. It also allows a business to create and dissolve profiles with greater ease, which can obfuscate the main mechanism that consumers use to judge seller credibility, namely reviews by other buyers.

Platforms should require sellers to provide the names of their underlying business or businesses (if applicable), as well as any other related seller profiles owned or controlled by that seller or that clear transactions through the same merchant account. Platforms can use this seller ID information in three helpful ways:

First, to communicate to the consumer a more holistic view of "who" is selling the goods, allowing the consumer to inspect, and consult reviews of, all related seller profiles to determine trustworthiness. Second, linking all related sellers together will assist rights holders in monitoring who is selling goods that they believe to be infringing. Third, the platform can use the connections to other seller profiles to better conduct its own internal risk assessment, and make risk mitigation decisions (e.g., requiring cash deposits or insurance) as appropriate based on the volume and sophistication of the seller.

10. Clearly Identifiable Country of Origin Disclosures

Brick-and-mortar retail stores are required to have labels on their products that clearly identify the country or countries of origin. No such requirement applies to online e-commerce.

Platforms should require sellers to disclose the country of origin of their products; and platforms should post this country of origin information for all the products they sell. This will assist both the platforms and consumers in evaluating the risks that a product might be counterfeit.

9. Conclusions

Both private sector and USG input to this report have shown that the flood of counterfeit and pirated goods now being trafficked to American consumers through online third-party marketplaces is threatening both the public health and safety as well as national security. The lack of effective methods for addressing counterfeit goods stifles American innovation and erodes the competitiveness of U.S. manufacturers and workers. Despite increased efforts of both the USG and private sector stakeholders, the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods continues to worsen, in both the volume and the array of products being trafficked.

This report to President Donald J. Trump has identified a set of strong government actions that DHS and other federal agencies can begin executing immediately to address a crisis that is undermining America's trust in e-commerce even as it is exposing the American public to undue and unacceptable risks.

Additionally, this report has proposed a set of best practices for private sector stakeholders that DHS believes should be adopted swiftly. As the longstanding experiences of brick-and-mortar stores demonstrate, the private sector is capable of operating businesses that sell legitimate, not illicit, goods to American consumers. We should expect the same level of care from online third-party marketplaces that we expect from the stores physically located in our communities.

During the time you have spent reading this report, hundreds of thousands of new clicks in online third-party marketplaces have started the process for a new wave of counterfeits flooding into the United States. Although the USG will continue to benefit from additional information flowing from current-running pilot programs, and longer-term legislative and regulatory efforts, the time has come for action, both from the USG and those private sector companies that desire to be good partners in combating the scourge of counterfeiting.

10. Appendix A: The IPR Center

The National Intellectual Property Rights Coordination Center (IPR Center) is led by Homeland Security Investigations. The IPR Center plays an important role in consumer and rights holders education on the dangers of purchasing counterfeit goods and on how to report a suspected counterfeit to law enforcement.

In 2018, the IPR Center conducted 192 IPR and commercial fraud-related outreach efforts, reaching 12,061 people. As recommended in this report, this IPR Center should play a critical and expanded role in the ongoing battle against counterfeit trafficking.

This Appendix describes some of the major initiatives the IPR Center is currently involved in.

Background on the IPR Center

The IPR Center brings together 25 U.S Government and foreign government agencies in a task force setting using a three-pronged approach to combat intellectual property and trade crime: interdiction, investigation, and outreach to the public and law enforcement. It seeks to coordinate a unified USG response to the growing threat of counterfeiting and has significantly expanded the original multi-agency law enforcement and regulatory endeavor created to target IPR crimes.

As part of this effort, rights holders, online marketplaces, payment processers and companies involved in all points across the supply chain regularly meet with members of the IPR Center to share their best practices, concerns, and suggestions. The information gathered at these events can lead to further collaboration across sectors to develop innovative solutions to complex cross-cutting challenges, including enhanced information sharing, joint enforcement actions, and specialized, targeted training and outreach.

IPR Training

The IPR Center, with assistance from the Department of State, works closely with International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs (DOS/INL) and DOJ International Computer Hacking and Intellectual Property Section (formerly Intellectual Property Law Enforcement Coordinator - IPLEC). In conjunction with ICE Attaché offices, the IPR Center directs, organizes and delivers regional IPR training in the form of lectures and presentations to foreign customs, police, prosecutors, and magistrates.

IPR Center training programs are usually 3-5 days in length and emphasize IPR enforcement, particularly the investigation and prosecution of IPR violations and associated crimes such as smuggling and money laundering.

The training programs are interactive workshops led by subject matter experts and focus on health and safety risks associated with counterfeited items such as pharmaceuticals, electronics, automotive parts, and health and beauty products. With the growing number of e-commerce marketplaces, the training programs have an Internet-investigations focus as well.

Private sector representatives or associations are also invited to participate in the training programs to highlight the challenges their industry sector may face in a particular region and to highlight the necessity of government and industry cooperation.

Automotive Anti-Counterfeiting Council

The IPR Center meets regularly with automotive original equipment manufacturers through the Automotive Anti-Counterfeiting Council (A2C2) to address the sale and distribution of counterfeit parts and components to unsuspecting consumers, including the distribution of counterfeit parts through third-party marketplaces. The IPR Center and the A2C2 work together to provide training to federal and local law enforcement partners and payment processors on recognizing counterfeit automotive parts and conducting criminal investigations and prosecutions.

Defense Industrial Base Supply Chain

Addressing counterfeits in the defense industrial base supply chain is critical to national security. A faulty counterfeit product can harm not only the individual who uses it. It can impact the safety and security of the entire country if dangerous counterfeits are used in combat situations.

The Defense Federal Acquisition Regulation Supplement (DFARS) is a Department of Defense (DOD)-specific supplement to the Federal Acquisitions Regulation (FAR), which establishes government-wide regulations governing executive agency procurement contracts. DFARS 252.246-7007, Contractor Counterfeit Electronic Part Detection and Avoidance System, requires that certain government contractors institute and implement a counterfeit detection and avoidance system for electronic parts, including establishing the minimum requirements for such a system and penalties for a failure to comply. In addition, contractors can recover the costs of any rework or corrective action taken to remedy any counterfeits parts from subcontractors.

Operation Chain Reaction (OCR) is an ICE-led initiative at the IPR Center that targets counterfeits entering the supply chains of the DOD and other USG agencies. OCR began in June 2011, and it combines the expertise of 17 federal agencies. Each year, the OCR Task Force co-hosts the Counterfeit Microelectronics Working Group (CMWG) with the Department of Justice's Computer Crimes and Intellectual Property Section (CCIPS). Attendees include representatives from industry, law enforcement, Department of Defense (DOD), and Assistant United States Attorneys (AUSAs). The focus of the meetings is to enhance communication between law enforcement and industry and discuss the latest trends in the counterfeiting of integrated circuits. The CMWG's role is to protect the DOD supply chain through extensive collaboration.

11. Appendix B: Ongoing CBP Activities to Combat Counterfeit Trafficking

This appendix provides a brief summary of some of the major activities CBP and DHS engage in as part of the battle against the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods.

National Targeting Center

CBP's National Targeting Center (NTC) carries out daily targeting on IPR recidivists, which often use third-party marketplaces for counterfeit trafficking. It makes referrals to the IPR Center for review and distribution to its field offices for further investigation. It also provides real time IPR case support for Homeland Security Investigations and collaborates with the NTC's investigations division to collaborate on IPR criminal leads and existing cases.

COAC E-Commerce Working Group

The Commercial Customs Operations Advisory Committee (COAC) provides recommendations to the Secretaries of the Treasury and DHS on improvements to the commercial operations of CBP. The COAC consists of 20 members appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of DHS.

COAC members are representative of the individuals and firms affected by the commercial operations of CBP. CBP's Office of Trade leads the COAC E-Commerce Working Group, which focuses on policy challenges surrounding the increase of e-commerce shipment volumes. The group recently finalized a supply chain map that the COAC recommended CBP use for outreach and policy-making endeavors.

Outreach

Section 311 of the Trade Facilitation and Trade Enforcement Act (TFTEA) (codified at 19 U.S.C. § 4350) calls for DHS to develop and execute an educational awareness campaign aimed at informing international travelers about the legal, economic, and public health and safety impacts of importing IPR-infringing merchandise. There have been four phases to date in the "Truth Behind Counterfeits" IPR public awareness campaign—summer 2017, holidays 2017, summer 2018, and holidays 2018.

During each of these four phases, advertisements have run on large-scale billboards in major U.S. airports throughout the country. There has also been a digital component to the campaign where the ads run on relevant travel-related websites.

CBP continues to partner with the private sector to conduct IPR risk assessments by allowing IPR owners to assist CBP in identifying authentic and low-risk shipments. CBP is also highly engaged with the private sector through participation in the IPR Working Group of the COAC's Trade Enforcement and Revenue Collection Subcommittee, and the Department of Commerce's Industry Trade Advisory Committee on Intellectual Property Rights.

In FY 2018, CBP conducted roundtables to bring together personnel from the law enforcement community and industry stakeholders for information sharing among members. This provided an opportunity for industry stakeholders to share specific industry standards with field personnel working to protect stakeholder rights at the border. In FY 2018, CBP held roundtables at the Automotive and Aerospace Center of Excellence and Expertise IPR Conference.

CBP personnel from headquarters, the ports, the centers, NTC, and the targeting groups also meet regularly with private sector stakeholders and trade associations to discuss trends, technologies, and ways to cooperate on IPR enforcement. CBP maintains IPR enforcement personnel across the country, allowing CBP personnel to meet with businesses and trade associations either at headquarters or in locations close to where the companies are located or do business. CBP personnel regularly meet with brand protection and other corporate officials on a company-specific basis.

Additionally, CBP pursues bilateral and multilateral engagements with foreign counterparts to conduct joint customs IPR enforcement operations, share effective enforcement practices, and exchange information on IPR violations to improve targeting and interdiction of counterfeit and pirated goods.

CBP, in coordination with ICE/HSI, focuses its bilateral engagement efforts on those countries with which CBP and ICE/HSI have a Customs Mutual Assistance Agreement (CMAA) and continues to pursue establishing new CMAAs with foreign governments around the world. CBP attachés stationed at embassies around the world facilitate cooperation through operational planning, information exchange, and sharing best practices between CBP and foreign customs authorities.

Training

CBP's IPR-related training focuses on training front-line and Center of Excellence and Expertise (Center) personnel on how detect, examine, and enforce IPR violations. Several offices within CBP collaborate to provide a robust IPR instructor-led training course that covers IPR seizure authority, enforcement best practices, administrative IPR procedures, and other critical legal and policy topics.

CBP's Office of Trade also conducts IPR webinars to educate port and Center personnel on IPR infringing products. Rights holders provide information on how to recognize IPR-infringing products, labels, and packaging. CBP is also developing a formalized Advanced IPR Enforcement Training course that will expand on the existing IPR Instructor-led Training course to increase students' knowledge of advanced IPR enforcement areas.

Private sector engagement also continues to comprise a significant part of CBP training for frontline personnel. Rights holders are routinely invited to address CBP audiences at local ports and the Centers. CBP also hosts national webinars with rights holders designed to train personnel across the country. Rights holders also provide CBP personnel with product identification guides that describe methods to distinguish between genuine and infringing products. These guides afford frontline personnel the ability to compare imported merchandise with pictures of genuine products.

Additionally, CBP Regulations and Rulings provide training on advanced detection of trademark/copyright infringement to Import Specialists of the Automotive and Aerospace Center, the Consumer Products and Mass Merchandising Center, and the Apparel, Footwear and Textile Center, as well as to CBP officers at the ports of Newark, New Jersey, and John F. Kennedy Airport.

Rulemakings and Procedures

CBP has recently published two notices of proposed rulemaking related to the protection of intellectual property rights. In the first, CBP proposes to standardize the process by which customs brokers verify the identity of their clients, typically importers. The proposed regulations would formalize the verification process and require that a re-verification process be carried out by brokers every year. This improved broker knowledge is designed to allow for better commercial fraud prevention and revenue protection, and to help prevent the use of shell or shelf companies by importers who attempt to evade the customs laws of the United States. Preventing the use of shell or shelf companies by importers would help reduce the misclassification of merchandise to avoid duties, protect against IPR violations, reduce antidumping/countervailing duty infractions, and reduce the importation of unsafe merchandise.

The second proposal would create a procedure for the disclosure of information otherwise protected by the Trade Secrets Act to a trademark owner when merchandise has been voluntarily abandoned if CBP suspects that the successful importation of the merchandise would have violated U.S. trade laws prohibiting the importation of merchandise bearing counterfeit marks. This regulation will provide greater transparency for partner government agencies, as well as for rights holders; allowing both to reassess and amend their own enforcement strategies in light of contemporaneous attempts to import counterfeit and pirated goods.

Trade Special Operations

A CBP Trade Special Operation (TSO) is a comprehensive and focused trade targeting action conducted during a limited timeframe to address a specific trade enforcement risk, usually in support of one of CBP's Priority Trade Issues (PTIs), which include IPR violations. These operations target high-risk shipments at seaports, airports, CBP's international mail facilities, and express consignment carrier hubs across the United States.

Three related developments have contributed to the growth in the number of national and local TSOs and improved visibility into their results: (1) The implementation of the Automated Targeting System (ATS) Import Targeting module and the updated ATS Import Cargo module at the beginning of FY 2019; (2) the issuance of an updated TSO Standard Operating Procedures in FY 2019; and (3) the ongoing efforts of proactive trade enforcement managers collaborating within CBP's Integrated Trade Targeting Network, which meets monthly and represents all of CBP trade components (Field Offices, Centers, Headquarters, and other offices).

12. Appendix C: Homeland Security Investigations

Homeland Security Investigations (HSI) within DHS's Immigration and Customs Enforcement agency is the principal investigative arm of DHS. It is a vital U.S. asset in combating criminal organizations illegally exploiting America's travel, trade, financial and immigration systems and including the theft of intellectual property.

Investigations

HSI investigates sophisticated, complex conspiracies that span international boundaries. These investigations result in the prosecution of members of transnational criminal organizations and the seizure of illicit proceeds and contraband.

Operation In Our Sites

Since 2010, HSI has been conducting Operation In Our Sites (IOS). This operation targets criminal organizations that distribute dangerous and illicit goods via websites, online platforms, and social media sites.

Initially formed as a U.S.-based initiative for the seizure of domain name registrations, IOS has evolved to develop long term investigations that identify targets and assets in the U.S. and disrupt the financial schemes used by these organizations, both domestically and internationally.

Operation IOS has been expanded to include efforts by various European countries and coordinated by Europol (the European Union's law enforcement agency). These efforts include civil takedowns by private sector companies/groups.

In 2018, 26 countries and dozens of private sector companies participated in IOS, resulted in the criminal seizure of over 33,000 domain name registrations and the civil seizure of over 1.2 million domain name registrations.

In addition, over 2.2 million URL links to e-commerce platforms and social media platforms have been seized as a result of IOS. When a domain name registration is seized as part of IOS, Internet traffic to that site is redirected towards a seizure banner notifying visitors that the site has been seized for offering counterfeits. Since IOS began, there have been more than 177 million views of the IOS seizure banner.

On February 14, 2018, HSI also published its E-Commerce Strategic Plan. It leverages collaboration among private industry, law enforcement, and advocates for a cooperative enforcement approach to identify and dismantle organizations and prosecute people that traffic in dangerous and illicit goods utilizing various e-commerce outlets. These outlets include both the open-net and the dark web along with sales platforms, social media, and a variety of payment processors and shipping methods.

National Cyber-Forensics and Training Alliance

HSI has two staff members at the National Cyber-Forensics and Training Alliance (NCFTA), a non-government organization in Pittsburgh, PA. The professionals at NCFTA work with industry and law enforcement to de-conflict leads and coordinate operations between agencies, as well as to share intelligence and develop investigative referrals. The NCFTA brings together experienced law enforcement agents and analysts, governmental experts, and industry leaders to form an integral alliance between academia, law enforcement, and industry.

E-Commerce Working Group

In November 2017, HSI established the E-Commerce Working Group; it includes representatives from various online marketplaces, payment platforms, and express consignment businesses along with CBP and the FBI. This working group also includes the International Anti-Counterfeiting Coalition, a Washington, D.C.-based non-profit organization devoted to combating product counterfeiting and piracy.

The E-Commerce Working Group meets regularly to facilitate the exchange of intelligence, share best practices, and identify cross-sector collaboration among its members. In late 2018, HSI led a pilot project which involved the sharing of data among the participating online platforms. This pilot project demonstrated that criminal organizations are exploiting multiple online platforms to sell counterfeit items.

HSI is also working with members of the E-Commerce Working Group as they strive to establish, by late 2019, a practice of sustained and timely sharing of large amounts of information between the platforms. Once this has been accomplished, the initiative will be expanded to include participation by the payment platforms and express consignment sectors.

Training

HSI offers an advanced commercial fraud training course entitled “Intellectual Property and Trade Enforcement Investigations.” This two-week training covers a range of intellectual property and trade enforcement topics. Representatives from the consumer electronics, tobacco, automotive, and other industries subject to high counterfeit risk deliver presentations as part of this training. Four sessions of this course were delivered to 120 HSI and CBP attendees in FY 2019.

13. Appendix D: U.S. Government Efforts

Across the interagency, the USG engages in a comprehensive approach to monitor, deter, and prevent the importation, distribution, and sale of counterfeit and pirated goods into the United States. Law enforcement and regulatory agencies, as well as prosecutors and civil complainants all play a role in addressing this issue, especially as it affects the health and safety, economy and national security of the United States. Some aspects of this approach are mode-neutral while others are specific to the international sale of counterfeit and pirated goods through third-party platforms.

This appendix provides a brief summary of some of the major activities of select agencies and entities to address counterfeits and pirated goods sold on third-party marketplaces. This appendix does not present a comprehensive overview of all efforts to address intellectual property violations.

Department of State

The U.S. Department of State has found that increased diplomatic engagement on intellectual property protections at the highest practical levels, supported by interagency engagement and sustained and targeted capacity building, is an effective way to build up the necessary political will to adequately protect IPR overseas. This diplomatic and capacity-building engagement provides evidence of the weight that the U.S. gives to IPR protection worldwide. High-level engagement on IPR also allows U.S. officials the opportunity to educate foreign officials on the economic, social, and cultural benefits of protecting IPR while at the same time warning of the dangers to their economies, public health, and human safety presented by counterfeits and piracy.

The Department of State, through its Bureau of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs (INL), in consultation with the Bureau of Economic and Business Affairs Office of Intellectual Property Enforcement, supports the U.S. Transnational and High-Tech Crime Global Law Enforcement Network (GLEN).

The GLEN consists of the worldwide deployment of experienced U.S. law enforcement experts to deliver training and technical assistance to foreign law enforcement partners designed to advance operational success. INL also provides assistance to United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO) and the DHS IPR Center to enable them to deliver complementary capacity building.

Department of Commerce

The Department of Commerce International Trade Administration's Office of Standards and Intellectual Property OSIP (OSIP) provides domestic outreach events to promote IPR protection in online marketplaces and to educate small and medium sized enterprises on the value of protecting and enforcing their intellectual property rights both domestically and internationally.

Commerce's "STOPfakes Road Shows" represent a unique, interagency outreach event. They are presented in multiple U.S. cities with IPR-intensive industries and provide an array of panel speakers and IPR experts. These Roadshows deliver critically important information about intellectual property to audiences that need it most – start-ups, entrepreneurs, small and medium-sized businesses, independent creators, and inventors.

In addition, OSIP continues to expand the program's unique interactive features. These include guided assistance by CBP officials to assist with trademark recordation and guidance from U.S. Copyright Office officials in registering copyright protections.

USPTO provides policy and technical advice to the Administration and Congress on legislation and other matters relating to civil, criminal, and border enforcement of intellectual property. It is constantly working to improve domestic intellectual property laws and regulations and also seeks to increase public awareness through education on the risks of infringement and the benefits of IPR protection and enforcement.

In 2019, USPTO launched a multi-year, nationwide public awareness campaign with the National Crime Prevention Council in a joint effort to educate U.S. consumers about the dangers of counterfeit goods.

USPTO, including through its Global Intellectual Property Academy (GIPA), provides and participates in technical assistance and capacity-building programs for foreign governments seeking to develop or improve their intellectual property laws and regulations, and to enhance the expertise of those responsible for intellectual property rights enforcement.

Federal Bureau of Investigation

In October 2015, the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) developed a new strategy to combat IPR crime by helping different industry sectors identify common challenges and work together to solve these challenges. The FBI's strategy focuses on building partnerships with key intermediaries in the supply chain for counterfeit and pirated goods, such as e-commerce platforms, payment processors, and the ecosystem for online advertising.

The FBI's strategy also focuses on identifying and pursuing investigations against "systemic enablers" or entities which knowingly facilitate the large-scale infringement of intellectual property rights. As one example of this in action, in 2017 the FBI helped several e-commerce companies re-evaluate their policies regarding the sale of potentially hazardous counterfeit goods online.

At the IPR Center, the FBI helps provide funding and logistical support for the HSI-managed "report IP theft" button, a web-based application for consumers and rights holders to submit complaints to law enforcement regarding suspected infringing activities. The FBI is currently working on developing new analytic tools to help process consumer and rights holder complaints.

U.S. Trade Representative

The Office of the U.S. Trade Representative (USTR) is responsible for developing and coordinating international trade policy for the U.S. government with respect to IPR protections. USTR also oversees negotiations with trading partners, including on IPR issues.

USTR uses a wide range of bilateral and multilateral trade tools to promote strong intellectual property laws and effective enforcement worldwide, reflecting the importance of intellectual property and innovation to the growth of the U.S. economy.

U.S. Food and Drug Administration

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) protects the public health by ensuring the safety, efficacy, and security of food, drugs, medical devices, cosmetics and many public health products. One key method that FDA uses to strengthen its public health mission is through regulations and investigations of counterfeit products.

The FDA also issues safety alerts and recalls of dangerous products. The Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) promotes the safety of consumer products by addressing unreasonable risks of injury and developing uniform safety standards. Not surprisingly, counterfeit and pirated products typically do not comply with CPSC requirements.

Consumer Product Safety Commission

CPSC promotes the safety of consumer products by addressing unreasonable risks of injury and developing uniform safety standards. Not surprisingly, counterfeit and pirated products typically do not comply with CPSC requirements.

U.S. Postal Service

As discussed in this report, one critical mission of USPS is to receive advance electronic data (AED) for inbound international mail, originating in 191 different countries. At present, USPS receives AED data from a majority of the inbound international mail it receives. However, it is also required, under the Synthetics Trafficking and Overdose Protection (STOP) Act of 2018, Pub. L. No. 115-271, §§ 8001-8009, 132 Stat. 3893, Title VIII, Subtitle A, to receive AED on all international mail packages by December 31, 2020.

Importantly, USPS provides the its advance electronic data it receives to CBP. This information sharing assists CBP in better targeting packages before the items arrive at the international service centers.

14. Appendix E: Global Initiatives

The proliferation of counterfeit goods on third-party marketplaces is a global problem. This Appendix offers a brief survey of some of the global options and cooperative efforts available to combat the trafficking of counterfeit and pirated goods.

International Organizations

The World Trade Organization's (WTO) Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights contains disciplines to protect intellectual property that are enforceable through the WTO's Dispute Settlement Body. The World Intellectual Property Organization, a United Nations specialized agency, is a global forum for intellectual property services, policy, information, and collaboration. The World Customs Organization (WCO) leads international customs cooperation, including with respect to the enforcement of intellectual property rights.

The International Police Organization (INTERPOL), in a partnership with Underwriters Laboratories (UL) operates the International IPR Crime Investigators College (IIPCIC). The mission of IIPCIC is to educate global law enforcement and stakeholder groups to effectively combat transnational IPR crime. Over 160 countries have visited the IIPCIC site since its launch and representatives from over 800 law enforcement agencies have enrolled in the training. INTERPOL enables its members to share and access data on crime and criminals, including counterfeit goods.

Europe

Several European government agencies have developed Memoranda of Understandings (MOUs) with the private sector to address counterfeit issues. For example, the European Commission has facilitated an MOU on the sale of counterfeit goods via the internet with major internet platforms and rights holders who are affected by online sales of counterfeit goods. The platforms commit to notice and take down procedures and to taking pro-active and preventive measures, such as the use of monitoring tools allowing detection of illegal content.

The European Commission also concluded an MOU on Online Advertising and IPR in 2018 that extends to trademarks and copyright. Signatories commit to minimize the placement of advertising on websites and mobile applications that infringe on IPR or disseminate counterfeit goods so as to reduce the revenues of these trafficking websites and apps.

In France, through the French Ministry of Economy, postal operators have signed a charter to address counterfeits with rights holders that focuses on outreach, collaboration and training. In December 2018, brand owners and certain online platforms also signed a charter to fight counterfeits online, which organizes cooperation between brand owners, online platforms, and law enforcement authorities and helps implement preventive measures as well as notice and takedown procedures.

There have also been European efforts to enhance technology associated with protecting intellectual property rights. The European Union Intellectual Property Office (EUIPO) held the inaugural EU Blockathon competition to develop IPR-protection solutions based on blockchain technologies.

The Intellectual Property Crime Coordinated Coalition (IPC3) at Europol provides operational and technical support to law-enforcement agencies and other partners in the EU. The IPC3 has supported more than 50 high-priority cases of intellectual property infringement. It takes down websites used to sell counterfeit merchandise and shut downs illegal operations that use bitcoin.

The City of London Police (CoLP), and IPR Center partner agency, host the Police Intellectual Property Crime Unit (PIPCU). CoLP is funded by the UK Intellectual Property Office to fight criminals who infringe trademark and copyrights. It works with law enforcement agencies in the UK and across the world to arrest criminals who engage in the production, importation and sale of counterfeit goods.

Postal and customs agencies in France and Italy have organized joint operations where all parcels entering the international office of exchanges from targeted countries are screened for counterfeit goods.

Canada

Canada has created Project Chargeback to fight counterfeiting, fraud, and IPR theft by enabling deceived consumers to get their money back. The initiative, which began in 2012, is administered by the Canadian Anti-Fraud Center (CAFC).

Under the authority of Project Chargeback, defrauded consumers can file a complaint with their bank or the CAFC and provide information on the purchase. The CAFC then works with rights holders to confirm that the goods were counterfeit and relays this information to the cardholder's bank.

The cardholder's bank then initiates a charge back against the seller's merchant account. That results in the termination of the merchant's account used by the counterfeiter, and the victims are instructed not to return the counterfeit goods to the seller.

15. References

Following the mandates set forth in President Trump's April 3, 2019, Memorandum on Combating Trafficking in Counterfeit and Pirated Goods, the report shall, as its primary goals:

- Analyze available data and other information to develop a deeper understanding of the extent to which online third-party marketplaces and other third-party intermediaries are used to facilitate the importation and sale of counterfeit and pirated goods;
- Identify the factors that contribute to trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods; and describe any market incentives and distortions that may contribute to third-party intermediaries facilitating trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods.
- Identify appropriate administrative, statutory, regulatory, or other changes, including enhanced enforcement actions, that could substantially reduce trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods or promote more effective law enforcement regarding trafficking in such goods.

In the course of pursuing these goals, the report shall also:

- Evaluate the existing policies and procedures of third-party intermediaries relating to trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods, and identify the practices of those entities that have been most effective in curbing the importation and sale of counterfeit and pirated goods, including those conveyed through online third-party marketplace
- Identify appropriate guidance that agencies may provide to third-party intermediaries to help them prevent the importation and sale of counterfeit and pirated goods.
- Identify appropriate administrative, regulatory, legislative, or policy changes that would enable agencies, as appropriate, to more effectively share information regarding counterfeit and pirated goods, including suspected counterfeit and pirated goods, with intellectual property rights holders, consumers, and third-party intermediaries.
- Evaluate the current and future resource needs of agencies and make appropriate recommendations for more effective detection, interdiction, investigation, and prosecution regarding trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods, including trafficking through online third-party marketplaces and other third-party intermediaries; and recommend changes to the data collection practices of agencies, including specification of categories of data that should be collected and appropriate standardization practices for data.
- Identify areas for collaboration between the Department of Justice and Department of Homeland Security on efforts to combat trafficking in counterfeit and pirated goods.

First, the package got lost on delivery and was delayed, and when they finally arrived it turns out these grips are way wider than 1 inch, they are too loose and won ' t work at all, the throttle grip won ' t even fit in the casing.

These are very poor quality grips that didn't even come close to fitting 1 in handlebars. The throttle cable boss is made of plastic. I returned them right away and bought grips for half the cost that were well made and fit well.

Almost no vibration.

Great value for the money, easy install, and very comfortable. Idk if it is by design or what, but I feel almost no vibration on my Harley with these grips, but can still feel the motor just fine. The only gripe is where the cables attach. A bit flimsy, but not too concerned as there is little to no pressure at that point. Great buy. Would recommend.

They fit nothing in my shop that is a motorcycle.

Reviewed in the United States on August 27, 2021

Size: Skull Color: 020-Chrome Verified Purchase

Do not buy, they will not work without re-machining them to fit. Service tech of 27yrs and these have to be hand fitted to ANY MACHINE LISTED, much less.any that are not. They are no where close to working on 1 inch bars. Verified that what I have are 1" bars. Verified that grips are for a 1" bar. 5 hours fitting a useless grip to get it to barely work right on throttle side, and they are so loose on the bars that a full tube of glue has to be used to set the solid grip side. Junk. Never seen any grip fit so poorly. These will cost you FAR more just to put on than what their face value is.

Great product. They may take a little time to get used to.

Reviewed in the United States on October 5, 2021
Size: 1 inch Color: Red Verified Purchase

I installed these grips on my 1985 Honda ATC 250SX. I think older machines like mine have handlebars made of tubing which is smaller in diameter than new machines. I tried each grip on each side and found that one was a perfect fit and the other was a bit loose. I wrapped some electrical tape around the handlebar side that had a loose fit and it fixed the issue. Where there's a will, there's a way.

Kind of hard to get on.. actually broke clutch side... Juice side finally got on with some grease and a rubber mallet. Also look a bit pink against red bike...

Cheap

Reviewed in the United States on December 17, 2015
Size: 1 inch Color: Red Verified Purchase
Grips are made of hard uncomfortable plastic. The Honda red is not like in photo, it is a faded red, almost an orange. Not worth the aggravation and cost to send back and definitely not a $36 grip as claimed. They will not be put on my bike.

Very good quality for the price! Nice and grippy.
A little difficult to fit on 7/8 bars. Gotta twist and pull it on, with more elbow grease than usual.

Solid for what it is

Reviewed in the United States on December 18, 2021

The product itself is great but don't recommend buying it if you own a 2006 zx-6R it doesn't fit properly you will have a huge space gap on the bike to the covers and it does not look good a little modification needed on my 2005 636

Reviewed in Canada on May 3, 2020

I had to drill out the mirror holes in my fairing larger to get the block off plates to fit but other than that I'm satisfied with my purchase.

Wisco Valk rider

Reviewed in the United States on August 18, 2021

This was bent when I received it but it was easy enough to straighten out since it's rather thin. Still nice to get some Valk bling for my dragon.

Looks good

Reviewed in the United States on April 19, 2021

Verified Purchase

Does need a little polishing after the protective cover comes off and is only polished on the side that matters. Does brighten up a dull area and looks 100% better than the stock mesh. Forks were off for a seal change.

The guard was a direct fit using the same hardware that the original guard had. The product came quickly and was immediately installed. Quick turnaround and great timing from the vendor.

Better than stock but still has more than ideal give when pushing my bike up the driveway. If I had to do it again I'd spend a little more on a different brand. If you're not picky this is still a great buy.

It works, but it was used?

Reviewed in the United States on November 9, 2021

Verified Purchase

I received the stator cover and installed it on my 2006 busa, but it had oil residue in on the inside of the cover. The outside was fine, but it was certainly used.

Great if you don't mind hot handle bars in the summer

Reviewed in the United States on June 25, 2020

Size: 7/8" Color: Black Verified Purchase

Didn't install good quality, did receive item with nicks in the paint but was sturdy. Only returned due to them being metal and living in an area with a lot of sun exposure.

Very nice handlebars! , very good quality Looks great on my "06 Suzuki Hayabusa. The only thing is that the set screws are a little bit short, I would replace them by longer Ones, approximately 3 mm longer

Poorly designed

Reviewed in the United States on January 18, 2021

Size: 7/8" Color: Black Verified Purchase

The screws to lock the grip from twisting are tiny and chinsey. The allan key that is sent with them isnt the right size. If you have the correct size you will end up stripping the head of the microscopic screw or strip out the hole. I like the way they look but they wont stay on. I also expected there to be a little bit of rubber gripping around them not all metal.

Good buy for the price, Make sure it fits

The cap came exactly as shown. Its a nice heavy metal. Just be sure that your bike is one of the ones in the description before buying. I had a Ninja 300 and saw that the ninja 250 was on the list, but the cap didn't fit. But that was my mistake and the cap seems to be solid and a good buy.
